PINNED IN WRECKAGE — Officers from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, employees of Ted Warner's Wrecking Service and other helpers on the scene, try desperately to free Mrs. Vickie James, 28, West Union, W.

Va. from the wreckage of her car. It took a half hour to extricate the woman's body, and it is believed by the Sheriff's Department that she and the three other persons killed in the truck-car collision Saturday night on Ohio 41-S died instantly.

STOP SIGN STANDS — Ironically, the stop sign at the intersection of Ohio Rt. 41 and Rowe-Ging Road still stands after a truck and a Volkswagen collided near it and even knocked over a utility pole, bringing down a live 22,000-volt wire. Even more ironic is the fact that investigating sheriff's deputies believe failure to heed the stop sign was the cause of the tragedy which killed four people Saturday night. They believe the driver of the truck, Robert G. Smith, 43, Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., ran the stop sign and then collided with the Volkswagen traveling on Ohio Rt. 41.

Fighting increases in Mideast

By The Associated Press

Israeli and Syrian gunners traded artillery and tank fire on the Golan Heights war front today after a weekend of the hardest fighting since the October war.

The Israeli military command said shelling resumed this morning along the northern sector of the 300-square-mile bulge captured by Israel during the October fighting.

The announcement made no mention of casualties.

The command also announced the appointment of Brig. Gen. Rafael Eytan, who led Israel's thrust into Syria in October, to command Israel's northern front with both Syria and Lebanon.

Eytan, who was promoted to major general, takes over from Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, who was promoted to chief of staff.

Israeli fighter-bombers on Sunday attacked Syrian forces on Mt. Hermon and the Golan Heights while below them the armies of the two countries battled fiercely with tanks and artillery.

The Israeli military command said all its planes returned safely Sunday, denying a Syrian claim that four were downed. Syria also claimed 50 Israeli ground troops were killed or wounded, but Israel said only 17 were wounded.

Federal income tax deadline arrives; expect late flood

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is April 15, the deadline for filing your 1973 income tax return, unless you live in Maine, Massachusetts or North Carolina.

In those states you have until Tuesday because today is a legal holiday — Patriot's day in Maine and Massachusetts and Easter Monday in North Carolina.

The Internal Revenue Service estimated that it will receive more than 80 million returns this year, up considerably from 425,000 returns filed in 1913, the year that the Payne-Aldrich act created the income tax.

And of these 80 million, officials say nearly half are sent in during the last two weeks, with many tax-payers hurrying to the post office to get them postmarked before the midnight deadline.

Officials of the IRS declined to estimate the number of persons who may be trying to cheat on their taxes, although one spokesman said such attempts seem to be running about the same level as in the past.

Last year the IRS prosecuted 1,342

Syria said 15 of its soldiers were killed and 10 were wounded.

Israel said a Syrian commando unit made another unsuccessful attempt to capture an Israeli observation post at the northern end of 9,000-foot Mt. Hermon, which has an unrestricted view for 100 miles and more into Syria.

Later in the day, tanks and artillery duelled the length of the 40-mile front across the Golan Heights, and Israeli planes attacked the Syrian positions for four hours during the afternoon, the Israeli command said.

Meanwhile, the U.N. Security Council was to be called into session this afternoon to discuss the Israeli raid on six Lebanese villages Friday night. The raid was in retaliation for an Arab guerrilla attack from Lebanon last Thursday on an Israeli village in which 18 Israelis and the three guerrillas died.

Lebanon reported to the Council that "two Lebanese civilians were killed and others wounded, 13 Lebanese civilians were kidnapped and 31 houses destroyed" in the Israeli raid.

The council was expected to adopt a resolution later in the week condemning Israel, and Israel was expected to ignore it.

In Israel, President Ehud Barak gave the Labor party 10 days to find a successor to Premier Golda Meir. He

Thanks to withholding, many taxpayers are in line for refunds, and the IRS says the average refund this year is about $360.

Free tax assistance is offered by IRS, but spokesmen report that nearly half of the nation's taxpayers seek assistance from commercial tax preparers.

And the Tax Reform Research Group, an investigative organization, has charged that checks of IRS offices in seven states revealed mistakes and inconsistencies in the advice IRS gives to taxpayers.

Officials said group staffers took identical tax forms and questions to at least three IRS offices in each of seven states. They said IRS advice ranged from telling them they could expect a refund of $812 in Flushing, N.Y., but that they owed the government $52 at the Portland, Ore., office.

Kissinger talks to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was expected to give the United States government's qualified support today to the demands of less developed nations for greater participation in the use of the world's natural resources.

At the same time, Kissinger's speech to the United Nations General Assembly was to include an assertion of the industrialized world's claim to continued access to raw materials.

U.S. officials said the secretary's address would be relatively brief and would stress three things:

1. There is a need for a more equitable handling of the world's natural resources.

2. A solution must result from cooperative planning, and the less developed nations who hold raw materials should not seek a confrontation with the richer countries.

3. The General Assembly should avoid broad, grandiose declarations and work instead from a base of relatively narrow, practical agreements.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert observed the start of Congress' Easter break by issuing a statement of accomplishments and plans with national health insurance placed first on the list.

The statement was compiled after a joint meeting of the House and Senate Democratic leadership. It added to other indications that the congressional chiefs are trimming their overgrown agenda and aiming at enactment of a choice package of voter-appealing measures.

General tax reform does not even appear on Albert's list.

Under the new Ohio Revised Code this offense is a minor misdemeanor, carrying with it a maximum fine of $100. Smith presently is free under $100 bond.

Sheriff Thompson said he was fearful of what else could have happened Saturday night with people milling around, getting in the way of ambulances and officers at the scene.

"In a situation like this, every second counts," Thompson exclaimed. "A crowd of people, such as Saturday night, could have easily caused a death by their getting in the way and impeding ambulance progress. It's best to be careful, keep moving and follow the instructions officers give."

Thompson added even when it was realized a live 22,000-volt electric line was on the ground and the sight seers

Death apparently came instantaneously to four persons involved in a two-vehicle accident at 10:02 p.m. Saturday, at the intersection of Ohio Rt. 41-S and Rowe-Ging Road.

Dead are:

Robert G. Smith, 43, Staunton-Sugar Grove Road;

Mrs. Vickie James, 28, West Union, W. Va.;

Her son, Phillip W. James, 5, West Union, W. Va.;

Mrs. Lois M. Smith, 32, Greenfield.

The four victims were pronounced dead on arrival at Fayette Memorial Hospital by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

Two other children were injured. Sheriff Don Thompson and his deputies, who investigated the accident, believe Robert Smith, who was driving a 1968 GMC pickup truck, ran the stop sign at the intersection of Rowe-Ging Road and Ohio Rt. 41-S at Wilson School.

Mrs. James, her three children and a friend, Mrs. Lois Smith, were traveling in a 1971 Volkswagen on Ohio Rt. 41, and collided with the Smith truck.

Impact of the accident caused Todd and Chad James, the only survivors of the accident, to be thrown from the Volkswagen. The bodies of Mrs. James and Mrs. Smith were pinned in the wreckage and Phillip James was found in the rear seat. Robert Smith's body was pinned in his truck, which overturned against a utility pole, bringing down a live 22,000-volt wire.

The bodies of those pinned in the wreckage were extricated by officers and employees of the Ted Warner Wrecking Service.

Sheriff's Deputies Robert A. Russell and R.W. Burke, who first arrived on the scene, summoned three ambulances which, after taking the victims to Fayette Memorial Hospital, removed the four bodies to Murray Funeral Home in Greenfield.

Sheriff Thompson and deputies Kenneth Smith and Robert L. Cannon were soon on the scene along with Ronald Palmer, a Washington C.H. auxiliary policeman, who assisted by directing traffic.

The two children who lived through the accident, Todd Allen James, 9, West Union, W. Va., and his brother, Chad C. James, 2, were thrown from the Volkswagen. Todd was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital for scalp lacerations and admitted. He is reported in fair condition. Chad was also treated at the hospital for scalp lacerations but was released.

Sheriff Thompson told The Record-Herald that ambulances and officers at the scene were hindered by the crowd of onlookers who pulled over on the roadside to see what had happened.

One of them, Harold E. Smith, 19, Bloomington, was placed under arrest by Sheriff Thompson and charged with refusal to comply with orders of a police officer during a time of emergency.

Under the new Ohio Revised Code this offense is a minor misdemeanor, carrying with it a maximum fine of $100. Smith presently is free under $100 bond.

High winds, rain sweep over Ohio

By The Associated Press

High winds, rain mixed with pelting hail and two tornadoes interrupted an otherwise partly cloudy and comfortable Easter Sunday, the National Weather Service said.

The storms which raced through Ohio at midday left roofs off their hinges and some trees uprooted in Central Ohio, authorities reported.

Most of the day was filled with sunshine and warm temperatures as many Ohioans took to the roads and outside to enjoy one of the first breaks in rainy, cold weather.

Tornadoes were sighted by the weather service at Grove City and La Rue. Winds near the twisters were clocked up to 70 m.p.h., the service said.

At least five persons were injured when several mobile homes in the Marion area were damaged by high winds, rain and hail, authorities said.

Three persons received minor cuts and bruises when winds toppled more than a half-dozen trailer homes near New Bloomington, a dispatcher at the La Rue Fire Department said.

There were power outages in southwest Ohio as a result of the high winds, authorities said.

Most of the state was under a tornado watch Sunday afternoon as a storm front moved through the state from Indiana into Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Northern Ohio was warned of high winds through the evening.

A low pressure system and associated cold front were responsible for Sunday's turbulent weather.

By dawn today the system had

Blustery gales cause area loss

Once again Fayette County area residents stood under the shadow of tornado and severe storm alerts as heavy winds disturbed a calm Easter Sunday.

Fayette County and several neighboring counties were placed under a tornado warning for several hours Sunday afternoon, but only scattered wind damage was reported.

George Winkle, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co., Washington C.H. district office, said damage was "fairly heavy but scattered" as power lines, poles and transformers were downed by the strong wind gusts.

A 7,200-volt power line was downed at 2:10 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of CCC Highway-E and West Road, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Sgt. William R. Crooks, of the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, and a passing motorist were able to remove a fallen telephone pole which had blocked traffic on Creek Road, just south of Flakes Ford Road, at 3:34 p.m. Sunday. Ohio Bell Telephone Co. workers were dispatched to the scene for repairs.

The strong winds blew a large barn from its foundation near Jeffersonville Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John Hoppes, who resides on the farm located on Blessing Chapel Road, about three miles north of Jeffersonville, said the large two-story wooden barn was blown from its foundation shortly after 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Two horses and about $5,000 worth of hay, plus some small farm equipment were lost. The farm is owned by Mrs. Pearl Hoppes.

While high winds plagued area residents, only a trace of precipitation was recorded. Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C.H. weather observer, measured .02 of an inch, part of it as hail, in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

moved north and east of the state, leaving behind only a few lingering showers and strong westerly winds.

This activity was forecast to diminish by afternoon, and clearing skies were expected over southern counties.

Cooler temperatures were forecast across the state tonight and Tuesday.

Americans 'complacent' about energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Environmental Protection Agency says the end of the Arab oil embargo has prompted Americans to become "very complacent" again about conserving energy.

EPA Administrator Russel Train said Sunday there was too much emphasis on expanding supplies of energy rather than reducing demand.

"I am concerned that with the cutoff of the Arab embargo the American public is going to go back to its wasteful ways," Train said on the CBS television program "Face the Nation."

"I think that we're very complacent about this, not really recognizing that we're in for a long-term energy problem in this country," he said.

We've got to make up our minds...that we better start giving the highest possible priority to reducing the use of energy."

Train said a switch to smaller cars is "probably the largest single energy savings that we could make."

Meanwhile, New England utilities today return their voltage to full power after a winter cutback to save fuel.

A spokesman for the New England Power Pool said the federal allocation system and ending of the oil embargo have stabilized the supply of fuel to the region's electric generating plants.

Brooke pushes Nixon to quit

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., says he favors granting immunity to President Nixon from Watergate-related charges if the President agrees to resign.

"The price of stepping down from the highest office in this country would be a penalty that would meet any crime that could have been committed," Brooke said in a television interview Sunday.

He said Nixon's resignation would have to be accompanied by a bill of particulars outlining the charges to which he would admit guilt, similar to the procedure followed when former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew stepped down and pleaded no contest to federal tax charges.

Congress to push health insurance plan

pre-empt much of its time between now and the November election, Congress is beginning to feel squeezed.

One of the items that could fall to the cutting-room floor is across-the-board tax reform. Only last year a concerted drive to close loopholes was being trumpeted by many as Congress' prime concern and assurances were given that the House Ways and Means Committee, which made a start early in 1973, would turn to it again early this year.

General tax reform does not even appear on Albert's list.

The Ways and Means Committee set tax reform aside last year at President Nixon's request to take up his foreign trade bill.

Ways and Means — the tax, trade and Social Security committee — did not go back promptly to the loophole-closing job. It sent a Social Security benefit increase on to enactment and then worked out a massive pension reform bill, which is now in conference for reconciliation with a Senate-passed measure.

Next the tax writers took up a limited tax bill with high topical appeal — a levy on crisis-swollen windfall profits of oil companies.

Ready to be sent to the House when Congress returns, the bill sets stiff taxes on windfall profits, but allows oil companies to avoid payment of much of these by plowing the funds back into exploration and development of additional energy supplies. It also provides for a gradual phaseout of the controversial oil depletion allowance.

Meanwhile, there was a breakthrough in the years-long effort to form a winning coalition behind a plan

Mr. Honaker, a native of Zebulon, Ky., died at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at his home. He was a retired employee of the Norfolk and Western Railroad with whom he had worked at the Portsmouth yards for 46 years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gertrude Thompson; a son, Dr. Thomas T. Honaker, Portsmouth; four daughters, Mrs. Mary L. Arnold, Cincinnati, Mrs. Clara Fleser, Waverly, Mrs. Glenn Armintroit, Bogus Rd., and Mrs. Geneva Dameron, Kent; 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

HARRY F. ROBERTS — Funeral services for Harry F. Roberts, 81, of 1203 Willard St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, with the Rev. Russell Knisley officiating. Mr. Roberts, a resident of Fayette County for the past 60 years and a retired storekeeper, died Wednesday.

Mrs. Glenn Roberts and Mrs. George Salyers sang two hymns, accompanied by Mrs. Maudeline Bonecutter at the organ. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Glenn, James and Gerald Roberts, Eugene Summers, James Patton and Edward West. Arrangements were under the direction of the Parrett Funeral Home.

JAMES D. BREWER — Services for James D. Brewer, 67, of Sabina, were held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. Terry Parnell officiating. Mr. Brewer, a retired farmer, died Wednesday.

Mr. Walter Stackhouse, was the organist, and Miss Mary Ann Sharp sang two hymns. Pallbearers for the burial in 100F Cemetery, New Vienna, were Charles and Leon Brewer, Gary Coy, Phil Jones, John Carey and Dick Dailey.

OVA W. GIBSON — Services for Ova W. Gibson, 79, of Reevesville, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. Ted Cano officiating. Mr. Gibson died Wednesday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Clinton County Memory Gardens were John Graham, Leroy Woodland, Tim, Ron and Delbert Gibson, Fred Wiget, Ronald Witham and Denver Roland.

MRS. GRACE DAY — Services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, for Mrs. Grace McVey Day, 86, who died Thursday in the home of a son in Charlotte, N. Car. The Rev. Ted Cano, pastor of the Richland United Methodist Church, officiated, and Mrs. Walter Stackhouse was at the organ.

Pallbearers for the burial in Lees Creek Cemetery were Dwight Holmes, Robert and Edgar McFadden, Clarence Hodson, Harold and Harry McVey and Darrell Woodruff.

See food stamp eligibility rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff study says rising food prices over the next two years may result in making one out of every four Americans eligible for government food stamps.

This would push program costs from the current $3 billion annually to a possible $10 billion, according to a staff study prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee.

The study was released Sunday by Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., chairman of the joint committee's fiscal policy subcommittee.

"Unless food prices stabilize before July 4, 1976, an estimated 60 million Americans — more than one in four — might be eligible for food stamps at some time during the nation's bicentennial year," Mrs. Griffiths said in a statement.

Cecil W. Benson

GREENFIELD — Cecil W. Benson, 53, of Greenfield, died at 6:15 p.m. Sunday in Greenfield Hospital. A native of Pike County, Mr. Benson had resided in Greenfield for many years and had been ill for some time.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary O'Connor whom he married in 1960; a daughter, Miss Betty Ann Benson, at home; four stepdaughters, Mrs. Nora Pollick, Gary, Ind., Mrs. Evelyn Briscoe, Greenfield, Mrs. Virginia Penwell, Vevay, Ind., and Mrs. Shirley Miller, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and seven stepsons, Henry, Fred, George, Ben and Eugene Penwell, of Greenfield, Everett Penwell, South Salem, and Lloyd Penwell, Michigan City, Ind. One stepson preceded him in death.

Also surviving are a brother, Harley Benson, of Greenfield, and five sisters, Mrs. Rosa Clouser and Mrs. Ethel Bennett, of Greenfield, Mrs. Goldie Wilson, Rt. 1, Washington C.H., Miss Iva Benson, Springfield, and Mrs. Frances Woehler, Cincinnati. Two brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Greenfield United Brethren Church, with the Rev. Robert K. Blaine officiating. Burial will be in Greenfield Cemetery. Friends may call at the Murray Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Wednesday.

MRS. CLEO N. COIL — Services for Mrs. Cleo Null Coil, 70, a former resident of Jeffersonville and London, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Morrow Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Charles Richmond officiating. Mrs. Coil, the widow of William Coil, died Thursday in the Washington Avenue Nursing Home here.

Mrs. Richmond was the vocalist. Pallbearers for the burial in Fairview Cemetery were William Casto Sr., William Casto Jr., Charles Ellis, Lloyd Barnhart, Donald Miller, Roger Boyssel, Lawrence William Coil and Gary Coil.

Showers, fog mark weather

By The Associated Press
Thundershowers rumbled through the Northeast and the South today, while high winds caused flooding on the eastern coast of Lake Erie.

The showers in the Northeast spread from New England to eastern Pennsylvania. Fog cut visibilities to less than a miles along portions of the north Atlantic coast.

Parts of New York also reported thundershowers.

Waters of wind-whipped Lake Erie brought some flooding along the shore at Buffalo, N.Y., and Erie, Pa. Gusts were reported to reach 50 miles per hour.

In the South, thundershowers spread along the Carolina coast and the Gulf coast from Louisiana to southern Texas. Hail the size of golf balls pelted the Texas communities of Charlotte and Derby on Sunday night.

Elsewhere, rain and thundershowers were reported in parts of Florida, Nebraska and South Dakota. Drizzle pestered northern Indiana and light snow fell in Northern Michigan.

Some clouds spread over the Pacific Northwest, but skies were mostly clear west of the Mississippi.

Freeze warnings were posted in Missouri, where temperatures were expected to dip during the night.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 77 at Key West, Fla., to 24 at Laramie, Wyo.

Steel plan to cost $31 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50,000 steel workers are to benefit from $31 million in back wages to be paid out under an industry-wide plan for ending racial and sex discrimination in employment.

Government sources said the agreement, resulting from lengthy industry-government negotiations, was to be formalized today with the signing of a consent decree in U.S. District Court by officials of nine major steel firms.

The voluntary agreement is believed to mark the country's first industry-wide equal employment program and could set a pattern for similar programs in other industries.

The United Steelworkers Union, which holds contracts with the nine companies, agreed to contribute a share of the back wages.

In return for the voluntary agreement, the firms involved will be exempt from any equal opportunity

Weekend crashes claim 13 lives

By The Associated Press

Thirteen persons died on Ohio's highways over the Easter weekend, four of them in a single accident Saturday near Washington Court House.

Two died in a Friday night crash at Cincinnati. The others, including two motorcyclists, died in separate accidents.

The dead:

SUNDAY

PORT CLINTON — John A. Bargo Sr., 55, Port Clinton, killed when his car struck a stone pillar on an Ottawa County road three miles east of Port Clinton.

CINCINNATI — Steven A. Hogan, 18, Cincinnati, killed when his car ran off Ohio 32 near Newton, hit a pole and burst into flames.

CINCINNATI — Margaret Scott, 17, address unknown, in a one-car crash on U. S. 50 in Hamilton County.

GARFIELD — James O'Day, 18, of Garfield Heights, when his motorcycle

SATURDAY

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE — Robert G. Smith, 42, Washington Court House, Lois Maxine Smith, 32, of Greenfield, and Vickie James, 28, West Union, W.Va., and a passenger, Phillip Wayne James, 5, also of West Union, in a two-car collision two miles south of Washington Court House on Ohio 41.

MANSFIELD — James Precht, 32, Shelby, when his motorcycle veered off a Mansfield street and slammed into a sign.

DELAWARE — Patricia Adkins, 35, Sunbury, in a one-car crash on Ohio 605 in Delaware County.

MEDIAN — Brian Keton, 17, Medina, in a car-train crash on Ohio 252 in Medina County.

FRIDAY NIGHT

CINCINNATI — Alicia Allen, 22, Cincinnati, and her sister, Gane Mitchell, 3, also of Cincinnati, in a two-car crash on Central Parkway.

Proxmire pushes end to agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire today called for abolition of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Selective Service and 14 other agencies on grounds they are useless and wasteful.

Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic subcommittee on priorities and economy in government, said that if any of the 16 are serving a useful purpose their functions can be moved to an existing agency.

"Virtually every bill passed by the Congress and signed by the president establishes some new agency, commission, board or advisory council," Proxmire said in a statement. "Once started, they take on a life of their own. They are never abolished."

For example, Proxmire said, Selective Service is asking $41 million this year to keep in operation even though under the law no one can be drafted.

Here are other agencies he proposes to abolish, and his reasons: Renegotiation Board — He said this agency, which reviews profits of companies doing business with the

3 persons marked for death by Symbionese Liberationists

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The three persons marked for death by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army are trying to prove they are not FBI informers and have gone underground to avoid being "shot on sight."

SLA "death warrants" for Colston Westbrook, Chris Thompson and Robyn Steiner were included in the last communication from the group that claimed responsibility for kidnapping newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

SLA Field Marshal General Cinque issued the execution orders in the April 3 message, which also included Miss Hearst's declaration that she had joined her terrorist kidnappers and renounced her family.

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP) — Doctors declared U.S. Information Service chief Alfred Laun III "out of danger" today more than 72 hours after Marxist guerrillas shot him in the stomach, kidnapped him and abandoned him.

Doctors said they will decide in the next 48 hours whether it is convenient to transfer Laun to Buenos Aires.

The 36-year-old American was shot as he struggled with guerrillas of the People's Revolutionary Army who kidnapped him Friday from his home 20 miles north of Cordoba.

He was found abandoned 15 hours later on a street in Cordoba and rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery.

A communique issued by the guerrilla group said Laun was to have been tried by a "people's court" for alleged links with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and for giving communications assistance to the right-wing military leaders who overthrew the late President Salvador Allende in Chile last September.

employment suits for five years, sources said.

Under the agreement, elimination of seniority along racial lines in steel mills would be accompanied by setting of goals and timetables for the hiring and promotion of minority workers. The program also would eliminate sex-based discrimination.

The agreement calls for replacing the industry's current system of dual seniority with plant-wide seniority systems.

To counter sex discrimination, the steel firms agreed to make good-faith efforts to hire one woman for every four men added to the production and maintenance payroll.

The accord, which grew out of negotiations with the Equal Opportunity Commission and the Justice and Labor departments, would provide individual payments of back wages ranging from $250 to $1,000, with the average estimated at about $600.

The back pay would be divided

Prison gambling may be started

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Donald Bordenkircher, warden of the West Virginia Penitentiary, says he is considering instituting gambling under controlled conditions at the maximum security prison.

Money from the gambling would go into the inmate benefit fund for use in purchasing items for the entire prison population.

"It takes men out of the corridors in the evenings when they have nothing to do and gives them enjoyable entertainment," the warden said in an interview Sunday.

Report Nixon put pressure on Agnew for resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new book on Spiro T. Anew's tax case says that while President Nixon kept voicing support for Agnew in public, White House aides eventually met privately with Agnew to demand his resignation.

Nixon was particularly worried about Agnew taking the "impeachment track" by aiming his case toward the House of Representatives, according to the book, "A Heartbeat Away," being published today by Viking Press.

Agnew finally made a deal with the Justice Department, resigned Oct. 10 and pleaded no contest to a single charge of income tax evasion.

The authors of the book, Washington Post reporters Richard M. Cohen and Jules Witcover, said the Agnew impeachment option "was fraught with ominous parallel for the President himself.

"If Agnew could be impeached and convicted, then perhaps it would not be so difficult for the now-reluctant congressmen to place Nixon on the same track and ride him out of office.

"Also, an Agnew impeachment trial would raise in unavoidable terms the basic constitutional question vexing the Watergate-plagued President: Was impeachment the mandatory first step for a president or vice president accused of crime, or could he be indicted first in a court of law?

"Finally, once committed to the impeachment track, Agnew would be much less likely to agree to the swift, surgical solution that the President wanted — his resignation," the book said.

Cohen and Witcover said that the decisive incident behind Agnew's agreeing to resign was a meeting Sept. 10 involving the vice

Reformatory guards strike at Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mansfield Reformatory was operating "fairly normally" in spite of a strike by more than half of the prison's employees, Supt. Robert White said Sunday.

Pickets barred deliveries of food and other supplies, White said, as the strike entered its third day Monday.

Some 260 of the institution's 450 guard and nonsupervisory employees were off the job in what they describe as a "confrontation" with prison officials over a list of grievances.

Some workers inside the prison were operating the prison, White said.

A Richland County judge ordered the number of pickets at the facility's entrance be limited, White said, but strikers ignored the injunction.

The facility houses about 1,300 inmates, White said.

The workers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, submitted a list of grievances last week.

It included a request for an officers' lounge and new parking lot, White said.

Guards were also upset over complaints of brutality lodged by inmates with the prison's citizen advisory council, White said. A council member was reported to have made public the complaints last week, inciting the walkout.

White said no negotiations have been attempted. Representatives of the workers met with officials of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction last Thursday in Columbus.

Another meeting was scheduled for Tuesday, but there's no word on whether that will take place, White said.

President given decorated egg

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was met with applause and given a decorated egg after Easter services.

Nixon, his wife, Pat, daughter and son-in-law Tricia and Edward Cox and his friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo attended services Sunday at the Community Church near the Florida White House. The Rev. J.A. Geschwind wished the Nixons a happy Easter and said, "Our hearts are warmed by the presence of the First Family."

Youngsters applauded and shouted "Happy Easter" as the Nixon party left the church. Ten-year-old Martha Hutcheson presented the President with a decorated, purple egg.

Lottery Commission seeks headquarters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Selection of a location in Cleveland for permanent headquarters of the new Ohio Lottery Commission will be the subject of a meeting Tuesday in the lakeside city.

The commission's executive director, John Kirkland, said two sites were under consideration as headquarters—the University Circle Research Center near Case Western Reserve University and the Ernest J. Bohn Towers in the downtown area.

David Leahy, the commission's chairman, said both sites are viewed as excellent locations.

University Circle Research Center Corp. owns the campus site, and the other building is a public housing project for the elderly, with office space on the lower floors. It is owned by the Rockwell Development Co.

The headquarters can be in business in 60 days, once a decision is made, Leahy said.

He has said before ticket sales will begin in late July.

The Ohio Ethics Commission, in the meantime, is expected to decide within the next few months on a possible conflict of interest involving a member of the commission, Louis S. Goldman of Dayton.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, earlier this year, asked the ethics panel to determine whether Goldman's position as a senior partner in a Dayton law firm violated Ohio's new ethics law.

It was noted at the time Goldman's firm does business with several state agencies, including the Ohio Department of Taxation and the state Board of Tax Appeals.

The General Assembly last year passed a code of ethics outlawing any public official from practicing law before state agencies.

Goldman himself raised the conflict of interest question in a Jan. 7 letter to Gilligan, and offered his resignation at the governor's discretion.

Campaign records showed the next day, Jan. 8, Gilligan's reelection campaign got a $3,000 contribution from Goldman.

Burning waste in St. Louis

There is a satisfying directness about St. Louis' approach to the problem of solid waste disposal. The waste is being burned, in a mixture of roughly 20 per cent trash and 80 per cent coal, to produce electricity.

Not just a little trash; all of it from a great city, with the electric company selling the non-burnable residue to firms that can make use of it.

Other cities are conducting various experiments in conversion of solid wastes to fuel for this or that purpose — to provide some heat for downtown buildings in Baltimore, for example.

The beauty of the St. Louis method is its simplicity. There is no intermediate processing to all to the complexity and therefore the cost of the operation; the waste is burned firsthand.

The St. Louis system merits intensive study by other communities. As conventional fuel costs rise, the use of solid waste for fuel becomes steadily more attractive.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

A governor who sees for himself

The Republicans are in a sweat about the elections that are coming up this fall. But Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire has a relaxed attitude about things. He doesn't think the people are tired of Republicans as Republicans.

"This country," he says, "is tired of incumbents."

And, since there are more Democratic incumbents in office than there are Republicans, it follows from the governor's observation that the slaughter this coming November is likely to take some surprising turns.

Gov. Thomson is the most unusual of our politicians. He goes to governors' conferences and is appalled to find himself mingling with a most abject and timorous lot of men. They want the fruits of energy — the gasoline taxes, federal money for roads and whatnot — but a handful of self-proclaimed environmentalists can send them into a tizzy when it is a matter of doing anything about an Alaskan pipeline or a new seacoast refinery.

Practically alone in the New England states, the New Hampshire governor decided his region needed at least one refinery to take care of a future that is going to need more industry, not less. So he got into a hassle with the townspeople of Durham, who decided they wanted no part of a $600 million refinery that Aristotle Onassis' Olympic Refineries, Inc. offered to build.

WHEN, at the beginning of an interview, I commiserated with him about the rejection, he laughed it off. Onassis, he said, was still interested, and there are other towns in New Hampshire besides Durham. The refinery, he insisted, would be built elsewhere.

What I like about Gov. Thomson is that he goes and looks at things for himself. When the self-proclaimed environmentalists ran through the standard list of horrors that are supposedly inseparable from energy developments, the governor persuaded John Sherwin, a Manchester, N.Y., orthopedic surgeon, to fly him to the Golden Eagle refinery near Quebec City in Canada.

The Golden Eagle, a new operation, impressed him as being clean, odorless and as foolproof as any industrial plant can hope to be. He came home and told the citizens of his state what he had seen.

He also reported on what he had heard: the Golden Eagle, in five years, has had one accident, a spillage of 50 barrels of oil which cost $20,000 to clean up. One accident in five years impressed the governor as a reasonable hazard that would cause no permanent damage.

NOT CONTENT with looking at a modern refinery, Thomson poked his inquisitive nose into the Turkey Point nuclear power plant, built on the edge of a mangrove swamp by the Florida Power and Light Co. He was impressed with the fact that the safety monitoring of the plant is done by instruments built in triplicate.

The plant discharges its overheated water into a series of 38 canals that cool it some 15 degrees before it is used over again. While on its way through the maze of canals, the warm water supports a wide variety of marine life that thrives on heat. The shrimp industry is quite compatible with high water temperatures.

The reason why Gov. Thomson wanted a special look at a new atomic power plant is that New England, which already gets 13 per cent of its energy from nuclear sources, is going to require more, not less, atomic power whether it builds oil refineries or not.

New Hampshire has no sales tax and no income tax. I asked the governor how a state could be run without such routine sources of revenue. Said he, "In New Hampshire we live by taxing sin."

The state lottery lets the gamblers pay part of the cost of government, and the governor expects to get more money from legalized dog racing. This lets the more solid citizens keep their money to invest in good job-producing businesses, which benefits New Hampshire all around.

The governor's winning slogan is: "Axe the tax." He commends it to Washington politicians who are in danger of losing simply because they are incumbents.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

The abortion issue

WASHINGTON — It is not all Nixon-Watergate in this election year. Churning half submerged are issues that have a high emotional voltage and at the top of the list is abortion.

While it got little national attention, abortion may have had as much to do with the outcome in the Cincinnati election when Thomas A. Luken, a Democrat, defeated Willis A. Gradison Jr., Republican, for a seat that had been safely in the Republican column for 40 years, as the President's plumb and the Watergate horrors.

The Greater Cincinnati Right to Life Committee put it squarely up to both candidates as that fiercely fought contest came down to the wire. The question put to both candidates was: If elected to Congress will you vote for the Hogan-Buckley right to life amendment?

LUKEN, a Roman Catholic, answered yes. Gradison replied that while he was against abortion he was opposed to the amendment. In response to "potent religious pressures," as Gradison put it, this would enforce my views on others. It would be "another step toward a police state in America."

From then on abortion was a hot issue. Gradison brought Sen. James Buckley into the district to campaign for him. But Buckley's stand was considered by many Catholics and by others in the religious opposition to be equivocal or at least not as strong as those against any form of legal abortion.

Luken won by 4,100 votes, getting 52 per cent of the total cast. He had pledged to vote for a discharge petition to take the anti-abortion amendment out of committee so that it could come to the floor of the House of Representatives.

That is the goal of the Right to Life lobbies throughout the country. In this way they hope to put every member of the House on record.

THIS BITTER controversy will be replayed in November since Gradison intends to run against Luken in the fall. It promises to come up in many congressional districts particularly where there is a large Catholic vote.

In Michigan, where President Nixon has sharpened a contest for another vacant seat long held by the GOP, abortion will not be an issue. That is because both candidates, James A.

Sparling, the Republican, and the Democrat, Bob Traxler, have both declared in favor of the amendment to the Constitution that would prohibit lawful abortion.

This is against the background of a fierce contest that brought abortion into the consciousness of Michigan voters throughout the state. A state constitutional amendment outlawing legal abortion was put on the ballot in the November election of 1972. At the start the polls showed that more than 50 per cent of the voters opposed the amendment.

But then the Right to Life organization began an intensive campaign. For three weeks they flooded the media with highly emotional propaganda. Full-page ads equated abortion with murder.

THE VOTE in November was 56 per cent for the amendment. It was a triumph for the forces, preponderantly Roman Catholic, that had swung the electorate against abortion in a remarkable short time.

On Jan. 22, 1973, the Supreme Court held in a lengthy decision written by Justice Harry A. Blackmun that any law prohibiting abortion would be a violation of the right of a woman to make her own choice up to three months of pregnancy.

The 7-to-2 decision by a Nixon appointee to the court stirred a storm of protest. Demonstrations were held in many cities. The proposed amendment to the Constitution supported by the Right to Life lobbies would undo the court's decision.

Four Cardinals of the church appeared before a congressional committee to voice their backing for the amendment. Mail inspired by Right to Life began pouring into the Capitol. Not for many years has an issue stirred such depths of feeling.

When they talk candidly in private, those at the top in Right to Life doubt that the amendment requiring under the Constitution a vote of ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures will be adopted.

In the meantime the right to abortion is being chipped away and particularly for the poor. For the rich it has never been a problem.

Hearings on budget boost slated

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings before the Senate Finance Committee are expected to begin soon on a Republican proposal to add about $56 million to Ohio's $10 billion budget for 1973-1975.

Its chances look slim.

Sen. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, chairman of the Senate committee, and Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton, ranking Republican of the House Finance Committee, are leading the push for a supplemental appropriations bill when the legislature returns after the May 7 primary election.

They claim state revenues are running considerably higher than were estimated when the legislature passed the appropriations bill in June, 1973.

The $56 million figure is their estimate of the alleged surplus at the end of the biennium June 30, 1975.

Dennis and Young want to split up the money in several ways with the major item being repeal of the state's 5 per cent personal intangibles tax on investment earnings. That would take $30 million.

They also would increase the personal exemption under the state income tax from $500 to $600. That would demand $7 million by cutting the state's tax take.

School subsidies would be extended to Ohio's middle cities in the amount of $3.4 million, a program for transporting mentally retarded pupils would get $5.4 million, special regional education training centers $2.5 million, funds for family practice departments in medical schools $1 million and the homestead property tax exemption would be increased by $3.5 million.

No sooner had Dennis and Young announced their plan at a news conference than the administration of Gov. John J. Gilligan and Democratic legislators set up a howl.

John B. Olsen, director of the Office of Budget and Management, denied the existence of such a surplus. He said the proposal was "somewhat surprising...in view of shortfalls in tax collections" during January, February and March of this year.

Olsen said that during March — for which Dennis and Young did not request figures — "the state's revenues fell $15.1 million below estimates, even after providing for the transfer of revenue sharing funds and the accrual of March liquor profits."

"There is no reason to presume that the state will realize greater than estimated revenues," said Olsen. "There is every reason to be concerned about a continuing decline."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: LET A FOOL BE MADE SERVICE-ABLE ACCORDING TO HIS FOLLY.—JOSEPH CONRAD

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Teacher lists benefits of controversial books

DEAR ABBY: As a teacher of 11th grade English, may I respond to the irate parent who objected to the "trashy" books his child was required to read in school? That letter could have been directed at me personally because I have recommended such widely accepted literary classics as "The Grapes of Wrath," "Brave New World," and the ever-controversial "Catcher In The Rye."

First of all, I respect the wishes of any parent who does not want his child to read certain books, and if the parent has the courage to let me know directly (and not through an anonymous phone call to my principal), I will gladly suggest some alternatives.

Second, I, like you, Abby, am also "turned off" by certain vulgar four-letter words, mainly because of my own straight-laced upbringing. However, I suggest that no one can judge a book by selecting isolated passages from it. For instance, both "Grapes of Wrath" and "Catcher in the Rye" deal with the importance of feeling a sense of concern and responsibility for one's fellowman.

I realize that this letter is probably much too long for your column but I feel so strongly about the value of presenting modern, readable and relevant books to our teenagers that I wish to air my views. As a teen-ager I never was nearly as excited about books as I am today and I attribute my lack of enthusiasm to the dull, "safe," uncontroverial books which were the typical fare for high school English classes back in the 50s.

I want more than anything else to create in my students a genuine desire to read, and that can be accomplished only by exposing them to thought provoking books that speak directly to them in modern language which, unfortunately, often includes a few words which happen to be offensive to me.

A TEACHER (I HOPE)

DEAR TEACHER: Well put. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a mother-in-law who insists on naming our unborn SON? (If it's a daughter-no problem.)

Doesn't she know that the baby's name should be decided by the baby's mother and father?

This is our first child and we are hoping for a boy, but this situation is making me secretly want a girl! Hurry your answer. I hope it gets here before the baby's due.

MOM-IN-WAITING

DEAR MOM: No one can name your baby without your consent. When the baby arrives, don't "say" anything, do your own naming, and don't apologize.

DEAR ABBY: Why should parents of the bride pay for the wedding? I know the book of etiquette says they should-but that's not a good enough reason.

My father made it clear to his daughters that he would double mortgage his home to give us all college educations, but as for weddings he'd buy us a ladder. I didn't take the college education, and when it came time for me to marry, my fiance and I decided to have a big wedding at our own expense.

Working together for a common goal taught us about the responsibilities we were going to have to face as husband and wife. After a year of scrimping and saving, we had a beautiful formal wedding with all the trimmings. We were so proud of ourselves!

Six years later, we are in our own home, with baby number two on the way. Everything we have we both worked for and we don't have to thank anyone but God for it. I want to say a big thank you to my father for making that decision and sticking to it. That was the best gift he ever gave me.

HAPPY IN N.J.

DEAR HAPPY: Three cheers for Dad. And hooray for you and your husband. Young lovers, take note!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 15, the 105th day of 1974. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1865, President Abraham Lincoln died in a Washington boarding house across the street from Ford's Theater, where he had been shot the night before by John Wilkes Booth.

On this date:

In 1638, English settlers arrived at what is now New Haven, Conn.

In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1861, President Abraham Lincoln called out militia to suppress the Southern Confederacy.

In 1940, during World War 2, British and French troops landed on the coast of Norway.

In 1945, the body of President Franklin D. Roosevelt was buried at the family home at Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1959, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arrived in Washington to begin a goodwill tour of the United States.

Ten years ago: Gen. Castelo Branco was sworn in as the new president of Brazil.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — So you think a 30-inch screen is a real bonanza for TV viewing? Stay tuned, Bunky. You ain't seen nothing yet. How about a 75-ton TV set with six screens, each 26 feet wide and 22 feet high?

Agreed, it's not the sort of thing you'd put in the living room. In fact, it only will be installed in the new $163 million Louisiana Superdome they're currently building in New Orleans.

But it's intended to bring all the comforts of home viewing, even slow-motion replays, to the 80,000-plus souls Superdome officials hope will visit their emporium to watch sports and other events live.

The officials hope to have it working by Jan. 12, 1975, when, if the Superdome is completed, pro football's Superbowl 9 will be held in the 26-story enclosed arena.

The video monster, which costs an estimated $1.3 million, doesn't work like your conventional television system, according to Bob Jones, an ex-TV newsman who now is the Superdome's director of television.

There'll be conventional TV cameras on the field for closeup action, but that's where convention ends. He says the signals will be piped to a control room, then to six massive, Swiss-made projectors located at strategic points on the arena's fifth floor.

The projectors then will cast the images on the giant screens hanging in a circle from the center of the Superdome. Officials claim it'll give a spectator in the most remote seat a view akin to what he'd see were he sitting in front of a three-foot TV screen at home.

"We can do anything with this system that commercial television can do," says Jones.

Alas, that also includes commercials, which Jones says probably will run only 30 seconds and be flashed on the screen only during breaks in whatever action is afoot down on the field.

The commercials are expected to net the Superdome $210,000 next year, he said.

Has anyone raised the point it might seem a bit ironic to go to a stadium and pay money to watch a game on television?

"No, not really," Jones laughed. "I've had some thoughts about it, but I was absolutely amazed when I saw a system vaguely like this at the Capitol Arena in Maryland, just outside Washington."

The attraction was a circus, he said, and he was struck by the interest of spectators in the arena's four TV screens.

"I was sitting at one end, fairly high up, and I got a better view of some of the acts on the screen than actually looking at the acts themselves," he said.

"What I got was the atmosphere and spontaneity of sitting there, yet I got a nice close-up picture when I wanted one."

Bryce Harlow ends Nixon post

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Bryce N. Harlow has ended his job as White House counsellor.

Harlow was officially off the job Sunday. He began working at the White House when President Nixon took office in January 1969, left in June 1970 and returned last June to help the President through Watergate and other problems.

He returned to the Proctor & Gamble Manufacturing Co. as a vice president.

Red Cross shelters now empty

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Red Cross shelters that housed up to 8,200 persons following a killer tornado that destroyed half of this town 11 days ago were empty today, a spokesman said.

The last three families which used the temporary homes moved out Sunday after finding permanent dwellings in the area.

Meanwhile, a contingent of military police of the Ohio National Guard was held over until today to prevent looting which has increased in the past week.

The troops were scheduled to be sent home Sunday. Reliefs were expected today.

Xenia residents were alerted to another possible tornado Sunday as the National Weather Service issued a tornado warning for the area about midday.

About 80 federal disaster workers and applicants for relief at one of the shelters moved into the basement of a school when a funnel cloud was sighted, relief coordinator Jim Kautzman said.

The cloud remained aloft and there was no damage, he said.

Airplane crash kills 3 persons at Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal Aviation Administration officials are investigating the cause of the crash Saturday of a Piper Cherokee 140 that resulted in the deaths of three persons.

The Ohio Highway Patrol identified the victims as Roderick C. Long, 26, Bainbridge, a flight instructor; David L. Wolery, 35, Portsmouth, a student pilot, and William Ray Crater, 36, Dayton, a passenger.

A spokesman for the patrol said the aircraft was starting a flight to Portsmouth when it crashed on takeoff and burst into flames.

The plane was owned by the Mid-America Pilot School, Columbus.

Brown County school plans on schedule

COLUMBUS — Plans for the construction of a new higher education facility in Brown County are progressing on schedule, according to Dr. James A. Norton, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents.

Representatives of the University and the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon in Brown County have been working closely with Jones, Peacock and Garne, Inc., a Cincinnati architectural firm, in the development of plans for the proposed facility to be constructed from a $1.5 million appropriation. The schematic drawings will be reviewed by the state architect and Ohio Board of Regents Wednesday, Dr. Norton said.

It is estimated that final plans will be completed and ready for bids by December, with construction beginning in the spring of next year. Completion of the 34,000 square foot facility is projected for early 1976.

Dr. Norton indicated his appreciation of the efforts of Richard Pulliam, director of the Tri-County Academic Center, and the Cincinnati planners in expediting the development of the new facility which will "greatly enhance the higher education opportunities for residents of southwestern Ohio."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Planetary influences are fairly generous, but you may run into some complex situations which will require exceedingly good judgment to solve. Be alert!

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Neither borrow nor lend now. Even small, "friendly" transactions are likely to cause some unpleasantness in the future.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Aspects somewhat adverse where money matters are concerned. Don't make unnecessary purchases and don't let your natural optimism lead you into speculative ventures.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

More information may be needed to consummate a pending business deal. With the added facts on hand, proceed as originally planned.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some confusion indicated during the early hours but it clears up WITHOUT your intervention, so don't let it disturb you. Evening favors romance, social activities.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't be too sure that your interests are not progressing. Look over the picture again. There is a proper delaying action in some areas. Don't give up.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Others may be overly aggressive, pressing for their "rights" to the exclusion of yours. Watch your own interests. Don't let them push you around.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You have good reason for optimism now. A superior's enthusiasm for your efforts not only pays off, but further spurs your ambition and incentive.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't regard decisions made in the a.m. as final. Certain circumstances may necessitate revision later in the day.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Home and family concerns under highly beneficial influences. In fact, a recent domestic problem will finally be straightened out satisfactorily.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Curb a tendency toward wishful thinking. This is a day in which to stress realism and practicality. Imagination is great—except when it runs out of bounds.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A curious suggestion may be made. If you have even the slightest doubt about it, reject summarily. Your hunches are usually correct.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great ambition and a high degree of energy and determination—which help you to achieve plateaus of success which others would often consider unattainable. Though not quite as versatile as many born under your Sign, you, nevertheless, have been endowed with a number of talents through which you could carve an enviable career. You should be musically inclined, and could succeed as either performer or composer—or both. Your magnetic personality, coupled with your sense of the dramatic, makes you a "natural" for the theater, and a scientific bent, bracketed with a lively imagination, may take you into the field of invention. Traits to curb: impulsiveness and overaggressiveness.

'Singing Teens' entertain Senior Citizens on Friday

The "Singing Teens," a choral group from the South Side Church of Christ, directed by Mrs. Frank Creamer, provided a most interesting program for the Senior Citizens on Good Friday. They sang a variety of numbers and their voices blended in beautiful close harmony. The girls wore identical long dresses, and the boys wore identical sweaters.

Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse introduced Mrs. Creamer and her husband, Frank, and the choir members each introduced himself.

Following the program, Miss Mary Frances Snider, director of the Senior Citizens, thanked all for their kindness in making the Easter season a more meaningful one to them.

Class plans anniversary party

The Home Builders Class of Madison Mills United Methodist Church met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hidy. The 14 members present observed a moment of silence in memory of the late Rev. Frank A. White. Mrs. Lester Haines, president, read "An Easter Meditation," and repeated "The 23rd Psalm."

Roll was answered by naming a hymn. The class will celebrate its anniversary with a potluck dinner at noon in the church annex at 12:00 p.m. May 5. All former members are invited to attend.

Mrs. Ethel Wilson conducted an enjoyable program, consisting of various contests and readings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett assisted in the hospitalities to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight King, Mrs. Blodwen Melvin, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays and Mr. and Mrs. Haines.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis and daughter, Lisa, were hosts at a family Easter dinner on Sunday. Others present were Dr. and Mrs. John D. Louis and son, Dave, Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Bielanol and Mrs. Mabel Louis.

Wife of casual clothes designer says she's always hated pants

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — Denise Poirat wore pants for the first and last time in her life in 1911.

That was the year that her husband, Paul Poirat, declared, "let women wear pants." At his famous extravaganza, "The Thousand and Second Night," Mme. Poirat escaped from her gilded cage dressed in a feather aigrette and the first pair of pantaloons that a Western woman had ever worn.

"I have always hated pants on women and I still do. All that fabric is very disagreeable between the legs. It's a shame that femininity should be spoiled by something that mostly doesn't even look good on women," Mme. Poirat remarks.

FIRST TIME EVER—

Mme. Poirat is shown in a 1911 photograph wearing her famed late husband's design of a feathered aigrette and the first pair of pantaloons that Western woman had ever worn.

Now, this venerable 88-year-old in a sweater and skirt is delighted, but not surprised, that the whole fashion world has suddenly "discovered" her husband, who died in 1944 and was the father of modern "undress dresses," the casual clothes of today.

Aside from dresses, it includes paintings, namely by Van Dongen, that were formerly part of Poirat's private

Members who participated in the program were Linda Jordan, Joan Jordan, Jana Bolender, Kim Riley, Marilyn Creamer, Mary Lee Warning, Pam Henry, Linda Hollingsworth, Brenda Coulter, Gloria Bolender, Jim Eakins, Greg Sanderson, Marlin Everhart, Jeff Fannin and Kennard Beverly.

They sang "The Happy Side of Life," "Happy Am I," "It's A Wonderful Day," "Soft are the Winds of Summer," "Let the Whole World Know," "I Am Thankful to Be An American," (medley narrated with slides of places of interest), "Christ the Lord is Risen," "Let's Celebrate Easter," "Because He Lives," "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah, and "Something for Thee."

Bloomington women meet

Mrs. Ralph Ashbaugh presented the program when the Bloomington United Methodist Women met in the home of Mrs. Wayne Bloomer, instead of Mrs. Ralph Theobald. There were 16 present for the presentation and the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Eli Craig.

BPW Club welcomes new members

The annual orientation meeting of the Business and Professional Women was held at Anderson's Restaurant. Mrs. Wayne VanMeter, co-chairman of the membership committee, was in charge for the evening, and welcomed new members. She introduced Mrs. Shirley Wisecup, Mrs. Bonnie Schneider, Mrs. Marcia Bogenrife, Mrs. Frances Coe, Mrs. Joyce Fields, Mrs. Glenn Lindsey and Mrs. Jean Coulter.

Members of the club explained the purpose of the club and duties of various committees. Mrs. Donald Haines and Mrs. Harold Cruea explained the responsibilities of the officers; Mrs. Ella Flee, finance, music and bulletin; Mrs. Ann Cluff, membership, civic participation, personal development; Mrs. Edith Long, legislation, world affairs and federation; and Mrs. Van Meter, public relations.

The meeting closed with a dessert being served to those present.

collection, drawings of the dresses by Georges Lepape, wallhangings that Raoul Dufy designed for the Poirat barges that "made" the 1925 Art Deco exhibition in Paris and some of the paintings that Poirat himself did in later life.

A rather rotund and dapper man with a beard and satanic eyes, Poirat gave women back their bodies in 1906. At that time, fashion meant corsets, brocades, tight gloves, painful pointed toes and wasp waists.

Poirat replaced all this with the modern bra, girdle, garter belt and comfortable flat-heeled boots. His colors were red, green, purple and all bright shades instead of wishy-washy 19th-century pastels.

Critics complained that Poirat's "despairingly loose" Greek tunics and robes would encourage women to forget about keeping their figures. Little they knew.

The public was more direct. Less avant-garde people simply greeted the dresses with hisses, catcalls and on occasion even attacked the wearers. "When I went out on the street, everyone looked at me as if I were peculiar. I was terribly embarrassed. I told my husband I didn't want to go out alone any more. My clothes weren't eccentric. I just wanted to look elegant," Mme. Poirat recalls.

What provoked such public indignation? For example, her favorite dress, very shocking indeed. It was a simple loose sack.

As a faithful wife, she always wore a Poirat label inside her dresses. "My husband would have been amused if I had worn another designer's clothes. Once he asked me to, but I refused," she recalls.

She never bobbed her hair either, since her husband frowned upon the 1920s — short flapper dresses, the Charleston, Montparnasse nightclubs and all.

Now, Mme. Poirat still has 40 of her favorite dresses left. Many she gave away years ago to museums or to her "less fortunate friends, who were very happy to have a Poirat dress. Who wouldn't be? I wish I hadn't given them away," she adds with regret.

The ones she does have she still wears with pride. "Last year, I wore my little cloche hat from 1906. It looked good. When I go out in a pre-World War I dress, I don't feel out of style," she says.

What about the retrospective dresses "inspired" — to put it mildly — by Poirat that Paris designers are busy reproducing for spring?

"Frankly, I haven't followed fashion in decades. But there's no reason not to wear nostalgic clothes if they suit you and you like them. For designers to copy old dresses? Why not, if they haven't any other ideas," Mme. Poirat comments.

America's Sweetheart

HER SHOE-BUTTON eyes sparkle as Raggedy Ann gets embrace from her long-time companion, Raggedy Andy.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HER HAIR IS STRINGY, her eyes are beady and she's old enough to be Robert Redford's mother. Even so, she's America's sweetheart—everyone loves Raggedy Ann.

Other dolls walk, talk or perform battery-operated tricks. Raggedy Ann does not expect inspire affection, perhaps because her birth was a labor of love.

She came, by chance,, from the pen of the late newspaper cartoonist Johnny Gruelle when his daughter Marcella, playing in the attic, found a rag doll so old that time had faded its features. Johnny refurbished them and Raggedy Ann was born.

Remembering two poems, "The Raggedy Man" and Little Orphan Annie," by John Whitcomb Riley, a friend of his father, Johnny called his creation Raggedy Ann. When she became his daughter's favorite plaything, Johnny wrote a series of stories about Marcella's adventures with her doll. First published in 1918, they are still childhood favorites. Raggedy Andy was written into the stories a few years later.

Marcella died in childhood, but she and her doll live on in imaginative stories that continue to delight each new generation.

The first Raggedy Ann doll, created to promote sales of the books, won so many fans that the doll went into mass production. It's estimated that more than 150 million have been sold over the years.

Beloved by children and adults, Raggedy Ann has received countless honors. The United States Government selected her as "The Classic American Folk Doll" and displayed her at Canada's Expo to convey the "American Spirit" theme.

Her real life adventures with world-famous celebrities are endless. She was Shirley Temple's first doll and she lived at the White House with infant Caroline Kennedy. She's performed with such top stars as Lucille Ball, Dustin Hoffman, Mia Farrow and Bob Hope. They love her in Virginia and Vietnam and wherever she goes.

What is the secret of Raggedy Ann's appeal? Worth Gruelle, son of her creator, thinks it's because she's family—even to complete strangers."

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — Beginning May 1, new minimum wage laws involving both salary increases and extended coverage will apply to over 56 million workers in the country.

The minimum wage changes are the product of three years of debate in Congress, most of it centering on how much to increase the minimum wage, how long it would take to go into effect, who would be covered by it and whether the youth differential would be retained or not.

A primary factor in all of these considerations was the impact these changes would have on the economy and how best to deal with inflation in the process.

There is no question that inflation was a major reason for wanting to increase the minimum wage in the first place. The cost-of-living has jumped by leaps and bounds since the last wage increase and those workers under the minimum wage have been caught in an economic vise squeezing more and more real purchasing power out of their dollars.

AS A RESULT, the new law will raise the minimum wage to an ultimate figure of $2.30 for all employees covered by it. The increases will take effect gradually with increments on a yearly basis.

Specifically, most workers' salaries would be raised to $2 an hour on May 1. This includes all nonagricultural workers who were covered by the minimum wage act prior to the 1966 amendments.

On Jan. 1, 1975, their paychecks would be upped to $2.10 per hour and on Jan. 1, 1976, they would reach the $2.30 an hour limit.

Workers not covered until 1966 or until the new 1974 amendments would get $1.90 per hour initially on May 1, 1974, and would have subsequent raises to $2, $2.20 and $2.30 an hour on Jan. 1 of the next three years.

In the category of workers newly covered by these 1974 amendments are federal, state and local employees, retail and service employees, domestic service or household workers, conglomerate employees (in agriculture), telegraph agency employees, motion picture theater employees, logging employees, and shade-grown tobacco processing employees. Roughly this amounts to an additional 6.9 million workers covered by minimum wage legislation. Agricultural employees under minimum wage legislation would receive a new salary of $1.60 on May 1. In addition, they would enjoy 20 cents per hour increments on Jan. 1 of each of the next three years, ultimately getting $2.30 per hour by Jan. 1, 1978.

THE NEW LAW also makes some changes in the employment of students. Full-time students can be employed at wage rates less than those prescribed in the law in retail and service establishments, agriculture, and institutions of higher education at which they are enrolled.

The law stipulates that they may be employed at a wage rate of not less than 85 per cent of the applicable minimum wage rate or $1.60 per hour, whichever is higher.

A special certificate from the Department of Labor would be needed by the employer to hire students in this manner, however, which would acknowledge the employee's intent to work the students on a parttime basis not exceeding 20 hours in any work-week except during vacation periods.

The employer would also have to show that hiring students at lower wages would not create "substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities" for other workers.

The number of student workers allowed in retail or service establishments would be limited to the proportion applicable to the establishment in the preceding year, the maximum proportion to which the establishment was ever entitled or a proportion equal to 10 per cent of its total workforce, whichever is greater.

An employer who hires four students or less at a subminimum wage, however, could do so without following the traditional precertification process and educational institutions could also employ their own students without having to follow this procedure.

It has been eight years since the minimum wage has been increased and these raw raises are a matter of a simple justice for the millions of Americans covered by it. The changes are long overdue but hopefully now they will bring the salaries of these workers to a more realistic economic level.

DON'T DO IT! — This young man is asking for trouble by trying to get his kite out of a power line. DP&L says that children should fly their kites in an open field away from electric lines.

Kite-flying danger brings DP&L warning

Warm and windy weather signals the time for kite flying, which should be enjoyed, but enjoyed safely.

George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co., warns that boys and girls should be especially careful about flying kites near electric lines. These lines are easy to overlook, he said, but they can be dangerous if kites contact or are caught in them. He outlines the following suggestions to insure the maximum of safety when flying kites:

(1) In choosing a spot to fly, choose an open field away from not only power lines but any obstructions.

(2) Do not fly kites with metal frames or use cords reinforced with wire or any form of metal, since metal is a good conductor of electricity. Also, a wet cord can carry an electric current quickly, resulting possibly in severe shock.

(3) If a kite should accidentally catch on a power line, do not attempt to remove it.

Cent makes more sense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technically, the penny doesn't exist. The coin is a cent, or one-hundredth of a dollar. The term "penny" dates from the days when British coinage dominated the country's commerce.

Europe no longer grain market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Europe, one of the world's largest markets for U.S. farm products, is rapidly on its way to becoming self-sufficient in grain and may move into international markets as an exporter much sooner than earlier expected.

The march by Europe toward self-sufficiency in grain was analyzed today in an Agriculture Department report. It was written by Donald M. Phillips Jr., a foreign demand specialist in the department's Economic Research Service.

Phillips cautioned, however, that estimates for European production — centered in European Community countries — are subject to change. But he acknowledged that "it is already evident" grain production is growing faster than forecast earlier by U.S. experts.

The impact on U.S. agriculture, if Europe attains self-sufficiency and becomes a net grain exporter, could be severe, the report indicated.

Phillips cited a recent study made by Prof. F. Uhlmann of the West German Institute of Agricultural Marketing Research. Uhlmann calculated the original six members of the Community — Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands and West Germany — will "attain virtual self-sufficiency" by 1975 and could be exporting as much as four million metric tons of grain by 1985.

Including the nine member countries — Denmark, Ireland and Britain are recent newcomers — Uhlmann said the community could grow enough grain for its own needs by 1985.

Phillips noted that other studies of European agriculture also have pointed toward the community becoming a diminished market for U.S. farmers in the near future.

A projection by Phillips' own agency showed recently that the European Community's purchase of foreign grain probably will drop to 1.3 million metric tons by 1985.

Phillips said U.S. grain sales to the community in 1972-73 totaled 13.3 million metric tons worth more than $900 million. During the first seven months of the current fiscal year, which began last July 1, shipments were 8.1 million tons.

"While the EC probably will continue to import some high-quality U.S. wheat as well as large quantities of corn, an over-all sharp decline in U.S. grain exports to the community seems inevitable, given the continuation of existing policies," Phillips said.

Tommy Sands weds secretary

HONOLULU (AP) — Tommy Sands, teen-aged singing idol and actor of the 1950s and 1960s, has married a Honolulu secretary.

The ceremony was Sunday at the Kawaiahao Church here.

Sands, 36, married Sheila Wallace, 24, in the second marriage for each. She has two children by a previous marriage.

Sands is currently trying a singing comeback at a Waikiki nightclub after a four-year retirement. His last million-dollar recording was "I'll Be Seeing You" in 1966. He appeared in the film "The Violent Ones" in 1967 and until recently had been conducting dinner and nightclub tours at Waikiki nightspots.

Interest, institutions curb market

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More than two factors are holding down the stock market but you'd find yourself with a following if you chose only two: High interest rates and the activities of institutions.

High rates mean that bonds compete with stocks for the investment dollar, reducing the flow of money that in more normal times might be expected to tend in the direction of equities.

Moreover, high interest rates cut into the profits of corporations by adding to costs, just as do increases in labor or raw material prices.

The activities of institutions, it is argued, are resulting in a two-tier market, with shares of a favored group of less than 100 companies attracting considerable interest and the rest of the market little interest at all.

Officers of some companies complain that they simply cannot interest portfolio managers of the institutions — mutual and pension funds, bank trusts and insurance companies — in the attractiveness of their wares.

In addition, they contend that when the institutions do become involved with shares of some of the smaller and lesser known companies they tend to dominate the market and sometimes produce sharp price movements.

"These practices alienated — and still do — the small investors and harmed many well-managed second- and third-tier companies," said C.V. Wood, Jr., chairman of the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies earlier this month.

The committee, observing its first anniversary, is made up of 632 corporations with total assets of more than $55 billion and 2.5 million shareholders whose shares are traded on most of the big exchanges.

Wood noted that for the second straight year, there are 800,000 fewer shareholders of American companies. Indicative of lagging interest in the market, only 99 new issues were marketed in 1973 compared with 568 in 1972.

This lack of interest in stocks has led to some of the lowest price-earnings multiples in decades. The committee claims that three-fifths of "leading" companies have multiples below 10, meaning their shares are priced at less than 10 times earnings.

Multiple problems result from low price-earnings multiples, and it's anyone's choice as to which are the worst.

For one thing, corporations badly need equity capital in order to maintain and expand their plants and equipment. The committee estimates that between now and 1985 the country will need $3.3 trillion in new capital simply to provide jobs and goods for an expanding population.

A problem of perhaps equal magnitude is that many of the companies in the second tier have stock prices so depressed that they are increasingly the target of takeovers by foreign concerns.

The first stiel-bladed ice skates were made in 1850. Wearing the new "Philadelphia skate," Jackson Haines of New York dazzled audiences in the United States and Europe by executing intricate figures to music. Called the "Father of Figure Skating," Haines revolutionized the art.

Annual production Friday night

Pidcock to emcee Teen Talent Show

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club has again booked Jim Pidcock, former Columbus radio personality, to serve as master of ceremonies for the annual Teen Talent Show Friday night.

Pidcock, who has served as master of ceremonies during several of the Kiwanis Club's Teen Talent productions in past years, is local sales manager for WTVN Radio in Columbus.

He is still better known in the Columbus area as "John Dollar" although he hasn't been on the air as a disc jockey since 1965. After leaving the air, he became program director until November, 1968. He then switched to the station's sales department and in April, 1973, was named local sales manager.

Born in Madisonville, Ky., Pidcock moved to Columbus in 1961. He and his wife, Suze, are the parents of three children.

The seventh annual Teen Talent Show will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday in the Washington Junior High School auditorium.

George Gibbs, club president, said response from Washington Senior and Miami Trace high school students has been heavy this year.

Derailment spills liquid

EIGHTY FOUR, Pa. (AP) — Authorities say it may take a week or more to clean up the wreckage of a freight train which derailed and threw a scare into this small community because two tankers contained dangerous liquids.

Twenty-seven cars of the 65-car Chessie System train, loaded mostly with grain, went off the tracks in this Washington County town Saturday.

One tanker carrying hydrochloric acid landed on its end in Little Charters Creek and the white liquid began to leak into the water. Sour-smelling fumes poured from the leakage, prompting state police to warn residents to be ready for evacuation.

The leak later was found to be less serious than feared.

Another tanker contained dangerous propane gas and for a time authorities feared possible explosion.

That danger also subsided late Saturday when work crews emptied the propane into a tank truck and moved it from the scene.

More Ohio Guardsmen slated for Grayling

GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Possible fuel shortages have prompted the Ohio National Guard to decide to train an additional 2,700 troops at Camp Grayling this summer.

Officials said the troops, from the 107th Ohio Guard cavalry, originally were scheduled to train in Texas. Their addition will bring to 13,000 the number of guardsmen slated to train at the camp this summer.

Pacific plane crash story said false

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The flight controller at New Caledonia's international airport today denied a report that a jet airliner had crashed into the sea off the French island in the South Pacific.

Major airlines servicing New Caledonia said none of their planes was missing. A full alert was ordered but was called off after all aircraft in the vicinity were accounted for.

Pierre Dubosq, the flight controller at Contouta Airport in New Caledonia, said a small airport 50 miles from Contouta reported receiving a distress signal from a small plane.

He said the pilot reported engine failure was causing him to lose altitude and he might have to land in the sea.

The nationality, type of plane and the pilot's name were not known.

Agence France Presse, the French news agency, reported in Paris that an airliner had made a crash landing north of New Caledonia, and 160 survivors had taken to lifeboats.

The French news agency said the plane was a Pan American airliner.

State highway crews ready for inspection

Workers at the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County are completing preparations for the annual spring inspection which will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Eugene Fitzpatrick said that, basically, mowing equipment will be subject to Tuesday's annual review.

Following the inspection, workers will be occupied with crack-sealing projects on Ohio 734, west of Jeffersonville, and on U.S. 35-S, in addition to spot berming, patching various roads and running the trash crews.

Sealing and general repair of damaged streets in Washington C.H. tops the worksheet for the city street department crews this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman, said the Circle Avenue repair work will top the list of street projects.

Agrico to build Arkansas plant

TULSA, Okla. — Groundbreaking ceremonies for Agrico Chemical Co.'s new $26 million nitrogen fertilizer plant will be held Tuesday, April 23, at the plant site near Blytheville, Ark.

Upon completion, scheduled for May, 1975, the plant will have a 1,000 tons per day urea production capacity and will represent a significant step toward expanding the country's fertilizer supply. During 1973 demand for fertilizer outstripped supply and continued shortages are projected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 1974.

The new plant will produce 330,000 tons per year of granular urea, a new and improved form of urea. Urea is one of the most popular forms of nitrogen fertilizer. Production from this plant will be marketed in mid-South and Midwest farming states.

Vice president enjoys sunshine

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford enjoyed warm sunshine as he and his wife relaxed at the estate of Walter H. Annenberg, U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain.

The Fords arrived Saturday and are to return to Washington next Sunday. The vice president is to speak at the dedication of a senior citizen project today, and he is expected to play golf on the private nine-hole course of the walled estate.

Mississippi floods bring death to 7

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Seven persons were dead and thousands were temporarily homeless today after weekend floods in southern Mississippi.

The floods were fueled by torrential rains, which began Friday and continued nonstop through Sunday, ranging up to more than 16 inches in areas.

Bridges were washed away and many roads were closed in the flood area, which stretched 150 miles across the state from the Mississippi River on the west to the Alabama border on the east and as far north as Jackson.

The National Guard was called out to help with evacuations in Columbia and Hattiesburg, and a state civil defense spokesman in Jackson said the number of persons evacuated probably would approach 3,000.

No major rains were predicted for the area through Tuesday, but some rivers had not yet crested.

Forrest County Civil Defense Director Harold Hill said the Bowie River is expected to reach a record 32 feet today. It rose to only 31 feet during a damaging flood in 1961.

Most residents of the small Greene County community of McLain had left their homes by Sunday evening, one resident said.

"There is no point in waiting," she said. "They lost so much the last time (in the 1961 flood), that they have moved everything out and up to higher ground already."

At Hattiesburg, officials said at least 500 persons were housed in five Red Cross and Salvation Army Centers Sunday night.

Between 200 and 300 persons were forced out of their homes Sunday in the low-lying Morgantown area near Columbia. Some 100 to 150 persons evacuated homes in other parts of Marion County.

Ohio income shows rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University reports personal income climbed 8 per cent in the 12-month period between February 1973 and the same month this year.

Income in February in Ohio, seasonally adjusted, amounted to $56.3 billion, the center said.

The center said all eight major city-county areas of the state reported payroll increase in the 12-month period except Akron and Dayton. Both experienced 3 per cent drops in income in February-February period, the center said.

Increase ranged from 8 per cent in Canton down to 1 per cent in Youngstown.

The center said payrolls in the construction industry in the state jumped 19 per cent in the year-long period under study, while payrolls for production workers and non-supervisory employees climbed by 2 per cent.

Native of WCH leader in Xenia relief program

American National Red Cross officials working in the Xenia disaster area have announced that a Washington C.H. native has been appointed assistant director of mass care for the relief operation.

David A. Gerstner, son of Mrs. Mary Gerstner, 204 Ogle St., is a Red Cross first aid instructor employed at the Barney Children's Medical Center in Dayton. He will remain in the Xenia area until May 3, organizing the mass care phase of the relief operation.

One of the first volunteers on the scene, Gerstner helped man radio units to keep in touch with the Red Cross in Dayton. Then as more radio specialist came into the area, he was assigned to other facets of the operations and was busy nearly 24 hours each day.

An assistant director of mass care, Gerstner is involved in the coordination of mass feeding, distribution of clothing, furniture and personal items.

Say many crimes go unreported in large cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as half of the crimes in the nation's five biggest cities are not being reported, according to a new government survey.

And Donald E. Santarelli, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, says the disclosure carries "a strong message of public apathy toward...criminal justice institutions bordering on contempt."

According to the survey, released Sunday, the crime rate is five times as high as police records show in Philadelphia, nearly three times as high in Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles, and a little more than twice as high in New York.

"The crime survey results demonstrate that in an astounding number of instances Americans simply do not think it is worthwhile to report to public authorities that they have been the victim of criminal acts," said Santarelli.

The survey was conducted by the LEAA and the Census Bureau as part of a $10 million-a-year project to measure crime. An earlier study indicated that crime is twice as high as reported in Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas,

Mini-bikes are cause of 3 injuries

Three people were injured in mini-bike accidents over the weekend, including a Fayette County boy who was burned when gasoline he was draining out of his mini-bike ignited.

Jack Bernbaum, 53, Huddersfield, N.J., was injured when he hit a bump while riding a mini-bike at the Wilbur Rapp, residence, New Holland, at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported.

He was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated for an injury to his right shoulder and then released.

Nancy Beth McCoy, 34, Rt. 5, also was injured while riding a mini-bike at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at her home.

The Sheriff's Department said that it was the first time she had ridden a mini-bike and panicked when she headed for a tree. She jumped off and complained of abdominal pain.

Mrs. McCoy was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was admitted. Her condition at this time is not known.

Heat from a hot water heater ignited gasoline which William T. Dennis, 14, 1382 Meadow Dr., was draining out of his mini-bike gas tank, at 10 p.m. Saturday.

The boy suffered burns on his left hand and singed hair. He was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment, sheriff's deputies reported.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was dispatched to the scene, but the fire was out upon their arrival. They reported no damage to the garage and $50 damage to the mini-bike.

DP&L invests heavily in Fayette County

The Dayton Power and Light Co. has invested heavily in Fayette County during the past 23 years. "The county has been growing and DP&L has had to come up with tremendous amounts of money to provide facilities to serve the area" George Winkle, Washington C.H. District Manager for DP&L said.

In 1950 DP&L had about $2,500,000 invested in property and plant in Fayette County. In 1973 the total investment had risen to $10,868,000. This investment produces income for governmental units in the county from property taxes. DP&L is one of the largest single property taxpayers in the county.

Winkle pointed out that DP&L must borrow money to build facilities to meet customer demands. "Bond issues are the major source of borrowing for the company. The last three bond issues required an interest rate of over 8 per cent. Inflation has caused the cost of borrowed money to increase substantially. Other costs of doing business have also risen."

McDonald's groundbreaking ceremonies set Wednesday

Groundbreaking ceremonies for a new McDonald's restaurant will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday on the construction site on Elm Street at Olive Street.

Members of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's Ambassador Club will be attending the ceremony, along with City Manager Dan Wolford and representatives of the nationally-known fast food chain.

The restaurant location is across Elm Street from the Fayette County Bank on a tract of land acquired from Fayette Center Partners. The Miller Construction Co., of Columbus, is the general contractor.

Mitchell questioning nears end

NEW YORK (AP) — Cross-examination of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was expected to be completed today in his criminal conspiracy trial in U.S. District Court.

A tentative schedule for the remainder of the trial showed Mitchell's co-defendant, ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, taking the stand possibly Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both sides in the trial, now in its ninth week, were expected to rest Thursday.

The two former Cabinet members, who resigned to run President Nixon's re-election campaign, are accused of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Robert L. Vesco in return for his $200,000 cash contribution to the campaign.

of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said the Community Improvement Corp. will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 a.m. Tuesday in the City Office Building.

A luncheon meeting has been scheduled for 12 noon Thursday in the Washington Inn Restaurant for exhibitors and participants of the 1974 Fayette County Home Show. Dunn said this year's event will be reviewed during the meeting.

State school funding shows big increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State funding of public school operations in Ohio increased by $656 million, or 54 per cent, over the previous two-year budget period, the state Department of Education reports.

But, said the Buckeye Association of School Administrators, despite the dramatic climb in money for schools since passage of a state income tax, educators aren't convinced their problems are solved.

No less than 227 school districts in Ohio plan to ask voters for more money this year, a BASA survey showed. And 128 others indicate they'll try to pass new levies next year.

Said a BASA spokesman: "The figures 'tell us there is a critical need for money' in schools in the state."

Paul Spayde, a assistant state superintendent of schools, said the General Assembly for the 1969-70 fiscal period provided education with $494.3 million.

The income tax was passed in 1971, Spayde said, and the General Assembly upped its appropriation by 20.1 per cent, to $643.4 million.

Records show for last fiscal year, with the tax collections on income coming in for the first time, another substantial increase, of 18.6 per cent, to an appropriation of $763.2 million.

The state will pump a record $828.9 million into schools this year, Spayde said, and will allocate another $858.5 million for next year.

Spayde said even with the extra money, local school districts will pay most of the school expenses.

In Ohio, local school districts pay 59 per cent of school costs, he said, while the state provides 36 per cent and the federal government chips in 5 per cent.

He said this is only a little better than before passage of the income tax, when local government paid 64 per cent of the education bill and the state 30 per cent.

The BASA said school superintendents may have "oversold the tax as a cure-all" for school finance problems in urging passage of the income levy.

One problem, the BASA said, is that much of the additional money may have been eaten up by inflation.

Annual Cancer Unit smorgasbord Thursday

The tenth annual Dessert Smorgasbord, sponsored by the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairground as an educational meeting prior to the fund-raising crusade.

The smorgasbord is one of the highlights of the annual Cancer Crusade in Fayette County. The smorgasbord started primarily as a training session for cancer crusade volunteers, but over the years the concern of Fayette County residents for the well-being of individuals become so vast the smorgasbord developed into an educational meeting before Crusade Sunday.

Some 600 volunteers will be crusading for contributions Sunday, April 21. The contributions received will be used in cancer research, education and service.

"SERVING TABLES will be loaded with desserts high in calories and there will also be low-calorie desserts for the weight-watchers," said Mrs. L.C. (Sonny) Johnson, project chairman. "All clubs, organizations and individuals are invited to attend," she added.

Entertainment will be provided by the Miami Trace High School vocal music department and prizes, donated by Fayette County merchants, will be awarded. There is no charge for admission.

The principal speaker will be Dr. David H. Greigor, of Columbus. He will be speaking on the early detection of colon cancer.

Dr. Greigor, a 1941 graduate of Ohio State University's College of Medicine, specializes in internal medicine and is associated with Mount Carmel Hospital. He has been involved in cancer research aimed at screening tests for colon cancer. His appearance here was arranged by Dr. Byers W. Shaw.

Mrs. Bart Mahoney and Mrs. D.E. Mossbarger are co-chairmen of the smorgasbord event.

The results of experiments carried out in 1943 have shown that the fastest messages transmitted by the nervous system travel at 265 m.p.h. With advancing age, impulses are carried 15 per cent more slowly.

to what new geographic range was to replace it.

Another question is the manner in which state courts in Georgia met the high court's demand for specific language to warn pornographers what the law prohibits.

Georgia used the language of its indecent exposure law. Critics claim this makes any display of nudity punishable obscene. But, they say, it hardly fits Burger's description of "hard core" depiction of sexual activity.

In the second case, the application of the federal law against mailing obscene material is being examined.

In June, Burger said national standards for obscenity were "hypothetical" and "uncertainable."

The mail case could be used by the court to determine just what kind of geographic standard should be used for a federal obscenity law in light of the condemnation of a national standard.

Application of local standards to the federal law could, in the view of some, make First Amendment rights to freedom of expression a function of postal routes.

Oil costs may affect Lakes ships

DETROIT (AP) — The opening of the Great Lakes shipping season brought mixed opinions about how oil costs will affect the port of Detroit and the entire Great Lakes region.

Some shipping industry officials predict the high cost of oil will prompt many ocean vessels to bypass Detroit and dock at coastal ports to conserve fuel.

Still others predicted the high volume trading in oil and grain will cause a scarcity of ships on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

They said they believe owners of vessels will choose to race their ships back and forth between U. S. coastal cities and overseas ports rather than tie them up in longer voyages into the lakes.

But William A. Filbin Sr., president of the Detroit Customs Brokers Association, painted a less dismal picture for Detroit.

"The amount of commerce going directly out of Detroit by ship is decreasing. But the number of transactions — the overall commerce — is as good or better than ever," he said.

A spokesman for St. Lawrence Seaway Corp. predicted more ocean vessels would enter the seaway because of favorable American-Canadian prices for fuel.

Perk to run without help from President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk said Saturday he would run for the U.S. Senate on his record and would not invite President Nixon or any other national figure to help him campaign.

"I don't know if I need anyone's help in campaigning," Perk told newsmen at Bowling Green State University. "I want people to vote for me on the basis of my record."

The mayor pledged that if elected to the Senate he would be a voice for the cities and work to overcome what he called congressional inaction on urban matters.

Perk added that he would oppose any attempt to force the President to resign. Such a move would make the U.S. "a second great power," he said.

Fighting marks Easter holiday

By The Associated Press
Roman Catholics, Protestants and Orthodox Christians all celebrated Easter in Jerusalem on Sunday.

In Rome, Pope Paul VI urged mankind to follow "the law of duty, of service, of sorrow, of love, of sacrifice — the wise and true interpretation of human life."

Fierce fighting less than 100 miles away went almost unnoticed as pilgrims crowded into Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre, believed to mark the site of the burial and resurrection of Jesus.

All Christians celebrated Easter on the same day because of a leap year in the Orthodox calendar. The Western rites held their services first; then the Orthodox worshippers took over.

Security precautions were increased in Jerusalem because of the Arab guerrilla raid in northern Israel last week. But there was no trouble. The Ministry of Tourism said there were more than 45,000 pilgrims — including Jews for Passover — in the city. The crowd equaled that of last year.

An estimated 17,000 persons turned out for the Hollywood Bowl sunrise service in California — the largest crowd in several years.

A chilly fog cast a pall over New York, but thousands milled around in their spring finery along 14 blocks of Fifth Avenue that were cleared of cars. The police were prepared for streakers with a supply of hospital gowns, but none appeared.

Easter took on a new meaning for many Christians in areas of the United States severely damaged by recent tornadoes.

"For the first time, people are really going to be able to understand what resurrection means," said the Rev.

Raymond D. Pope of the Faith Community United Methodist Church in Xenia, Ohio.

In Yellow Creek, Ga., members of the Community Baptist Church met for services where their wrecked church used to stand.

At the Vatican, Pope Paul — twice bedridden with the flu in the past month — ignored the advice of aides and held an outdoor mass on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica.

The day was damp and rain threatened, but 250,000 persons jammed St. Peter's Square. An estimated 200 million around the world watched on television as the 76-year-old Pope delivered his message in Italian in a firm voice.

The pontiff warned that "Hedonism, which becomes the false gospel of so many men and women of our time, is in the long run the philosophy of illusion and death."

Carl Yastrzewski's bat beats Tigers

By The Associated Press

Major league baseball found out about the birds and the bees Sunday.

The American League got the bird while the National League got the bees.

A swarm of bees in San Diego took over the home plate area in San Diego, briefly delaying the Padres' game against San Francisco—but that's another story.

The bird was a victim of a "fowl" ball hit by Detroit's Willie Horton. And the Tigers were the victims of a couple of balls hit very fair...and very far...by Boston's Carl Yastrzewski, carrying the Red Sox to a 7-5 triumph.

In other American League games, Minnesota mauled Kansas City 8-0 and California trimmed Chicago 6-3 and, in a pair of doubleheaders, Oakland topped Texas 4-2, then the Rangers rebounded 10-2 in the nightcap, and the New York Yankees whipped Cleveland 9-5 before the Indians took the second game 9-6. Baltimore's game at Milwaukee was rained out.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 5

The ball, hit by Horton struck and killed a pigeon passing over old Fenway Park, landed only a few feet in front of home plate.

The pop-up by Horton in the ninth inning hit the pigeon, which fell dead immediately in front of home plate.

"It scared the hell outa me," said Boston catcher Bob Montgomery. "I jumped a foot in the air—and Willie jumped even higher."

What killed the Tigers was Yaz' bat. He drove in two runs in the first inning with a booming double and later scored on Dwight Evans' home run.

Then Yaz crashed a homer of his own, a third-inning shot that proved to be the winning run. Ed Brinkman drove in three of Detroit's runs.

hitting with a grand-slam homer, a triple and two singles to lead Minnesota's assault against Kansas City—but the Twins were more concerned about pitcher Bert Blyleven.

The right-hander held the Royals to six hits before leaving the game in the eighth inning with a slight muscle strain.

"Without Bert we're in trouble," Darwin said. And Manager Frank Quilici added: "He's the gun, baby."

But Blyleven downplayed his arm problem. "It's just a knot. It feels good now," he said after the game.

Angels 6, White Sox 3

Frank Robinson drove in a pair of runs with a homer—the 555th of his career—and a single and Dick Selma slammed the door on Chicago to lead the Angels, leaders in the West, to their sixth victory in eight games and keep the White Sox in the cellar with their sixth loss in seven.

Selma replaced Frank Tanana on in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and none out, got pinch-hitter Carlos May to hit into a force play at the plate and then got Dick Allen to ground into a doubleplay.

A's 4-2, Rangers 2-10

Reggie Jackson cracked two home runs, the second one a three-run eighth-inning job, to boost Oakland past the Rangers. He's hit five homers this year, all against Texas.

In the second game, though, it was Dave Nelson who feasted. He drove in six runs with a three-run homer, a two-run single and a sacrifice fly, to bring the Ferguson Jenkins and the Rangers a twinbill split.

Yanks 9-6, Indians 5-9

The Yankees, making like the Bronx Bombers of old, won the opener on six homers, including two by Graig Nettles and one each by Thurman Munson, Ron Blomberg, Bobby Murcer and Mike Hegan.

Nettles also homered twice in the nightcap—but so did Cleveland's Dave Duncan. His timely hits, and John Ellis' four runs batted in, carried the Indians to victory in the nightcap.

Despite struggle with bees, Padres sting Giants, 6-5

By The Associated Press

The San Diego Padres can wait until the National League approves the designated hitter rule, but they'll keep a designated exterminator on hand — just in case bees decide they like the surroundings in San Diego Stadium.

The bees put up a tenacious struggle to keep baseball from being played Sunday.

They swarmed around the home plate area before the game started, preventing the Padres and San Francisco Giants from taking batting practice and delaying the start of the game for 26 minutes until the exterminator made his appearance.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4 in the first game of a twinbill but lost the second game 6-5; the Philadelphia Phillies swept the New York Mets 2-1 and 5-3 in a doubleheader; and the Los Angeles Dodgers drubbed the Houston Astros 7-2.

The Cincinnati at Atlanta and

Montreal at Chicago games were postponed by rain, with no makeup dates announced.

"I don't know what attracted them. I've never seen anything like this in baseball before," said John McNamara, manager of the embarrassed Padres.

Some of the buzzing bees just wouldn't leave and the spray can made an appearance after nearly every half-inning.

The Padres won the game, by the way, Bobby Tolan's double scored Clarence Gaston to cap a five-run San Diego eighth inning and bring about a 6-5 victory.

Gary Matthews had put San Francisco in front 5-1 with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. But San Diego, with its new mascots, rallied to win.

Pirates 8-5, Cards 4-6

Rennie Stennett doubled for two runs in a five-run fourth inning which carried the Pirates to victory in the first game, but made a throwing error that resulted in two third-inning runs and a loss in the nightcap.

It was the first victory after six losses for the Pirates.

Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer for Pittsburgh in the first game and Stennett homered in the second. Bake McBride hit a home run for the Cardinals in the nightcap.

Phillies 2-5, Mets 1-3

The Phillies wrapped up both games in the late innings, taking the opener on a successful suicide squeeze bunt by Bill Robinson in the 11th and winning the second on a two-run double by Mike Anderson in the ninth.

The Mets managed only one run—Rusty Staub's first homer of the season—in the first game, despite 15 hits. Larry Bowa opened the Philadelphia 11th with a double off New York reliever Tug McGraw. Bowa moved to third on Mike Anderson's infield hit, then charged the plate with Robinson at bat.

The Phils were checked on two hits through seven innings of the second game, but broke through for two in the eighth and three in the ninth.

Dodgers 7, Astros 2

Ron Cey collected three singles and Jimmy Wynn added two—including his fourth home run of the season and a triple—to spark a 15-hit Los Angeles attack and swamp the Astros.

Tommy John gave up seven hits in winning his third game. Steve Garvey also homered for the Dodgers.

Flames' hopes singed in playoff finals

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero got mugged in Atlanta, then the Flyers went out and gagged the Flames...with the help of the National Hockey League's "bad boy," Dave Schultz.

With Shero back in Philadelphia recovering from the attack outside an Atlanta hotel Saturday night, the Flyers ended the Flames' playoff hopes Sunday night, beating them 4-3 on Schultz' goal at 5:40 of sudden death overtime.

The victory gave the Flyers a four-game sweep of the scheduled best-of-seven quarter-final Stanley Cup series and put them into the semifinals against either the Montreal Canadiens or New York Rangers.

The Rangers squared their series against Montreal at 2-2, rally for a 6-4 victory over the Canadiens Sunday.

The other semifinal will send the Boston Bruins against either the Chicago Black Hawks or Los Angeles Kings. The Bruins eliminated Toronto in four straight games with a 4-3 overtime triumph Sunday, while the Kings gained their first victory in four games against Chicago with a 5-1 decision as Tom Williams fired in three goals.

In the World Hockey Association playoffs Sunday, the Houston Aeros and Minnesota Fighting Saints advanced to the semifinals. Houston completed a four-game, quarter-final sweep over Winnipeg, beating the Jets 5-4, while Minnesota topped the Edmonton Oilers 5-4 for a 4-1 series triumph.

The New England Whalers, defending WHA champions, squared their quarter-final series against Chicago 3-3, blanking the Cougars 2-0. The winner of that series will face the winner of the Cleveland-Toronto series in the semifinals.

PETE ROSE

realize you have to be hungrier," Rose said Sunday on his 33rd birthday.

While rain forced postponement of the Reds game with the Atlanta Braves, the downpour didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the Cincinnati baseball star.

"You see so many players who are over the hill when they are 30," he said. "I believe part of the reason is that they think about it. They honestly believe that life is all downhill after 30."

Rose is rushing headlong toward his 10th season of hitting .300 or better.

The National League's Most Valuable Player in 1973 is hitting .395 after eight games. It's one of the fastest starts in his dozen seasons.

"I've never seen Pete nail the ball so well this early in the season," said Manager George "Sparky" Anderson.

Rose's 0-for-2 effort Sunday was nullified by the rainout and that pleased the senior member of the Reds.

"I can't even remember having a good day on my birthday," said Rose. "I remember last year I woke up hitting .440 and went to bed hitting .333. I went 0-for-10 in a doubleheader with the Giants."

"But I did make a good catch and we won both games. I'd take an 0-for-5 every birthday if we win," he said. Rose led the league last year with a .338 batting average, second highest of his career.

Despite his hitting consistency, he's a noted slow starter. He went into August of 1972 with a .284 average, then hit .323 the final month to keep his string alive. Tuesday night, he'll attempt to continue his torrid ways against one of his toughest nemesis of 1972. The Los Angeles Dodgers pitching staff limited Rose to a .282 average during the year—second best mark in the league.

Pantherettes capture two

Miami Trace girls' softball team opened its season by sweeping a doubleheader from Blanchester.

In the first game, the Pantherettes easily captured a 28-12 victory. However, in the second contest, Miami Trace relied upon a run-scoring single in the final inning by Jody Hatfield to squeeze out a 28-27 triumph.

Pam Matson's hitting paced the Pantherettes in the twinbill. Of her nine hits, she collected a home run, two triples and a double. Debbie Morarity and Pam Henry each had six hits.

Tuesday evening, the Pantherettes will be trying to protect their 2-0 record against Southeastern. Game time is set for 4:30 at Eber School.

South African wins second jacket

Gary Player captures Masters crown

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player was striding down the 17th fairway at the Augusta National Golf Club, a white cap pulled low over his eyes, and was pondering his second shot to a hard, fast green that had been his nemesis for nearly two decades.

"I haven't hit this green six times in the 18 years I've been playing here," he said to his caddie, Eddie McCoy. "But it won for me in 1961 and it's going to win for me again."

The little South African, dressed in black from neck to shoes, took a deliberate stance and let fly with a nine-iron.

The ball described a beautiful arc and plopped to within six inches of the pin—a virtual tapin for a birdie three.

That one dramatic shot broke the logjam among four leaders Sunday and decided the 38th Masters Tournament, Player winning it at 10 under par—two strokes ahead of Dave Stockton and Tom Weiskopf.

Player, 37, from far off Johannesburg, repeated a victory he first scored in 1961—a record 13-year gap—and fixed his sights on new horizons.

"This gives me the first leg on the Grand Slam," Player said, referring to the four major championships—U.S. and British Opens, the PGA and Masters—which no man has ever won in a single year.

"At least, I am the only man with a chance this year to win it."

It is the last major goal also of Jack Nicklaus, holder of a record 14 major championships who made a spectacular come-from-behind stab at a fifth Master's crown with an eagle at the par-five 13th, only to falter with bogeys at the 14th and 16th.

At one stage in the exciting Easter Sunday showdown, Big Jack, Player and Weiskopf were tied for the lead with Stockton only a stroke behind and pressure building from such sources as Bobby Nichols, Frank Beard, Jim Colbert, Phil Rodgers and Dave Hill.

Player finished with a 278, the first prize of $35,000 and the traditional green Masters jacket, which was a couple of sizes too big.

Havlicek sparks Celtics' victory

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks are hoping that history repeats, but with captain John Havlicek healthy and in top form, the Boston Celtics figure to be even tougher this year in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference playoff final.

The Celtics got off to a quick start in the best-of-seven series, whipping the Knicks 113-88 Sunday with a tough defense and hot shooting. The teams will play Game 2 in New York Tuesday night.

The series opener was virtually a replay of the first game between the same clubs last year, the Celtics drubbing the Knicks 134-108. However, the Knicks rebounded in New York 129-96 in the second game and went on to win the series and the NBA championship.

Havlicek, a superstar, suffered a shoulder injury in the third game last year and the Celtics were unable to compensate. The shoulder mended during the off-season and the 12-year pro from Ohio State is flying.

Dividing his time between a forward position and the backcourt, Havlicek scored 25 points, collected 12 assists and grabbed four rebounds before being removed with a 9-15 left and the Celtics in command with a 93-64 lead.

"Havlicek did it all," said New York star Walt Frazier. "He's always moving, and can make shots on the run. You can get the best position on him and he still gets the ball off. You can't relax on him. We're going to have to stop the Celtics from running. We didn't today."

The winner of the Boston-New York

series will face the winner of the Milwaukee-Chicago Western Conference series for the NBA title. The Bucks and Bulls play the first game of their best-of-seven set Tuesday night at Milwaukee.

The American Basketball Association also is into its league semifinals. In the East Division, the New York Nets, leading Kentucky 1-0, meet the Colonels tonight in Game 2 at Uniondale, N.Y., and in the West, the Utah Stars, with a 1-0 advantage over Indiana, face the Pacers again tonight at Salt Lake City.

The Celtics hit 44 of 85 shots for a lopsided victory before a crowd of 14,101 and a national television audience. New York hit on only 34 of 103 field goal attempts, a poor 33 per cent.

Harris Auction wins Lions' tournament

With Gary Shaffer and Fletcher Yates scoring over half of its points, Harris Auction dominated the second half to defeat Superior Carpet 98-89 in the finals of the Sabina Lions' Club Tournament, Saturday night.

Shaffer, who is the varsity basketball mentor at Washington Senior High School, fired in 43 points to lead his squad. Yates added 29 points, as the two players combined for 72 of the team's 98 points.

Winners of the foul shooting contest were also announced. From the 3rd-4th grade level, Charley Hargrave came in first and Todd Evans wound up second. In the 5th-6th grade, the top winner was Jerry Mount, as Allen Stanforth placed second. First place honors went to Rick Spurlock in the 7th-8th grade level, as Mark Webb took second.

All five players hit double figures for Superior. Top scorer was Phil Snow, who came through with 20 points. Dale Jones pumped in 19, Junior Rollins and Gary Rhinehart each had 18 and Tim Wilson collected 14.

Superior out-scored Harris in the first two periods and took a 43-39 lead at half-time. However, in the third period, Harris out-scored its opponents 28-19 and held the lead for the remainder of the game.

Tops game winners

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates led major leaguers last season in game-winning hits. His hits won 23 games for the Pirates. In the American League, Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's made hits that decided 18 games.

Among American League designated hitters, California's Frank Robinson and Boston's Orlando Cepeda were tops. Each delivered hits that helped win 15 games.

Softball tournament

Harold Rodin Realty softball team is sponsoring a Class A and B tournament on April 26-28. The tourney will be held at the Cedarville Community Park.

Entry deadline is April 24 and the fee is $45 plus ASA sanction fee. Interested teams should contact Dan Nipper in Xenia.

TRAIL BLAZERS 4-H

The first meeting of the Trail Blazers 4-H Club was held in the home of Dale Ford, when officers were elected. They are: President, Dale Ford; vice president, Cassandra Delay; secretary and reporter, Tami Hale; treasurer, Cheryl Hale.

Phyllis and Dale Ford served refreshments.

The second meeting was called to order by the president, when minutes were read and approved. Cheryl Hale led the pledges. Tami Hale made motion to adjourn and Cheryl Hale seconded the motion. Refreshments were served.

The third meeting took place in the home of Cheryl and Tami Hale. Cassandra Delay led the pledges. Minutes were read and approved, and we discussed dues. They will be 10 cents per person. We are going to sell popcorn. The Hales served refreshments.

Tami Hale, reporter

PINS AND PANS 4-H

The meeting of the Pins and Pans 4-H Club was called to order by Brenda Whaley. The secretary's report was given by Mari Jane Massie. Roll call was made by giving a boyfriend's initials. The club voted to bring 10 cents dues for each meeting. The safety report was made by Virginia Thomas on "Be Careful."

The health report on "Personal Grooming" was made by Tami Thomas. Mari Jane Massie gave a demonstration on "How to Make Peanut Butter Cookies," and Leah Woodfork demonstrated "How to Thread a Needle."

The next safety report will be made by Carol Ann Deere.

Refreshments were served by Pam Huff and Carol Ann Deere.

Margaret and Doris Pandal will give demonstrations for the next meeting.

Speaking of Your Health...

Smoking And Leg Cramps

I've been told to stop smoking because I get cramps in my legs. I can't see the connection between the two.

Mr. R.E., Mich.

Dear Mr. E.: I have always emphasized to my readers that when they understand the reasons for any treatment they are more likely to rigidly follow the doctor's instructions.

Unless it is clear to them, the chances are great that they will casually disregard the importance of those instructions. It is well established that the toxic agents in cigarettes are responsible for the contraction of the blood vessels in the body. It is this contraction and the narrowing of the arteries that cut down on the free flow of blood.

When the muscles of the legs are deprived of the oxygen that normally is carried in the blood stream, they go into spasm, and severe pain results.

The oxygen requirements of the muscles of the legs are no different from that of the heart muscle and other organs of the body.

While cigarette smoking is not the only reason for blood circulatory disturbances, it is a most important one.

Some people are particularly subject to tobacco toxicity and develop Burger's Disease, a special circulatory problem of major importance.

There now are a great many tests by which the blood flow of the arteries can be measured. The oscillometer is a highly sensitive instrument which can measure the pulsations of the arteries in the foot and leg.

Electronic thermometers, when applied to the skin, can measure the slightest diminution of temperature. This is a guide to the reduced flow of blood to the extremities.

Anyone subject to the leg cramps you describe who continues to smoke is toying with his health and possibly his life.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Nonfunctioning pilot lights in gas ovens can cause explosions. The accumulation of nonodorous gas is a major hazard within the "safety" of the home.

Commissioners arrange test of tornado warning siren

Members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning discussed the feasibility of testing the large wailing warning siren located atop the Courthouse building with Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen. Officials have become concerned with the ability of the Fayette County area to respond in the event of a disaster in light of the tornado which devastated the neighboring community of Xenia recently.

Denen tentatively has scheduled the initial test of the warning siren at noon Wednesday. He also suggested that the siren be tested four times per year.

The tentative schedule calls for alert test warnings on March 22, June 22, Sept. 22 and Dec. 22, according to Denen.

Four minor auto mishaps investigated by officers

A Fayette County girl claimed injury from an accident Sunday evening, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported along with a hit-skip accident in a tavern parking lot. City police reported a Fayette County woman was charged with failure to yield the right of way in an accident Sunday morning.

A blowout caused a car Christine Y. Lowry, 16, Ohio 207, was driving, to run off Ohio 207 and then skid back across the road, hitting an embankment, at 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

The accident which moderately damaged the Lowry auto, occurred three-tenths of a mile north of Cook-Yankee town Road, sheriff's deputies reported. She claimed injury, but was not treated.

A hit-skip driver collided with a car driven by James R. Stewart, Greenfield, and owned by Highland Ford Co.

Bainbridge, sometime Sunday.

Stewart had parked his car in the Mini Bar parking lot, Ohio 41-S, where the incident occurred. Moderate damage was incurred by the auto and sheriff's deputies are investigating.

City police charged Ruth D. Matson, 72, of 322 Eastern Ave., with failure to yield following an accident at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Street with a car driven by David C. Holbrook, 17, of 4907 Ohio 41-N, at 11:50 a.m. Sunday. Moderate damage was reported to both cars.

A Louisville, Ky. woman ran off U.S. 35, near Allen Road, and struck a stop sign at 8:16 p.m. Sunday.

State Highway Ptl. Loren Butcher, of the Wilmington post, reported Suzanne Fister, 26, was uninjured, but her car was moderately damaged.

Airlift Group puts its training to good purpose

COLUMBUS — A recent reserve training weekend at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, started out like any other for the 906 Tactical Airlift Group's Communications Flight.

The flight's seven members settled down with their radios last Saturday morning operating their normal networks, one with the 911 Tactical Airlift Group in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the other with the Northcom area.

Then the first radio call from Xenia was received, requesting that a message from that tornado-devastated community be relayed to the Columbus Red Cross chapter. That was the first of over 200 radio messages that the 906 Communications Flight relayed between the disaster area and central Ohio during their April 6-7 drill weekend.

Lt. Col. Samuel Bailey, of Dayton, 906 Communications Flight commander, said that most of the messages concerned the welfare of people caught in the tornado.

"People from outside the area wanted to know how friends and relatives in Xenia were getting along, and people in Xenia wanted everyone to know they were alright," Lt. Col. Bailey said.

Sgt. Larry Kelly, of Washington C.H., was one of the reservists participating in the project.

2 teen-agers wounded by gunman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two hitchhiking teen-agers were critically wounded in what police say was the latest in a series of senseless shootings. Eleven persons have been killed in random attacks since November.

Homicide Inspector Frank Falzon said the shootings Sunday night were "most definitely" linked to the so-called Operation Zebra shootings.

Zebra is the police code for 15 shootings which caused the 11 deaths over the five-month period and set off the largest manhunt in the city's history. In each case, a black assailant shot a white victim at nearly point-blank range. Police have been unable to determine a motive for the shootings.

Ward Anderson, 18, and Terry White, 15, were approached by "at least one black man who opened fire at a distance of about five feet and fired several times," Falzon said.

The youths were reported in serious but stable condition after undergoing surgery at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Falzon said casings from a .32-caliber automatic weapon — the same type used in the other Zebra shootings — were found at the scene.

About 20 minutes after the double shooting, a man told police a gunman fired a sawed-off shotgun at him from a passing car about a mile and a half from where the two youths were gunned down.

But police said they were unable to find any evidence of the blast, and doubted the shooting took place.

Nixon asks extension

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, who has been told he owes $467,000 in back taxes and interest, has obtained a 60-day extension of the April 15 filing date for his 1973 tax return.

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the extension was the type "any taxpayer can request" for additional time in filing a return.

He said Nixon asked for the extension because of the possible effect of the back-tax ruling on his 1973 return.

The Internal Revenue Service and a joint congressional committee on taxation ruled April 3 that Nixon owed back taxes for the years 1969-72.

The IRS disallowed Nixon's deductions for the gift of his vice presidential papers and certain real estate. Nixon has said he would pay the taxes.

City, county residents report weekend larcenies

Seven 8-track tapes and a billfold containing $40 was taken from a Washington C.H. woman's car over the weekend police reported, also listing two bicycle larcenies and a bicycle recovery.

The Sheriff's Department reported a stolen mini-bike and two recovered bicycles.

The tapes, valued at $42, and a billfold, which contained $40, were stolen out of a car owned by Sandy Minzler, 610 Broadway, sometime between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday.

Police reported the car was parked in front of the Minzler residence when the theft occurred.

A girls' 20-inch bicycle, valued at $25, was taken from the lawn at the John Phillips home, 334 Delaware St., sometime Friday morning and a bicycle was also taken sometime between Thursday night and 12:30 p.m. Saturday from the sidewalk in front of the Randy T. McKinny residence, 640 S. Fayette St. This bicycle, valued at $79, was a boys' five-speed, black "Flying Wedge," police reported.

Another bike was recovered at the intersection of Clemson Plaza and Church Street at 3:44 p.m. Sunday. Police are holding the bicycle, described as a purple 20-incher with pink streamers hanging from the handlebars, in the city property room.

The Sheriff's Department reported two bicycles recovered in Paint Creek, south of Bloomingburg on Ohio Rt. 38 at 2:25 p.m. Saturday.

Two boys found the bikes while fishing and reported them to sheriff's deputies. One of the bikes has been returned to its owner and the other, a girls' white and red Huffy wheel is being held, pending owner identification.

A mini-bike, valued at $200 and owned by Ralph Detty, Jeffersonville, was taken from the Detty garage sometime between Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the incident reported the ignition key had been left in the mini-bike.

AFTER THE VERDICT — Former United Mine Workers head W. A. "Tony" Boyle climbs out of car at a Media, Pa., hospital after he was found guilty of murder in connection with the 1969 slaying of Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., proponents of opposing views, agreed on and introduced a compromise bill with less government participation than Kennedy previously had insisted on and more than Mills had favored.

Mills has announced plans for consideration of this legislation one day a week, with the rest of the time going to tax reform.

Albert, acknowledging that the timing is tight, has said "we want a health insurance bill this year."

A member of Mills' committee predicted privately that as time goes on the immensely controversial provisions of a general tax reform bill will remain unresolved and the emphasis will swing to getting out the health measure.

Mills himself has voted that the outcome may be a sharply limited tax bill trimming some obvious preferences — and a promise that, without fail, the general revision will be tackled in the next congress.

Albert listed campaign financing reform as a priority measure. Just before the recess, the Senate passed a tough bill emphasizing public financing of campaigns.

There is strong opposition on the House to public financing, especially of congressional campaigns, a feeling shared by Chairman Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, of the Administration Committee that is in charge of the legislation. Up to now, the House bill has not progressed far but hearings are under way. Albert reportedly has done some discreet prodding.

"The nation's first priority should be to combat unemployment and to perk up productivity by creating jobs," the Speaker said in his recess statement. "We should seek to increase small business loans and to loosen the shackles on credit that now hogtie the housing industry...We need public service employment programs..."

A supplemental appropriation bill exceeding Nixon's recommendations for funding public service jobs cleared the House just before the recess.

A major housing measure that would cover some of the other areas Albert cited is taking shape in the House Banking Committee.

Police auction sale realizes $800-plus

More than $800 was collected during an auction sale of stolen and unclaimed merchandise conducted by the Washington C.H. Police Department Saturday afternoon in the city service department garage on W. Elm Street.

Police Specialist Larry Walker said about $872 was realized, but an exact figure will not be known until a final tally is completed with Jack Stackhouse, city auditor.

A total of 142 items were placed on the auction block. Included were 34 bicycles, hub caps, cameras, radios, clothing, 50 packs of cigarettes and a toothbrush.

Police officers arranged a system in which bidders were required to register. Walker said there were 187 bidders.

The auctioneer for the sale of the merchandise which has been held by city police for over 90 days was Police Specialist William Cales.

CALES, who is involved with Boy Scout troops in Fayette County and has handled some auctions for them, knocked down the 142 items in about an hour and a half.

The bicycles seemed to be the principal item of interest among the nearly 200 bidders.

A 10-speed racing bicycle was purchased for $65 and ranked as the highest priced item on the list. Other 10-speed bikes were sold for around $50, and some of the older bicycles averaged about $10 each.

Money collected from Saturday's police auction sale will be placed in the city's general fund.

Assisting Cales besides Walker were Police Chief Rodman Scott, Police Specialist Larry Hott and Patrolman Mike Stritenberger.

New motel scheduled north of Wilmington

WILMINGTON — Construction will begin soon on a new 48-unit, two-story modular motel to be located north of Wilmington near I-71.

Thomas C. McMillan, Rt. 3, Wilmington, owner and builder announced that the motel will be located just west of the present L-K restaurant off the U.S. 68 and I-71 interchange.

The complex will be leased and managed by L-K Enterprises, a Consolidated Foods Co. division.

PINNED IN WRECKAGE — Officers from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, employees of Ted Warner's Wrecking Service and other helpers on the scene, try desperately to free Mrs. Vickie James, 28, West Union, W. Va. from the wreckage of her car. It took a half hour to extricate the woman's body, and it is believed by the Sheriff's Department that she and the three other persons killed in the truck-car collision Saturday night on Ohio 41-S died instantly.

STOP SIGN STANDS — Ironically, the stop sign at the intersection of Ohio Rt. 41 and Rowe-Ging Road still stands after a truck and a Volkswagen collided near it and even knocked over a utility pole, bringing down a live 22,000-volt wire. Even more ironic is the fact that investigating sheriff's deputies believe failure to heed the stop sign was the cause of the tragedy which killed four people Saturday night. They believe the driver of the truck, Robert G. Smith, 43, Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., ran the stop sign and then collided with the Volkswagen traveling on Ohio Rt. 41.

Fighting increases in Mideast

By The Associated Press
Israeli and Syrian gunners traded artillery and tank fire on the Golan Heights war front today after a weekend of the hardest fighting since the October war.

The Israeli military command said shelling resumed this morning along the northern sector of the 300-square-mile bulge captured by Israel during the October fighting.

The announcement made no mention of casualties.

The command also announced the appointment of Brig. Gen. Rafael Eytan, who led Israel's thrust into Syria in October, to command Israel's northern front with both Syria and Lebanon.

Eytan, who was promoted to major general, takes over from Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, who was promoted to chief of staff.

Israeli fighter-bombers on Sunday attacked Syrian forces on Mt. Hermon and the Golan Heights while below them the armies of the two countries battled fiercely with tanks and artillery.

The Israeli military command said all its planes returned safely Sunday, denying a Syrian claim that four were downed. Syria also claimed 50 Israeli ground troops were killed or wounded, but Israel said only 17 were wounded.

Syria said 15 of its soldiers were killed and 10 were wounded.

Israel said a Syrian commando unit made another unsuccessful attempt to capture an Israeli observation post at the northern end of 9,000-foot Mt. Hermon, which has an unrestricted view for 100 miles and more into Syria.

Later in the day, tanks and artillery duelled the length of the 40-mile front across the Golan Heights, and Israeli planes attacked the Syrian positions for four hours during the afternoon, the Israeli command said.

Meanwhile, the U.N. Security Council was to be called into session this afternoon to discuss the Israeli raid on six Lebanese villages Friday night. The raid was in retaliation for an Arab guerrilla attack on Lebanon last Thursday on an Israeli village in which 18 Israelis and the three guerrillas died.

Lebanon reported to the Council that "two Lebanese civilians were killed and others wounded, 13 Lebanese civilians were kidnapped and 31 houses destroyed" in the Israeli raid.

The council was expected to adopt a resolution later in the week condemning Israel, and Israel was expected to ignore it.

In Israel, President Ehphraim Katzir gave the Labor party 10 days to find a successor to Premier Golda Meir. He said if they didn't come up with one, he would call on the leader of the right-wing Likud block, Menahem Begin, to try.

The U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv reported to the State Department that Yitzhak Rabin, a 52-year-old hero of the 1967 war and a former ambassador to the United States, was the odds-on favorite for the premiership.

But veteran political observers in Jerusalem said Rabin is opposed by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, and an attempt to make him premier could split the party.

Kissinger talks to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was expected to give the United States government's qualified support today to the demands of less developed nations for greater participation in the use of the world's natural resources.

At the same time, Kissinger's speech to the United Nations General Assembly was to include an assertion of the industrialized world's claim to continued access to raw materials.

U.S. officials said the secretary's address would be relatively brief and would stress three things:

1. There is a need for a more equitable handling of the world's natural resources.

2. A solution must result from cooperative planning, and the less developed nations who hold raw materials should not seek a confrontation with the richer countries.

3. The General Assembly should avoid broad, grandiose declarations and work instead from a base of relatively narrow, practical agreements.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert observed the start of Congress' Easter break by issuing a statement of accomplishments and plans with national health insurance placed first on the list.

The statement was compiled after a joint meeting of the House and Senate Democratic leadership. It added to other indications that the congressional chiefs are trimming their overgrown agenda and aiming at enactment of a choice package of voter-appealing measures.

Death apparently came instantaneously to four persons involved in a two-vehicle accident at 10:02 p.m. Saturday, at the intersection of Ohio Rt. 41-S and Rowe-Ging Road.

Dead are:
Robert G. Smith, 43, Staunton-Sugar Grove Road;

Mrs. Vickie James, 28, West Union, W. Va.;

Her son, Phillip W. James, 5, West Union, W. Va.;

Mrs. Lois M. Smith, 32, Greenfield.

The four victims were pronounced dead on arrival at Fayette Memorial Hospital by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

Two other children were injured.

Sheriff Don Thompson and his deputies, who investigated the accident, believe Robert Smith, who was driving a 1968 GMC pickup truck, ran the stop sign at the intersection of Rowe-Ging Road and Ohio Rt. 41-S at Wilson School.

Mrs. James, her three children and a friend, Mrs. Lois Smith, were traveling in a 1971 Volkswagen on Ohio Rt. 41, and collided with the Smith truck.

Impact of the accident caused Todd and Chad James, the only survivors of the accident, to be thrown from the Volkswagen. The bodies of Mrs. James and Mrs. Smith were pinned in the

Grim statistic

A four-fatality accident on Ohio 41-S Saturday night brought Fayette County's 1974 traffic death toll to six, three times the number killed in crashes during all of 1973.

On the comparable date last year, there had been no traffic fatalities in the county. The first traffic death of 1973 occurred during the summer, another in the early winter.

wreckage and Phillip James was found in the rear seat. Robert Smith's body was pinned in his truck, which overturned against a utility pole, bringing down a live 22,000-volt wire.

The bodies of those pinned in the wreckage were extricated by officers and employees of the Ted Warner Wrecking Service.

Sheriff's Deputies Robert A. Russell and R.W. Burke, who first arrived on the scene, summoned three ambulances which, after taking the victims to Fayette Memorial Hospital, removed the four bodies to Murray Funeral Home in Greenfield.

Sheriff Thompson and deputies Kenneth Smith and Robert L. Cannon were soon on the scene along with Ronald Palmer, a Washington C.H. auxiliary policeman, who assisted by directing traffic.

The two children who lived through the accident, Todd Allen James, 9, West Union, W. Va., and his brother, Chad C. James, 2, were thrown from the Volkswagen. Todd was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital for scalp lacerations and admitted. He is reported in fair condition. Chad was also treated at the hospital for scalp lacerations but was released.

Sheriff Thompson told The Record-Herald that ambulances and officers at the scene were hindered by the crowd of onlookers who pulled over on the roadside to see what had happened.

One of them, Harold E. Smith, 19, Bloomington, was placed under arrest by Sheriff Thompson and charged with refusal to comply with orders of a police officer during a time of emergency.

Under the new Ohio Revised Code this offense is a minor misdemeanor, carrying with it a maximum fine of $100. Smith presently is free under $100 bond.

Sheriff Thompson said he was fearful of what else could have happened Saturday night with people milling around, getting in the way of ambulances and officers at the scene.

"In a situation like this, every second counts," Thompson exclaimed. "A crowd of people, such as Saturday night, could have easily caused a death by their getting in the way and impeding ambulance progress. It's best to be careful, keep moving and follow the instructions officers give."

Thompson added even when it was realized a live 22,000-volt electric line was on the ground and the sight seers alerted, they still insisted on swarming around the scene.

"It's a miracle we didn't have more fatalities after the accident!" Thompson stated.

County and an employee of the Ohio Department of Transportation, is survived by his wife, Barbara; a son, James Robert, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Jack (Carole) Wilson, Rt. 2, (Please turn to Page 9)

4 persons killed in Ohio 41 crash

High winds, rain sweep over Ohio

By The Associated Press
High winds, rain mixed with pelting hail and two tornadoes interrupted an otherwise partly cloudy and comfortable Easter Sunday, the National Weather Service said.

The storms which raced through Ohio at midday left roofs off their hinges and some trees uprooted in Central Ohio, authorities reported.

Most of the day was filled with sunshine and warm temperatures as many Ohioans took to the roads and outside to enjoy one of the first breaks in rainy, cold weather.

Tornadoes were sighted by the weather service at Grove City and La Rue. Winds near the twisters were clocked up to 70 m.p.h., the service said.

At least five persons were injured when several mobile homes in the Marion area were damaged by high winds, rain and hail, authorities said.

Three persons received minor cuts and bruises when winds toppled more than a half-dozen trailer homes near New Bloomington, a dispatcher at the La Rue Fire Department said.

There were power outages in southwest Ohio as a result of the high winds, authorities said.

Most of the state was under a tornado watch Sunday afternoon as a storm front moved through the state from Indiana into Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Northern Ohio was warned of high winds through the evening.

A low pressure system and associated cold front were responsible for Sunday's turbulent weather.

By dawn today the system had

Blustery gales cause area loss

Once again Fayette County area residents stood under the shadow of tornado and severe storm alerts as heavy winds disturbed a calm Easter Sunday.

Fayette County and several neighboring counties were placed under a tornado warning for several hours Sunday afternoon, but only scattered wind damage was reported.

George Winkle, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co., Washington C.H. district office, said damage was "fairly heavy but scattered" as power lines, poles and transformers were downed by the strong wind gusts.

A 7,200-volt power line was downed at 2:10 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of CCC Highway-E and West Road, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Sgt. William R. Crooks, of the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, and a passing motorist were able to remove a fallen telephone pole which had blocked traffic on Creek Road, just south of Flakes Ford Road, at 3:34 p.m. Sunday. Ohio Bell Telephone Co. workers were dispatched to the scene for repairs.

The strong winds blew a large barn from its foundation near Jeffersonville Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John Hoppes, who resides on the farm located on Blessing Chapel Road, about three miles north of Jeffersonville, said the large two-story wooden barn was blown from its foundation shortly after 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Two horses and about $5,000 worth of hay, plus some small farm equipment were lost. The farm is owned by Mrs. Pearl Hoppes.

While high winds plagued area residents, only a trace of precipitation was recorded. Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C.H. weather observer, measured .02 of an inch, part of it as hail, in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

moved north and east of the state, leaving behind only a few lingering showers and strong westerly winds.

This activity was forecast to diminish by afternoon, and clearing skies were expected over southern counties.

Cooler temperatures were forecast across the state tonight and Tuesday.

Americans 'complacent' about energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Environmental Protection Agency says the end of the Arab oil embargo has prompted Americans to become "very complacent" again about conserving energy.

EPA Administrator Russel Train said Sunday there was too much emphasis on expanding supplies of energy rather than reducing demand.

"I am concerned that with the cutoff of the Arab embargo the American public is going to go back to its wasteful ways," Train said on the CBS television program "Face the Nation."

"I think that we're very complacent about this, not really recognizing that we're in for a long-term energy problem in this country," he said.

"We've got to make up our minds...that we better start giving the highest possible priority to reducing the use of energy."

Train said a switch to smaller cars is "probably the largest single energy savings that we could make."

Meanwhile, New England utilities today return their voltage to full power after a winter cutback to save fuel.

A spokesman for the New England Power Pool said the federal allocation system and ending of the oil embargo have stabilized the supply of fuel to the region's electric generating plants.

Brooke pushes Nixon to quit

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., says he favors granting immunity to President Nixon from Watergate-related charges if the President agrees to resign.

"The price of stepping down from the highest office in this country would be a penalty that would meet any crime that could have been committed," Brooke said in a television interview Sunday.

He said Nixon's resignation would have to be accompanied by a bill of particulars outlining the charges to which he would admit guilt, similar to the procedure followed when former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew stepped down and pleaded no contest to federal tax charges.

Federal income tax deadline arrives; expect late flood

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is April 15, the deadline for filing your 1973 income tax return, unless you live in Maine, Massachusetts or North Carolina.

In those states you have until Tuesday because today is a legal holiday — Patriot's day in Maine and Massachusetts and Easter Monday in North Carolina.

The Internal Revenue Service estimated that it will receive more than 80 million returns this year, up considerably from 425,000 returns filed in 1913, the year that the Payne-Aldrich act created the income tax.

And of these 80 million, officials say nearly half are sent in during the last two weeks, with many tax-payers hurrying to the post office to get them postmarked before the midnight deadline.

Officials of the IRS declined to estimate the number of persons who may be trying to cheat on their taxes, although one spokesman said such attempts seem to be running about the same level as in the past.

Last year the IRS prosecuted 1,342

persons for income tax evasion. Of these 821 pleaded guilty, 330 pleaded no contest, including former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, 123 were convicted after pleading innocent and 68 were acquitted.

Thanks to withholding, many taxpayers are in line for refunds, and the IRS says the average refund this year is about $360.

Free tax assistance is offered by IRS, but spokesmen report that nearly half of the nation's taxpayers seek assistance from commercial tax preparers.

And the Tax Reform Research Group, an investigative organization, has charged that checks of IRS offices in seven states revealed mistakes and inconsistencies in the advice IRS gives to taxpayers.

Officials said group staffers took identical tax forms and questions to at least three IRS offices in each of seven states. They said IRS advice ranged from telling them they could expect a refund of $812 in Flushing, N.Y., but that they owed the government $52 at the Portland, Ore., office.

Congress to push health insurance plan

pre-empt much of its time between now and the November election, Congress is beginning to feel squeezed.

One of the items that could fall to the cutting-room floor is across-the-board tax reform. Only last year a concerted drive to close loopholes was being trumpeted by many as Congress' prime concern and assurances were given that the House Ways and Means Committee, which made a start early in 1973, would turn to it again early this year.

General tax reform does not even appear on Albert's list.

The Ways and Means Committee set tax reform aside last year at President Nixon's request to take up his foreign trade bill.

Ways and Means — the tax, trade and Social Security committee — did not go back promptly to the loophole-closing job. It sent a Social Security benefit increase on to enactment and then worked out a massive pension reform bill, which is now in conference for reconciliation with a Senate-passed measure.

Next the tax writers took up a limited tax bill with high topical appeal — a levy on crisis-swollen windfall profits of oil companies.

Ready to be sent to the House when Congress returns, the bill sets stiff taxes on windfall profits, but allows oil companies to avoid payment of much of these by plying the funds back into exploration and development of additional energy supplies. It also provides for a gradual phaseout of the controversial oil depletion allowance.

Meanwhile, there was a breakthrough in the years-long effort to form a winning coalition behind a plan

Deaths, Funerals

Russell L. Johnson

Russell L. Johnson, 71, of 313 Fountain Ave., died at 11:58 a.m. Sunday in Fayette Memorial Hospital. Born in Madison County, Mr. Johnson had resided in Washington C.H. the past 12 years and made his home with a sister, Mrs. Otis Locey, for the past seven years. He was a retired farmer.

Surviving besides his sister are his estranged wife, Helen, of Dayton; two sons, Russell L. Johnson Jr., Dayton, and Frank Johnson, of Irwin; three daughters, Mrs. William (Anna) Hayslip, Mrs. Gene (Sandra) Bennett, and Miss Sue Lynn Johnson, all of London, and 13 grandchildren.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Parrett Funeral Home with the Rev. Ernest Beverly officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery, Mount Sterling. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Miss Alma Stoltz

SABINA — Miss Alma Stoltz, of Sabina, died at 6:50 a.m. Sunday in the Fischer Convalescent Center, Washington C.H., where she had been a patient for six months.

Born near Sabina, she had been a resident there all her life and was a 1908 graduate of Sabina High School. She is survived by a sister, Miss Fay Stoltz, Sabina.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Littleton Funeral Home, with the Rev. Robert Miller officiating. Burial will be in Sabina Cemetery.

Friends, who may call at the funeral home from 3 until 5 p.m. and from 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday, are asked to contribute to their favorite charity in her memory.

Thomas L. Honaker

WAVERLY — Services for Thomas L. Honaker, 76, of Piketon, will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Boyer Funeral Home, Waverly, with the Rev. Donald Williams officiating. Burial will be in Waverly Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Honaker, a native of Zebulon, Ky., died at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at his home. He was a retired employe of the Norfolk and Western Railroad with whom he had worked at the Portsmouth yards for 46 years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gertrude Thompson; a son, Dr. Thomas T. Honaker, Portsmouth; four daughters, Mrs. Mary L. Arnold, Cincinnati, Mrs. Clara Fleser, Waverly, Mrs. Glenn Armitrout, Bogus Rd., and Mrs. Geneva Damron, Kent, 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

HARRY F. ROBERTS — Funeral services for Harry F. Roberts, 81, of 1205 Willard St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, with the Rev. Russell Knisley officiating. Mr. Roberts, a resident of Fayette County for the past 60 years and a retired storekeeper, died Wednesday.

Mrs. Glenn Roberts and Mrs. George Salyers sang two hymns, accompanied by Mrs. Maudeline Bonecutter at the organ. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Glenn, James and Gerald Roberts, Eugene Summers, James Patton and Edward West. Arrangements were under the direction of the Parrett Funeral Home.

JAMES D. BREWER — Services for James D. Brewer, 67, of Sabina, were held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. Terry Parnell officiating. Mr. Brewer, a retired farmer, died Wednesday.

Mr. Walter Stackhouse, was the organist, and Miss Mary Ann Sharp sang two hymns. Pallbearers for the burial in 100F Cemetery, New Vienna, were Charles and Leon Brewer, Gary Coy, Phil Jones, John Carey and Dick Dailey.

OVA W. GIBSON — Services for Ova W. Gibson, 79, of Reesville, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. Ted Cano officiating. Mr. Gibson died Wednesday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Clinton County Memory Gardens were John Graham, Leroy Woodland, Tim, Ron and Delbert Gibson, Fred Wiget, Ronald Witham and Denver Roland.

MRS. GRACE DAY — Services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, for Mrs. Grace McVey Day, 86, who died Thursday in the home of a son in Charlotte, N. Car. The Rev. Ted Cano, pastor of the Richland United Methodist Church, officiated, and Mrs. Walter Stackhouse was at the organ.

Pallbearers for the burial in Lees Creek Cemetery were Dwight Holmes, Robert and Edgar McFadden, Clarence Hodson, Harold and Harry McVey and Darrell Woodruff.

See food stamp eligibility rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff study says rising food prices over the next two years may result in making one out of every four Americans eligible for government food stamps.

This would push program costs from the current $3 billion annually to a possible $10 billion, according to a staff study prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee.

The study was released Sunday by Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., chairman of the joint committee's fiscal policy subcommittee.

"Unless food prices stabilize before July 4, 1976, an estimated 60 million Americans — more than one in four — might be eligible for food stamps at some time during the nation's bicentennial year," Mrs. Griffiths said in a statement.

Cecil W. Benson

GREENFIELD — Cecil W. Benson, 53, of Greenfield, died at 6:15 p.m. Sunday in Greenfield Hospital. A native of Pike County, Mr. Benson had resided in Greenfield for many years and had been ill for some time.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary O'Connor whom he married in 1960; a daughter, Miss Betty Ann Benson, at home; four stepdaughters, Mrs. Nora Pollick, Gary, Ind., Mrs. Evelyn Briscoe, Greenfield, Mrs. Virginia Penwell, Vevay, Ind., and Mrs. Shirley Miller, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and seven stepsons, Henry, Fred, George, Ben and Eugene Penwell, of Greenfield, Everett Penwell, South Salem, and Lloyd Penwell, Michigan City, Ind. One stepson preceded him in death.

Also surviving are a brother, Harley Benson, of Greenfield, and five sisters, Mrs. Rosa Clouser and Mrs. Ethel Bennett, of Greenfield, Mrs. Goldie Wilson, Rt. 1, Washington C.H., Miss Iva Benson, Springfield, and Mrs. Frances Woehler, Cincinnati. Two brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Greenfield United Brethren Church, with the Rev. Robert K. Blaine officiating. Burial will be in Greenfield Cemetery. Friends may call at the Murray Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Wednesday.

MRS. CLEO N. COIL — Services for Mrs. Cleo Null Coil, 70, a former resident of Jeffersonville and London, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Morrow Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Charles Richmond officiating. Mrs. Coil, the widow of William Coil, died Thursday in the Washington Avenue Nursing Home here.

Mrs. Richmond was the vocalist. Pallbearers for the burial in Fairview Cemetery were William Casto Sr., William Casto Jr., Charles Ellis, Lloyd Barnhart, Donald Miller, Roger Bowsel, Lawrence William Coil and Gary Coil.

Showers, fog mark weather

By The Associated Press
Thundershowers rumbled through the Northeast and the South today, while high winds caused flooding on the eastern coast of Lake Erie.

The showers in the Northeast spread from New England to eastern Pennsylvania. Fog cut visibilities to less than a miles along portions of the north Atlantic coast.

Parts of New York also reported thundershowers.

Waters of wind-whipped Lake Erie brought some flooding along the shore at Buffalo, N.Y., and Erie, Pa. Gusts were reported to reach 50 miles per hour.

In the South, thundershowers spread along the Carolina coast and the Gulf coast from Louisiana to southern Texas. Hail the size of golf balls pelted the Texas communities of Charlotte and Derby on Sunday night.

Elsewhere, rain and thundershowers were reported in parts of Florida, Nebraska and South Dakota. Drizzle pestered northern Indiana and light snow fell in Northern Michigan.

Some clouds spread over the Pacific Northwest, but skies were mostly clear west of the Mississippi.

Freeze warnings were posted in Missouri, where temperatures were expected to dip during the night.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 77 at Key West, Fla., to 24 at Laramie, Wyo.

Steel plan to cost $31 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50,000 steel workers are to benefit from $31 million in back wages to be paid out under an industry-wide plan for ending racial and sex discrimination in employment.

Government sources said the agreement, resulting from lengthy industry-government negotiations, was to be formalized today with the signing of a consent decree in U.S. District Court by officials of nine major steel firms.

The voluntary agreement is believed to mark the country's first industry-wide equal employment program and could set a pattern for similar programs in other industries.

The United Steelworkers Union, which holds contracts with the nine companies, agreed to contribute a share of the back wages.

In return for the voluntary agreement, the firms involved will be exempt from any equal opportunity

Weekend crashes claim 13 lives

By The Associated Press

Thirteen persons died on Ohio's highways over the Easter weekend, four of them in a single accident Saturday near Washington Court House.

Two died in a Friday night crash at Cincinnati. The others, including two motorcyclists, died in separate accidents:

The dead:

SUNDAY

PORT CLINTON — John A. Bargo Sr., 55, Port Clinton, killed when his car struck a stone pillar on an Ottawa County road three miles east of Port Clinton.

CINCINNATI — Steven A. Hogan, 18, Cincinnati, killed when his car ran off Ohio 32 near Newton, hit a pole and burst into flames.

CINCINNATI — Margaret Scott, 17, address unknown, in a one-car crash on U. S. 50 in Hamilton County.

SATURDAY

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE — Robert G. Smith, 42, Washington Court House, Lois Maxine Smith, 32, of Greenfield, and Vickie James, 28, West Union, W. Va., and a passenger, Phillip Wayne James, 5, also of West Union, in a two-car collision two miles south of Washington Court House on Ohio 41.

MANSFIELD — James Precht, 32, Shelby, when his motorcycle veered off a Mansfield street and slammed into a sign.

DELAWARE — Patricia Adkins, 35, Sunbury, in a one-car crash on Ohio 605 in Delaware County.

MEDIAN — Brian Keton, 17, Medina, in a car-train crash on Ohio 252 in Medina County.

FRIDAY NIGHT

CINCINNATI — Alicia Allen, 22, Cincinnati, and her sister, Gane Mitchell, 3, also of Cincinnati, in a two-car crash on Central Parkway.

Proxmire pushes end to agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire today called for abolition of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Selective Service and 14 other agencies on grounds they are useless and wasteful.

Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic subcommittee on priorities and economy in government, said that if any of the 16 are serving a useful purpose their functions can be moved to an existing agency.

"Virtually every bill passed by the Congress and signed by the president establishes some new agency, commission, board or advisory council," Proxmire said in a statement. "Once started, they take on a life of their own. They are never abolished."

For example, Proxmire said, Selective Service is asking $41 million this year to keep in operation even though under the law no one can be drafted.

Here are other agencies he proposes to abolish, and his reasons:

Renegotiation Board — He said this agency, which reviews profits of companies doing business with the

3 persons marked for death by Symbionese Liberationists

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The three persons marked for death by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army are trying to prove they are not FBI informers and have gone underground to avoid being "shot on sight."

SLA "death warrants" for Colston Westbrook, Chris Thompson and Robyn Steiner were included in the last communiqué from the group that claimed responsibility for kidnapping newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

SLA Field Marshal General Cinque issued the execution orders in the April 3 message, which also included Miss Hearst's declaration that she had joined her terrorist kidnappers and renounced her family.

The most frequent communication from the three targets has been from Westbrook, 35, a teaching assistant at University of California at Berkeley, whose greetings are played by CORDOBA, Argentina (AP) — Doctors declared U.S. Information Service chief Alfred Laun III "out of danger" today more than 72 hours after Marxist guerrillas shot him in the stomach, kidnapped him and abandoned him.

Doctors said they will decide in the next 48 hours whether it is convenient to transfer Laun to Buenos Aires.

The 36-year-old American was shot as he struggled with guerrillas of the People's Revolutionary Army who kidnapped him Friday from his home 20 miles north of Cordoba.

He was found abandoned 15 hours later on a street in Cordoba and rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery.

A communiqué issued by the guerrilla group said Laun was to have been tried by a "people's court" for alleged links with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and for giving communications assistance to the right-wing military leaders who overthrew the late President Salvador Allende in Chile last September.

employment suits for five years, sources said.

Under the agreement, elimination of seniority along racial lines in steel mills would be accompanied by setting of goals and timetables for the hiring and promotion of minority workers. The program also would eliminate sex-based discrimination.

The agreement calls for replacing the industry's current system of dual seniority with plant-wide seniority systems.

To counter sex discrimination, the steel firms agreed to make good-faith efforts to hire one woman for every four men added to the production and maintenance payroll.

The accord, which grew out of negotiations with the Equal Opportunity Commission and the Justice and Labor departments, would provide individual payments of back wages ranging from $250 to $1,000, with the average estimated at about $600.

The back pay would be divided government, allowed Grumman Aircraft to keep a 76 per cent return on net worth and Dow Chemical Co. to keep a 48 per cent profit.

Civil Defense — "The shelter programs, the evacuation program, and the contribution programs are sterling examples of make-work" because "in the nuclear world there is no place to hide."

Interstate Commerce Commission — The ICC has established monopolies, reduced competition and ordered high and uneconomic rates to cover the cost of inefficient producers, Proxmire said.

The Central Intelligence Agency's "department of dirty tricks" is counterproductive in interfering with other governments, Proxmire said.

Small Business Administration — The agency has a history of political favoritism and helps less than one per cent of eligible businesses, he said.

automatic equipment for those who telephone his Berkeley home. The messages change frequently.

"Thanks for the telephone calls and support," said Westbrook's latest message Sunday. "I hope you have an enjoyable Easter."

Westbrook, who said he earlier had gone East but was back in the San Francisco Bay area, warned he would arm himself if the SLA did not listen to reason. He asked for a lie detector test or a trial with state prison inmates as jurors to clear his name.

Westbrook apparently came in contact with SLA members at Vacaville Medical Facility where he helped found a black cultural association for inmates.

Miss Steiner, 20, identified as a former girl friend of alleged SLA member Russell Little, has been in hiding since the communiqué, her attorney Phillip Carlton said over the weekend. Carlton said he has pleaded with the terrorists to communicate with him.

Little is imprisoned on murder charges in the slaying of Oakland Schools superintendent Marcus Foster last fall.

Gov. Gilligan discloses finances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan reported income of $45,875 in 1973 and paid federal income taxes totaling $11,501, a report showed today.

The report was issued by Gilligan himself, he said, "because I continue to believe that the people of Ohio and this national need to be reassured that their public officials are acting openly and honestly in all of their personal and public dealings."

Gilligan, in a joint return listing his wife, reported income from wages and other compensation of $79,884, dividends of $3,546, interest of $377 and other income of $1,668.

The "other income" category listed $2,125 from the sale or exchange of capital assets, business losses of $1,097, a state income tax refund of $140 and an honorarium of $500 from Harvard University.

among some 50,000 workers, mostly blacks, who went to work for the nine steel firms before 1968. Sharing in the money would be about 400 women employes.

In addition to the $31 million, implementing of the new seniority system may cost the industry millions of dollars more, sources said.

Firms covered by the agreement include U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, National, Armco, WheelingPittsburgh, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Allegheny Ludlum Industries.

The companies had initiated the talks with government officials last year after an increase of government equal-opportunity actions in the steel industry.

Inland Steel Co., headquartered in Indiana Harbor, Ind., declined to accept the voluntary program and dropped out of the negotiations. Sources said the government is expected to file suit against Inland.

Stock prices move higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices headed higher in the stock market today, attempting to snap out of the sluggish and drifting trend of the past two weeks.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up a fraction, and gainers led losers by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it appeared hopes for an easing of the recent sharp rise of interest rates was prompting scattered buying.

Today's prices on the Big Board included Teleprompter, up 1/4 to 5 1/2; Westinghouse Electric, down 1/4 to 18 1/4; Atlantic Richfield, up 1/2 to 90 1/2, and CNA Financial, unchanged at 9 1/2.

National Cash Register, buoyed by a strong first quarter earnings gain, added 3/4 to 36 3/4.

Louisiana-Pacific, which announced that talks for the acquisition of Sierra Pacific Industries had been called off, was down 1/4 to 23 1/4.

On last week's final trading day, Thursday, prices were mixed as Big Board volume slumped to 9.97 million shares, its lowest total since last Aug. 27.

Rockets hit Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Rebel gunners fired three rockets into Phnom Penh's southern suburbs today. One round hit the asphalt by the front gate of the presidential palace and the other two crashed into a nearby home, wounding three persons, police said.

Field reports said insurgent troops stormed into a government outpost eight miles south of Phnom Penh before dawn, but its garrison had fled during the night.

The bodies of eight government soldiers were reportedly left behind.

The outpost, which is only two miles from Takhmau, a southern suburb of Phnom Penh, had been under attack for five days, the Cambodian command said. It said intelligence reports indicated the rebels have been moving artillery into the region to strike Phnom Penh.

The Khmer Rouge fired five rockets into the southern part of Phnom Penh on Sunday. No casualties were reported, but two of rockets landed near the presidential palace and the American Embassy.

It was the capital's second rocket attack in two days.

Heavy fighting also was reported around rebel-held Oudong, 23 miles north of Phnom Penh where government troops were trying to break out of a beachhead on the Tonle Sap River three miles east of the town. Oudong was taken by the rebels on March 18.

In Saigon, government military sources said South Vietnamese bombers attacked the Viet Cong headquarters at Loc Ninh again Sunday.

Report Nixon put pressure on Agnew for resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new book on Spiro T. Agnew's tax case says that while President Nixon kept voicing support for Agnew in public, White House aides eventually met privately with Agnew to demand his resignation.

Nixon was particularly worried about Agnew taking the "impeachment track" by aiming his case toward the House of Representatives, according to the book, "A Heartbeat Away," being published today by Viking Press.

Agnew finally made a deal with the Justice Department, resigned Oct. 10 and pleaded no contest to a single charge of income tax evasion.

The authors of the book, Washington Post reporters Richard M. Cohen and Jules Witcover, said the Agnew impeachment option "was fraught with ominous parallel for the President himself."

"If Agnew could be impeached and convicted, then perhaps it would not be so difficult for the now-reluctant congressmen to place Nixon on the same track and ride him out of office."

Reformatory guards strike at Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mansfield Reformatory was operating "fairly normally" in spite of a strike by more than half of the prison's employees, Supt. Robert White said Sunday.

Pickets barred deliveries of food and other supplies, White said, as the strike entered its third day Monday.

Some 260 of the institution's 450 guard and nonsupervisory employees were off the job in what they describe as a "confrontation" with prison officials over a list of grievances.

Some workers inside the prison were operating the prison, White said.

A Richland County judge ordered the number of pickets at the facility's entrance be limited, White said, but strikers ignored the injunction.

The facility houses about 1,300 inmates, White said.

The workers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, submitted a list of grievances last week.

It included a request for an officers' lounge and new parking lot, White said.

Guards were also upset over complaints of brutality lodged by inmates with the prison's citizen advisory council, White said. A council member was reported to have made public the complaints last week, inciting the walkout.

White said no negotiations have been attempted. Representatives of the workers met with officials of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction last Thursday in Columbus.

Another meeting was scheduled for Tuesday, but there's no word on whether that will take place, White said.

President given decorated egg

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was met with applause and given a decorated egg after Easter services.

Nixon, his wife, Pat, daughter and son-in-law Tricia and Edward Cox and his friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo attended services Sunday at the Community Church near the Florida White House. The Rev. J.A. Geschwind wished the Nixons a happy Easter and said, "Our hearts are warmed by the presence of the First Family."

Youngsters applauded and shouted "Happy Easter" as the Nixon party left the church. Ten-year-old Martha Hutcheson presented the President with a decorated, purple egg.

Lottery Commission seeks headquarters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Selection of a location in Cleveland for permanent headquarters of the new Ohio Lottery Commission will be the subject of a meeting Tuesday in the lakeside city.

The commission's executive director, John Kirkland, said two sites were under consideration as headquarters—the University Circle Research Center near Case Western Reserve University and the Ernest J. Bohn Towers in the downtown area.

David Leahy, the commission's chairman, said both sites are viewed as excellent locations.

University Circle Research Center Corp. owns the campus site, and the other building is a public housing project for the elderly, with office space on the lower floors. It is owned by the Rockwell Development Co.

The headquarters can be in business in 60 days, once a decision is made, Leahy said.

He has said before ticket sales will begin in late July.

The Ohio Ethics Commission, in the meantime, is expected to decide within the next few months on a possible conflict of interest involving a member of the commission, Louis S. Goldman of Dayton.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, earlier this year, asked the ethics panel to determine whether Goldman's position as a senior partner in a Dayton law firm violated Ohio's new ethics law.

It was noted at the time Goldman's firm does business with several state agencies, including the Ohio Department of Taxation and the state Board of Tax Appeals.

The General Assembly last year passed a code of ethics outlawing any public officeholder from practicing law before state agencies.

Goldman himself raised the conflict of interest question in a Jan. 7 letter to Gilligan, and offered his resignation at the governor's discretion.

Campaign records showed the next day, Jan. 8, Gilligan's reelection campaign got a $3,000 contribution from Goldman.

Burning waste in St. Louis

There is a satisfying directness about St. Louis's approach to the problem of solid waste disposal. The waste is being burned, in a mixture of roughly 30 per cent trash and 80 per cent coal, to produce electricity.

Not just a little trash; all of it from a great city, with the electric company selling the non-burnable residue to firms that can make use of it.

Other cities are conducting various experiments in conversion of solid wastes to fuel for this or that purpose — to provide some heat for downtown buildings in Baltimore, for example.

The beauty of the St. Louis method is its simplicity. There is no intermediate processing to all to the complexity and therefore the cost of the operation; the waste is burned firsthand.

The St. Louis system merits intensive study by other communities. As conventional fuel costs rise, the use of solid waste for fuel becomes steadily more attractive.

A governor who sees for himself

The Republicans are in a sweat about the elections that are coming up this fall. But Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire has a relaxed attitude about things. He doesn't think the people are tired of Republicans as Republicans.

"This country," he says, "is tired of incumbents."

And, since there are more Democratic incumbents in office than there are Republicans, it follows from the governor's observation that the slaughter this coming November is likely to take some surprising turns.

Gov. Thomson is the most unusual of our politicians. He goes to governors' conferences and is appalled to find himself mingling with a most abject and timorous lot of men. They want the fruits of energy — the gasoline taxes, federal money for roads and whatnot — but a handful of self-proclaimed environmentalists can send them into a tizzy when it is a matter of doing anything about an Alaskan pipeline or a new seacoast refinery.

Practically alone in the New England states, the New Hampshire governor decided his region needed at least one refinery to take care of a future that is going to need more industry, not less. So he got into a hassle with the townspeople of Durham, who decided they wanted no part of a $600 million refinery that Aristotle Onassis' Olympic Refineries, Inc. offered to build.

WHEN, at the beginning of an interview, I commiserated with him about the rejection, he laughed it off. Onassis, he said, was still interested, and there are other towns in New Hampshire besides Durham. The refinery, he insisted, would be built elsewhere.

What I like about Gov. Thomson is that he goes and looks at things for himself. When the self-proclaimed environmentalists ran through the standard list of horrors that are supposedly inseparable from energy developments, the governor persuaded John Sherwin, a Manchester, N.Y., orthopedic surgeon, to fly him to the Golden Eagle refinery near Quebec City in Canada.

The Golden Eagle, a new operation, impressed him as being clean, odorless and as foolproof as any industrial plant can hope to be. He came home and told the citizens of his state what he had seen.

He also reported on what he had heard: the Golden Eagle, in five years, has had one accident, a spillage of 50 barrels of oil which cost $20,000 to clean up. One accident in five years impressed the governor as a reasonable hazard that would cause no permanent damage.

NOT CONTENT with looking at a modern refinery, Thomson poked his inquisitive nose into the Turkey Point nuclear power plant, built on the edge of a mangrove swamp by the Florida Power and Light Co. He was impressed with the fact that the safety monitoring of the plant is done by instruments built in triplicate.

The plant discharges its overheated water into a series of 38 canals that cool it some 15 degrees before it is used over again. While on its way through the maze of canals, the warm water supports a wide variety of marine life that thrives on heat. The shrimp industry is quite compatible with high water temperatures.

The reason why Gov. Thomson wanted a special look at a new atomic power plant is that New England, which already gets 13 per cent of its energy from nuclear sources, is going to require more, not less, atomic power whether it builds oil refineries or not.

New Hampshire has no sales tax and no income tax. I asked the governor how a state could be run without such routine sources of revenue. Said he, "In New Hampshire we live by taxing sin."

The state lottery lets the gamblers pay part of the cost of government, and the governor expects to get more money from legalized dog racing. This lets the more solid citizens keep their money to invest in good job-producing businesses, which benefits New Hampshire all around.

The governor's winning slogan is: "Axe the tax." He commends it to Washington politicians who are in danger of losing simply because they are incumbents.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

The abortion issue

WASHINGTON — It is not all Nixon-Watergate in this election year. Churning half submerged are issues that have a high emotional voltage and at the top of the list is abortion.

While it got little national attention, abortion may have had as much to do with the outcome in the Cincinnati election when Thomas A. Luken, a Democrat, defeated Willis A. Gradison Jr., Republican, for a seat that had been safely in the Republican column for 40 years, as the President's plight and the Watergate horrors.

The Greater Cincinnati Right to Life Committee put it squarely up to both candidates as that fiercely fought contest came down to the wire. The question put to both candidates was: If elected to Congress will you vote for the Hogan-Buckley-right-to-life amendment?

LUKEN, a Roman Catholic, answered yes. Gradison replied that while he was against abortion he was opposed to the amendment. In response to "potent religious pressures," as Gradison put it, this would enforce my views on others. It would be "another step toward a police state in America."

From then on abortion was a hot issue. Gradison brought Sen. James Buckley into the district to campaign for him. But Buckley's stand was considered by many Catholics and by others in the religious opposition to be equivocal or at least not as strong as those against any form of legal abortion.

Luken won by 4,100 votes, getting 52 per cent of the total cast. He had pledged to vote for a discharge petition to take the anti-abortion amendment out of committee so that it could come to the floor of the House of Representatives.

That is the goal of the Right to Life lobbies throughout the country. In this way they hope to put every member of the House on record.

THIS BITTER controversy will be replayed in November since Gradison intends to run against Luken in the fall. It promises to come up in many congressional districts particularly where there is a large Catholic vote.

In Michigan, where President Nixon has sharpened a contest for another vacant seat long held by the GOP, abortion will not be an issue. That is because both candidates, James A.

Sparling, the Republican, and the Democrat, Bob Traxler, have both declared in favor of the amendment to the Constitution that would prohibit lawful abortion.

This is against the background of a fierce contest that brought abortion into the consciousness of Michigan voters throughout the state. A state constitutional amendment outlawing legal abortion was put on the ballot in the November election of 1972. At the start the polls showed that more than 50 per cent of the voters opposed the amendment.

But then the Right to Life organization began an intensive campaign. For three weeks they flooded the media with highly emotional propaganda. Full-page ads equated abortion with murder.

THE VOTE in November was 56 per cent for the amendment. It was a triumph for the forces, preponderantly Roman Catholic, that had swung the electorate against abortion in a remarkable short time.

On Jan. 22, 1973, the Supreme Court held in a lengthy decision written by Justice Harry A. Blackmun that any law prohibiting abortion would be a violation of the right of a woman to make her own choice up to three months of pregnancy.

The 7-to-2 decision by a Nixon appointee to the court stirred a storm of protest. Demonstrations were held in many cities. The proposed amendment to the Constitution supported by the Right to Life lobbies would undo the court's decision.

Four Cardinals of the church appeared before a congressional committee to voice their backing for the amendment. Mail inspired by Right to Life began pouring into the Capitol. Not for many years has an issue stirred such depths of feeling.

When they talk candidly in private, those at the top in Right to Life doubt that the amendment requiring under the Constitution a vote of ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures will be adopted.

In the meantime the right to abortion is being chipped away and particularly for the poor. For the rich it has never been a problem.

Hearings on budget boost slated

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings before the Senate Finance Committee are expected to begin soon on a Republican proposal to add about $56 million to Ohio's $10 billion budget for 1973-1975.

Its chances look slim. Sen. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, chairman of the Senate committee, and Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton, ranking Republican of the House Finance Committee, are leading the push for a supplemental appropriations bill when the legislature returns after the May 7 primary election.

They claim state revenues are running considerably higher than were estimated when the legislature passed the appropriations bill in June, 1973.

The $56 million figure is their estimate of the alleged surplus at the end of the biennium June 30, 1975. Dennis and Young want to split up the money in several ways with the major item being repeal of the state's 5 per cent personal intangibles tax on investment earnings. That would take $30 million.

They also would increase the personal exemption under the state income tax from $500 to $600. That would demand $7 million by cutting the state's tax take.

School subsidies would be extended to Ohio's middle cities in the amount of $3.4 million, a program for transporting mentally retarded pupils would get $5.4 million, special regional education training centers $2.5 million, funds for family practice departments in medical schools $1 million and the homestead property tax exemption would be increased by $3.5 million.

No sooner had Dennis and Young announced their plan at a news conference than the administration of Gov. John J. Gilligan and Democratic legislators set up a howl.

John B. Olsen, director of the Office of Budget and Management, denied the existence of such a surplus. He said the proposal was "somewhat surprising...in view of shortfalls in tax collections" during January, February and March of this year.

Olsen said that during March — for which Dennis and Young did not request figures — "the state's revenues fell $15.1 million below estimates, even after providing for the transfer of revenue sharing funds and the accrual of March liquor profits."

"There is no reason to presume that the state will realize greater than estimated revenues," said Olsen. "There is every reason to be concerned about a continuing decline."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Teacher lists benefits of controversial books

DEAR ABBY: As a teacher of 11th grade English, may I respond to the irate parent who objected to the "trashy" books his child was required to read in school? That letter could have been directed at me personally because I have recommended such widely accepted literary classics as "The Grapes of Wrath," "Brave New World," and the ever-controversial "Catcher In The Rye."

First of all, I respect the wishes of any parent who does not want his child to read certain books, and if the parent has the courage to let me know directly (and not through an anonymous phone call to my principal), I will gladly suggest some alternatives.

Second, I, like you, Abby, am also "turned off" by certain vulgar four-letter words, mainly because of my own straight-laced upbringing. However, I suggest that no one can judge a book by selecting isolated passages from it. For instance, both "Grapes of Wrath" and "Catcher in the Rye" deal with the importance of feeling a sense of concern and responsibility for one's fellowman.

I realize that this letter is probably much too long for your column but I feel so strongly about the value of presenting modern, readable and relevant books to our teenagers that I wish to air my views. As a teen-ager I never was nearly as excited about books as I am today and I attribute my lack of enthusiasm to the dull, "safe," uncontroversial books which were the typical fare for high school English classes back in the 50s.

I want more than anything else to create in my students a genuine desire to read, and that can be accomplished only by exposing them to thought-provoking books that speak directly to them in modern language which, unfortunately, often includes a few words which happen to be offensive to me.

A TEACHER (I HOPE)

DEAR TEACHER: Well put. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a mother-in-law who insists on naming our unborn SON? (If it's a daughter-no problem.)

Doesn't she know that the baby's name should be decided by the baby's mother and father?

THIS IS OUR FIRST CHILD and we are hoping for a boy, but this situation is making me secretly want a girl! Hurry your answer. I hope it gets here before the baby does.

MOM-IN-WAITING

DEAR MOM: No one can name your baby without your consent. When the baby arrives, don't "say" anything, do your own naming, and don't apologize.

DEAR ABBY: Why should parents of the bride pay for the wedding? I know the book of etiquette says they should, but that's not a good enough reason.

My father made it clear to his daughters that he would double mortgage his home to give us all college educations, but as for weddings he'd buy us a ladder. I didn't take the college education, and when it came time for me to marry, my fiancé and I decided to have a big wedding at our own expense.

Working together for a common goal taught us about the responsibilities we were going to have to face as husband and wife. After a year of scrimping and saving, we had a beautiful formal wedding with all the trimmings. We were so proud of ourselves!

Six years later, we are in our own home, with baby number two on the way. Everything we have we both worked for and we don't have to thank anyone but God for it. I want to say a big thank you to my father for making that decision and sticking to it. That was the best gift he ever gave me.

HAPPY INN.N.J.
DEAR HAPPY: Three cheers for Dad. And hooray for you and your husband. Young lovers, take note!

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — So you think a 30-inch screen is a real bonanza for TV viewing? Stay tuned, Bunky. You ain't seen nothing yet. How about a 75-ton TV set with six screens, each 26 feet wide and 22 feet high?

Agreed, it's not the sort of thing you'd put in the living room. In fact, it only will be installed in the new $163 million Louisiana Superdome they're currently building in New Orleans.

But it's intended to bring all the comforts of home viewing, even slow-motion replays, to the 80,000-plus souls Superdome officials hope will visit their emporium to watch sports and other events live.

The officials hope to have it working by Jan. 12, 1975, when, if the Superdome is completed, pro football's Superbowl 9 will be held in the 26-story enclosed arena.

The video monster, which costs an estimated $1.3 million, doesn't work like your conventional television system, according to Bob Jones, an ex-TV newsman who now is the Superdome's director of television.

There'll be conventional TV cameras on the field for closeup action, but that's where convention ends. He says the signals will be piped to a control room, then to six massive, Swiss-made projectors located at strategic points on the arena's fifth floor.

The projectors then will cast the images on the giant screens hanging in a circle from the center of the Superdome. Officials claim it'll give a spectator in the most remote seat a view akin to what he'd see were he sitting in front of a three-foot TV screen at home.

"We can do anything with this system that commercial television can do," says Jones.

Alas, that also includes commercials, which Jones says probably will run only 30 seconds and be flashed on the screen only during breaks in whatever action is afoot down on the field.

The commercials are expected to net the Superdome $210,000 next year, he said.

Has anyone raised the point it might seem a bit ironic to go to a stadium and pay money to watch a game on television?

"No, not really," Jones laughed. "I've had some thoughts about it, but I was absolutely amazed when I saw a system vaguely like this at the Capitol Arena in Maryland, just outside Washington."

The attraction was a circus, he said, and he was struck by the interest of spectators in the arena's four TV screens.

"I was sitting at one end, fairly high up, and I got a better view of some of the acts on the screen than actually looking at the acts themselves," he said.

"What I got was the atmosphere and spontaneity of sitting there, yet I got a nice close-up picture when I wanted one."

Bryce Harlow ends Nixon post

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Bryce N. Harlow has ended his job as White House counsellor.

Harlow was officially off the job Sunday. He began working at the White House when President Nixon took office in January 1969, left in June 1970 and returned last June to help the President through Watergate and other problems.

He returned to the Proctor & Gamble Manufacturing Co. as a vice president.

Brown County school plans on schedule

COLUMBUS — Plans for the construction of a new higher education facility in Brown County are progressing on schedule, according to Dr. James A. Norton, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents.

Representatives of the University and the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon in Brown County have been working closely with Jones, Peacock and Garne, Inc., a Cincinnati architectural firm, in the development of plans for the proposed facility to be constructed from a $1.5 million appropriation. The schematic drawings will be reviewed by the state architect and Ohio Board of Regents Wednesday, Dr. Norton said.

It is estimated that final plans will be completed and ready for bids by December, with construction beginning in the spring of next year. Completion of the 34,000 square foot facility is projected for early 1976.

Dr. Norton indicated his appreciation of the efforts of Richard Pulliam, director of the Tri-County Academic Center, and the Cincinnati planners in expediting the development of the new facility which will "greatly enhance the higher education opportunities for residents of southwestern Ohio."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Planetary influences are fairly generous, but you may run into some complex situations which will require exceedingly good judgment to solve. Be alert!

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Neither borrow nor lend now. Even small, "friendly" transactions are likely to cause some unpleasantness in the future.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Aspects somewhat adverse where money matters are concerned. Don't make unnecessary purchases and don't let your natural optimism lead you into speculative ventures.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

More information may be needed to consummate a pending business deal. With the added facts on hand, proceed as originally planned.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some confusion indicated during the early hours but it clears up WITHOUT your intervention, so don't let it disturb you. Evening favors romance, social activities.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't be too sure that your interests are not progressing. Look over the picture again. There is a proper delaying action in some areas. Don't give up.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Others may be overly aggressive, pressing for their "rights" to the exclusion of yours. Watch your own interests. Don't let them push you around.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You have good reason for optimism now. A superior's enthusiasm for your efforts not only pays off, but further spurs your ambition and incentive.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't regard decisions made in the a.m. as final. Certain circumstances may necessitate revision later in the day.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Home and family concerns under highly beneficial influences. In fact, a recent domestic problem will finally be straightened out satisfactorily.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Curb a tendency toward wishful thinking. This is a day in which to stress realism and practicality. Imagination is great—except when it runs out of bounds.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A curious suggestion may be made. If you have even the slightest doubt about it, reject summarily. Your hunches are usually correct.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great ambition and a high degree of energy and determination—which help you to achieve plateaus of success which others would often consider unattainable. Though not quite as versatile as many born under your Sign, you, nevertheless, have been endowed with a number of talents through which you could carve an enviable career. You should be musically inclined, and could succeed as either performer or composer—or both. Your magnetic personality, coupled with your sense of the dramatic, makes you a "natural" for the theater, and a scientific bent, bracketed with a lively imagination, may take you into the field of invention. Traits to curb: impulsiveness and overaggressiveness.

'Singing Teens' entertain Senior Citizens on Friday

The "Singing Teens," a choral group from the South Side Church of Christ, directed by Mrs. Frank Creamer, provided a most interesting program for the Senior Citizens on Good Friday. They sang a variety of numbers and their voices blended in beautiful close harmony. The girls wore identical long dresses, and the boys wore identical sweaters.

Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse introduced Mrs. Creamer and her husband, Frank, and the choir members each introduced himself.

Following the program, Miss Mary Frances Snider, director of the Senior Citizens, thanked all for their kindness in making the Easter season a more meaningful one to them.

Class plans anniversary party

The Home Builders Class of Madison Mills United Methodist Church met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hidy. The 14 members present observed a moment of silence in memory of the late Rev. Frank A. White. Mrs. Lester Haines, president, read "An Easter Meditation," and repeated "The 23rd Psalm."

Roll was answered by naming a hymn. The class will celebrate its anniversary with a potluck dinner at noon in the church annex at 12:00 p.m. May 5. All former members are invited to attend.

Mrs. Ethel Wilson conducted an enjoyable program, consisting of various contests and readings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett assisted in the hospitalities to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight King, Mrs. Blodwen Melvin, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays and Mr. and Mrs. Haines.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis and daughter, Lisa, were hosts at a family Easter dinner on Sunday. Others present were Dr. and Mrs. John D. Louis and son, Dave, Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Bielnow and Mrs. Mabel Louis.

Wife of casual clothes designer says she's always hated pants

By ALISON LERRICK
PARIS (AP) — Denise Poiret wore pants for the first and last time in her life in 1911.

That was the year that her husband, Paul Poiret, declared, "let women wear pants." At his famous extravaganza, "The Thousand and Second Night," Mme. Poiret escaped from her gilded cage dressed in a feather aigrette and the first pair of pantaloons that a Western woman had ever worn.

"I have always hated pants on women and I still do. All that fabric is very disagreeable between the legs. It's a shame that femininity should be spoiled by something that mostly doesn't even look good on women," Mme. Poiret remarks.

FIRST TIME EVER— Mme. Paul Poiret is shown in a 1911 photograph wearing her famed late husband's design of a feathered aigrette and the first pair of pantaloons that Western woman had ever worn.

Now, this venerable 88-year-old in a sweater and skirt is delighted, but not surprised, that the whole fashion world has suddenly "discovered" her husband, who died in 1944 and was the father of modern "undressy dresses," the casual clothes of today.

Aside from dresses, it includes paintings, namely by Van Dongen, that were formerly part of Poiret's private

Members who participated in the program were Linda Jordan, Joan Jordan, Jana Bolender, Kim Riley, Marilyn Creamer, Mary Lee Warning, Pam Henry, Linda Hollingsworth, Brenda Coulter, Gloria Bolender, Jim Eakins, Greg Sanderson, Marlin Everhart, Jeff Fannin and Kennard Beverly.

They sang "The Happy Side of Life," "Happy Am I," "It's A Wonderful Day," "Soft are the Winds of Summer," "Let the Whole World Know," "I Am Thankful to Be An American," (medley narrated with slides of places of interest), "Christ the Lord is Risen," "Let's Celebrate Easter," "Because He Lives," "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah, and "Something for Thee."

Bloomington women meet

Mrs. Ralph Ashbaugh presented the program when the Bloomington United Methodist Women met in the home of Mrs. Wayne Bloomer, instead of Mrs. Ralph Theobald. There were 16 present for the presentation and the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Eli Craig.

BPW Club welcomes new members

The annual orientation meeting of the Business and Professional Women was held at Anderson's Restaurant. Mrs. Wayne VanMeter, co-chairman of the membership committee, was in charge for the evening, and welcomed new members. She introduced Mrs. Shirley Wisecup, Mrs. Bonnie Schneider, Mrs. Marcia Bogenrife, Mrs. Frances Coe, Mrs. Joyce Fields, Mrs. Glenna Lindsey and Mrs. Jean Coulter.

Members of the club explained the purpose of the club and duties of various committees. Mrs. Donald Haines and Mrs. Harold Cruea explained the responsibilities of the officers; Mrs. Ella Flee, finance, music and bulletin; Mrs. Ann Cluff, membership, civic participation, personal development; Mrs. Edith Long, legislation, world affairs and federation; and Mrs. Van Meter, public relations.

The meeting closed with a dessert being served to those present.

collection, drawings of the dresses by Georges Lepape, wallhangings that Raoul Dufy designed for the Poiret barges that "made" the 1925 Art Deco exhibition in Paris and some of the paintings that Poiret himself did in later life.

A rather rotund and dapper man with a beard and satanic eyes, Poiret gave women back their bodies in 1906. At that time, fashion meant corsets, brocades, tight gloves, painful pointed toes and wasp waists.

Poiret replaced all this with the modern bra, girdle, garter belt and comfortable flat-heeled boots. His colors were red, green, purple and all bright shades instead of wishy-washy 19th-century pastels.

Critics complained that Poiret's "despairingly loose" Greek tunics and robes would encourage women to forget about keeping their figures. Little they knew.

The public was more direct. Less avant-garde people simply greeted the dresses with hisses, catcalls and on occasion even attacked the wearers. "When I went out on the street, everyone looked at me as if I were peculiar. I was terribly embarrassed. I told my husband I didn't want to go out alone any more. My clothes weren't eccentric. I just wanted to look elegant," Mme. Poiret recalls.

What provoked such public indignation? For example, her favorite dress, very shocking indeed. It was a simple loose sack.

As a faithful wife, she always wore a Poiret label inside her dresses. "My husband must have been amused if I had worn another designer's clothes. Once he asked me to, but I refused," she recalls.

She never bobbed her hair either, since her husband frowned upon the 1920s — short flapper dresses, the Charleston, Montparnasse nightclubs and all.

Now, Mme. Poiret still has 40 of her favorite dresses left. Many she gave away years ago to museums or to her "less fortunate friends, who were very happy to have a Poiret dress. Who wouldn't be? I wish I hadn't given them away," she adds with regret.

The ones she does have she still wears with pride. "Last year, I wore my little cloche hat from 1906. It looked good. When I go out in a pre-World War I dress, I don't feel out of style," she says.

What about the retrospective dresses "inspired" — to put it mildly — by Poiret that Paris designers are busy reproducing for spring?

"Frankly, I haven't followed fashion in decades. But there's no reason not to wear nostalgic clothes if they suit you and you like them. For designers to copy old dresses? Why not, if they haven't any other ideas," Mme. Poiret comments.

America's Sweetheart

HER SHOE-BUTTON eyes sparkle as Raggedy Ann gets embrace from her long-time companion, Raggedy Andy.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HER HAIR IS STRINGY, her eyes are ready and she's old enough to be Robert Redford's mother. Even so, she's America's sweetheart—everyone loves Raggedy Ann.

Other dolls walk, talk or perform battery-operated tricks. Raggedy Ann does not expect inspire affection, perhaps because her birth was a labor of love.

She came, by chance, from the pen of the late newspaper cartoonist Johnny Gruelle when his daughter Marcella, playing in the attic, found a rag doll so old that time had faded its features. Johnny refurbished them and Raggedy Ann was born.

Remembering two poems, "The Raggedy Man" and Little Orphan Annie," by John Whitcomb Riley, a friend of his father, Johnny called his creation Raggedy Ann. When she became his daughter's favorite plaything, Johnny wrote a series of stories about Marcella's adventures with her doll. First published in 1918, they are still childhood favorites. Raggedy Andy was written into the stories a few years later.

Marcella died in childhood, but she and her doll live on in imaginative stories that continue to delight each new generation.

The first Raggedy Ann doll, created to promote sales of the books, won so many fans that the doll went into mass production. It's estimated that more than 150 million have been sold over the years.

Beloved by children and adults, Raggedy Ann has received countless honors. The United States Government selected her as "The Classic American Folk Doll" and displayed her at Canada's Expo to convey the "American Spirit" theme.

Her real life adventures with world-famous celebrities are endless. She was Shirley Temple's first doll and she lived at the White House with infant Caroline Kennedy. She's performed with such top stars as Lucille Ball, Dustin Hoffman, Mia Farrow and Bob Hope. They love her in Virginia and Vietnam and wherever she goes.

What is the secret of Raggedy Ann's appeal? Worth Gruelle, son of her creator, thinks it's because she's family—even to complete strangers."

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — Beginning May 1, new minimum wage laws involving both salary increases and extended coverage will apply to over 56 million workers in the country.

The minimum wage changes are the product of three years of debate in Congress, most of it centering on how much to increase the minimum wage, how long it would take to go into effect, who would be covered by it and whether the youth differential would be retained or not.

A primary factor in all of these considerations was the impact these changes would have on the economy and how best to deal with inflation in the process.

There is no question that inflation was a major reason for wanting to increase the minimum wage in the first place. The cost-of-living has jumped by leaps and bounds since the last wage increase and those workers under the minimum wage have been caught in an economic vise squeezing more and more real purchasing power out of their dollars.

AS A RESULT, the new law will raise the minimum wage to an ultimate figure of $2.30 for all employees covered by it. The increases will take effect gradually with increments on a yearly basis.

Specifically, most workers' salaries would be raised to $2 an hour on May 1. This includes all nonagricultural workers who were covered by the minimum wage act prior to the 1966 amendments.

On Jan. 1, 1975, their paychecks would be upped to $2.10 per hour and on Jan. 1, 1976, they would reach the $2.30 an hour limit.

Workers not covered until 1966 or until the new 1974 amendments would get $1.90 per hour initially on May 1, 1974, and would have subsequent raises to $2., $2.20 and $2.30 an hour on Jan. 1 of the next three years.

In the category of workers newly covered by these 1974 amendments are federal, state and local employees, retail and service employees, domestic service or household workers, conglomerate employees (in agriculture), telegraph agency employees, motion picture theater employees, logging employees, and shade-grown tobacco processing employees. Roughly this amounts to an additional 6.9 million workers covered by minimum wage legislation.

Agricultural employees under minimum wage legislation would receive a new salary of $1.60 on May 1. In addition, they would enjoy 20 cents per hour increments on Jan. 1 of each of the next three years, ultimately getting $2.30 per hour by Jan. 1, 1978.

THE NEW LAW also makes some changes in the employment of students. Full-time students can be employed at wage rates less than those prescribed in the law in retail and service establishments, agriculture, and institutions of higher education at which they are enrolled.

The law stipulates that they may be employed at a wage rate of not less than 85 per cent of the applicable minimum wage rate or $1.60 per hour, whichever is higher.

A special certificate from the Department of Labor would be needed by the employer to hire students in this manner, however, which would acknowledge the employee's intent to work the students on a parttime basis not exceeding 20 hours in any work-week except during vacation periods.

The employer would also have to show that hiring students at lower wages would not create "substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities" for other workers.

The number of student workers allowed in retail or service establishments would be limited to the proportion applicable to the establishment in the preceding year, the maximum proportion to which the establishment was ever entitled or a proportion equal to 10 per cent of its total workforce, whichever is greater.

An employer who hires four students or less at a subminimum wage, however, could do so without following the traditional precertification process and educational institutions could also employ their own students without having to follow this procedure.

It has been eight years since the minimum wage has been increased and these raw raises are a matter of a simple justice for the millions of Americans covered by it. The changes are long overdue but hopefully now they will bring the salaries of these workers to a more realistic economic level.

DON'T DO IT! — This young man is asking for trouble by trying to get his kite out of a power line. DP&L says that children should fly their kites in an open field away from electric lines.

Kite-flying danger brings DP&L warning

Warm and windy weather signals the time for kite flying, which should be enjoyed, but enjoyed safely.

George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co., warns that boys and girls should be especially careful about flying kites near electric lines. These lines are easy to overlook, he said, but they can be dangerous if kites contact or are caught in them. He outlines the following suggestions to insure the maximum of safety when flying kites:

(1) In choosing a spot to fly, choose an open field away from not only power lines but any obstructions.

(2) Do not fly kites with metal frames or use cords reinforced with wire or any form of metal, since metal is a good conductor of electricity. Also, a wet cord can carry an electric current quickly, resulting possibly in severe shock.

(3) If a kite should accidentally catch on a power line, do not attempt to remove it.

Cent makes more sense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technically, the penny doesn't exist. The coin is a cent, or one-hundredth of a dollar. The term "penny" dates from the days when British coinage dominated the country's commerce.

Tommy Sands weds secretary

HONOLULU (AP) — Tommy Sands, teen-aged singing idol and actor of the 1950s and 1960s, has married a Honolulu secretary.

The ceremony was Sunday at the Kawaiahao Church here.

Sands, 36, married Sheila Wallace, 24, in the second marriage for each. She has two children by a previous marriage.

Sands is currently trying a singing comeback at a Waikiki nightclub after a four-year retirement. His last million-seller recording was "I'll Be Seeing You" in 1966. He appeared in the film "The Violent Ones" in 1967 and until recently had been conducting dinner and nightclub tours at Waikiki nightspots.

Interest, institutions curb market

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More than two factors are holding down the stock market but you'd find yourself with a following if you chose only two: High interest rates and the activities of institutions.

High rates mean that bonds compete with stocks for the investment dollar, reducing the flow of money that in more normal times might be expected to tend in the direction of equities.

Moreover, high interest rates cut into the profits of corporations by adding to costs, just as do increases in labor or raw material prices.

The activities of institutions, it is argued, are resulting in a two-tier market, with shares of a favored group of less than 100 companies attracting considerable interest and the rest of the market little interest at all.

Officers of some companies complain that they simply cannot interest portfolio managers of the institutions — mutual and pension funds, bank trusts and insurance companies — in the attractiveness of their wares.

In addition, they contend that when the institutions do become involved with shares of some of the smaller and lesser known companies they tend to dominate the market and sometimes produce sharp price movements.

"These practices alienated — and still do — the small investors and harmed many well-managed second- and third-tier companies," said C.V. Wood, Jr., chairman of the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies earlier this month.

The committee, observing its first anniversary, is made up of 632 corporations with total assets of more than $55 billion and 2.5 million shareholders whose shares are traded on most of the big exchanges.

Wood noted that for the second straight year, there are 800,000 fewer shareholders of American companies. Indicative of lagging interest in the market, only 99 new issues were marketed in 1973 compared with 568 in 1972.

This lack of interest in stocks has led to some of the lowest price-earnings multiples in decades. The committee claims that three-fifths of "leading" companies have multiples below 10, meaning their shares are priced at less than 10 times earnings.

Multiple problems result from low price-earnings multiples, and it's anyone's choice as to which are the worst.

For one thing, corporations badly need equity capital in order to maintain and expand their plants and equipment. The committee estimates that between now and 1985 the country will need $3.3 trillion in new capital simply to provide jobs and goods for an expanding population.

A problem of perhaps equal magnitude is that many of the companies in the second tier have stock prices so depressed that they are increasingly the target of takeovers by foreign concerns.

The first still-bladed ice skates were made in 1850. Wearing the new "Philadelphia skate," Jackson Haines of New York dazzled audiences in the United States and Europe by executing intricate figures to music. Called the "Father of Figure Skating," Haines revolutionized the art.

Europe no longer grain market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Europe, one of the world's largest markets for U.S. farm products, is rapidly on its way to becoming self-sufficient in grain and may move into international markets as an exporter much sooner than earlier expected.

The march by Europe toward self-sufficiency in grain was analyzed today in an Agriculture Department report. It was written by Donald M. Phillips Jr., a foreign demand specialist in the department's Economic Research Service.

Phillips cautioned, however, that estimates for European production — centered in European Community countries — are subject to change. But he acknowledged that "it is already evident" grain production is growing faster than forecast earlier by U.S. experts.

The impact on U.S. agriculture, if Europe attains self-sufficiency and becomes a net grain exporter, could be severe, the report indicated.

Phillips cited a recent study made by Prof. F. Uhlmann of the West German Institute of Agricultural Marketing Research. Uhlmann calculated the original six members of the Community — Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands and West Germany — will "attain virtual self-sufficiency" by 1975 and could be exporting as much as four million metric tons of grain by 1985.

Including the nine member countries — Denmark, Ireland and Britain are recent newcomers — Uhlmann said the community could grow enough grain for its own needs by 1985.

Phillips noted that other studies of European agriculture also have pointed toward the community becoming a diminished market for U.S. farmers in the near future.

A projection by Phillips' own agency showed recently that the European Community's purchase of foreign grain probably will drop to 1.3 million metric tons by 1985.

Phillips said U.S. grain sales to the community in 1972-73 totaled 13.3 million metric tons worth more than $900 million. During the first seven months of the current fiscal year, which began last July 1, shipments were 8.1 million tons.

"While the EC probably will continue to import some high-quality U.S. wheat as well as large quantities of corn, an over-all sharp decline in U.S. grain exports to the community seems inevitable, given the continuation of existing policies," Phillips said.

Pidcock to emcee Teen Talent Show

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club has again booked Jim Pidcock, former Columbus radio personality, to serve as master of ceremonies for the annual Teen Talent Show Friday night.

Pidcock, who has served as master of ceremonies during several of the Kiwanis Club's Teen Talent productions in past years, is local sales manager for WTVN Radio in Columbus.

He is still better known in the Columbus area as "John Dollar" although he hasn't been on the air as a disc jockey since 1965. After leaving the air, he became program director until November, 1968. He then switched to the station's sales department and in April, 1973, was named local sales manager.

Born in Madisonville, Ky., Pidcock moved to Columbus in 1961. He and his wife, Suzie, are the parents of three children.

The seventh annual Teen Talent Show will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday in

Mississippi floods bring death to 7

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Seven persons were dead and thousands were temporarily homeless today after weekend floods in southern Mississippi.

The floods were fueled by torrential rains, which began Friday and continued nonstop through Sunday, ranging up to more than 16 inches in areas.

Bridges were washed away and many roads were closed in the flood area, which stretched 150 miles across the state from the Mississippi River on the west to the Alabama border on the east and as far north as Jackson.

The National Guard was called out to help with evacuations in Columbia and Hattiesburg, and a state civil defense spokesman in Jackson said the number of persons evacuated probably would approach 3,000.

No major rains were predicted for the area through Tuesday, but some rivers had not yet crested.

Forrest County Civil Defense Director Harold Hill said the Bowie River is expected to reach a record 32 feet today. It rose to only 31 feet during a damaging flood in 1961.

Most residents of the small Greene County community of McLain had left their homes by Sunday evening, one resident said.

"There is no point in waiting," she said. "They lost so much the last time (in the 1961 flood), that they have moved everything out and up to higher ground already."

At Hattiesburg, officials said at least 500 persons were housed in five Red Cross and Salvation Army Centers Sunday night.

Between 200 and 300 persons were forced out of their homes Sunday in the low-lying Morgantown area near Columbia. Some 100 to 150 persons evacuated homes in other parts of Marion County.

Ohio income shows rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University reports personal income climbed 8 per cent in the 12-month period between February 1973 and the same month this year.

Income in February in Ohio, seasonally adjusted, amounted to $56.3 billion, the center said.

The center said all eight major city-county areas of the state reported payroll increase in the 12-month period except Akron and Dayton. Both experienced 3 per cent drops in income in February-February period, the center said.

Increase ranged from 8 per cent in Canton down to 1 per cent in Youngstown.

The center said payrolls in the construction industry in the state jumped 19 per cent in the year-long period under study, while payrolls for production workers and non-supervisory employees climbed by 2 per cent.

the Washington Junior High School auditorium.

George Gibbs, club president, said response from Washington Senior and Miami Trace high school students has been heavy this year.

Derailment spills liquid

EIGHTY FOUR, Pa. (AP) — Authorities say it may take a week or more to clean up the wreckage of a freight train which derailed and threw a scare into this small community because two tankers contained dangerous liquids.

Twenty-seven cars of the 65-car Chessie System train, loaded mostly with grain, went off the tracks in this Washington County town Saturday.

One tanker carrying hydrochloric acid landed on its end in Little Charters Creek and the white liquid began to leak into the water. Sour-smelling fumes poured from the leakage, prompting state police to warn residents to be ready for evacuation.

The leak later was found to be less serious than feared.

Another tanker contained dangerous propane gas and for a time authorities feared possible explosion.

That danger also subsided late Saturday when work crews emptied the propane into a tank truck and moved it from the scene.

More Ohio Guardsmen slated for Grayling

GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Possible fuel shortages have prompted the Ohio National Guard to decide to train an additional 2,700 troops at Camp Grayling this summer.

Officials said the troops, from the 107th Ohio Guard cavalry, originally were scheduled to train in Texas. Their addition will bring to 13,000 the number of guardsmen slated to train at the camp this summer.

JIM PIDCOCK

Pacific plane crash story said false

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The flight controller at New Caledonia's international airport today denied a report that a jet airliner had crashed into the sea off the French island in the South Pacific.

Major airlines servicing New Caledonia said none of their planes was missing. A full alert was ordered but was called off after all aircraft in the vicinity were accounted for.

Pierre Dubosq, the flight controller at Contouta Airport in New Caledonia, said a small airport 50 miles from Contouta reported receiving a distress signal from a small plane.

He said the pilot reported engine failure was causing him to lose altitude and he might have to land in the sea.

The nationality, type of plane and the pilot's name were not known.

Agence France Presse, the French news agency, reported in Paris that an airliner had made a crash landing north of New Caledonia, and 160 survivors had taken to lifeboats.

The French news agency said the plane was a Pan American airliner.

State highway crews ready for inspection

Workers at the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County are completing preparations for the annual spring inspection which will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Eugene Fitzpatrick said that, basically, mowing equipment will be subject to Tuesday's annual review.

Following the inspection, workers will be occupied with crack-sealing projects on Ohio 734, west of Jeffersonville, and on U.S. 35-S, in addition to spot berming, patching various roads and running the trash crews.

Sealing and general repair of damaged streets in Washington C.H. tops the worksheet for the city street department crews this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman, said the Circle Avenue repair work will top the list of street projects.

Agrico to build Arkansas plant

TULSA, Okla. — Groundbreaking ceremonies for Agrico Chemical Co.'s new $26 million nitrogen fertilizer plant will be held Tuesday, April 23, at the plant site near Blytheville, Ark.

Upon completion, scheduled for May, 1975, the plant will have a 1,000 tons per day urea production capacity and will represent a significant step toward expanding the country's fertilizer supply. During 1973 demand for fertilizer outstripped supply and continued shortages are projected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 1974.

The new plant will produce 330,000 tons per year of granular urea, a new and improved form of urea. Urea is one of the most popular forms of nitrogen fertilizer. Production from this plant will be marketed in mid-South and Midwest farming states.

Native of WCH leader in Xenia relief program

American National Red Cross officials working in the Xenia disaster area have announced that a Washington C.H. native has been appointed assistant director of mass care for the relief operation.

David A. Gerstner, son of Mrs. Mary Gerstner, 204 Ogle St., is a Red Cross first aid instructor employed at the Barney Children's Medical Center in Dayton. He will remain in the Xenia area until May 3, organizing the mass care phase of the relief operation.

One of the first volunteers on the scene, Gerstner helped man radio units to keep in touch with the Red Cross in Dayton. Then as more radio specialist came into the area, he was assigned to other facets of the operations and was busy nearly 24 hours each day.

An assistant director of mass care, Gerstner is involved in the coordination of mass feeding, distribution of clothing, furniture and personal items.

Say many crimes go unreported in large cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as half of the crimes in the nation's five biggest cities are not being reported, according to a new government survey.

And Donald E. Santarelli, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, says the disclosure carries "a strong message of public apathy toward...criminal justice institutions bordering on contempt."

According to the survey, released Sunday, the crime rate is five times as high as police records show in Philadelphia, nearly three times as high in Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles, and a little more than twice as high in New York.

"The crime survey results demonstrate that in an astounding number of instances Americans simply do not think it is worthwhile to report to public authorities that they have been the victim of criminal acts," said Santarelli.

The survey was conducted by the LEAA and the Census Bureau as part of a $10 million-a-year project to measure crime. An earlier study indicated that crime is twice as high as reported in Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas,

Mini-bikes are cause of 3 injuries

Three people were injured in mini-bike accidents over the weekend, including a Fayette County boy who was burned when gasoline he was draining out of his mini-bike ignited.

Jack Bernbaum, 53, Huddersfield, N.J., was injured when he hit a bump while riding a mini-bike at the Wilbur Rapp residence, New Holland, at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported.

He was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated for an injury to his right shoulder and then released.

Nancy Beth McCoy, 34, Rt. 5, also was injured while riding a mini-bike at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at her home.

The Sheriff's Department said that it was the first time she had ridden a mini-bike and panicked when she headed for a tree. She jumped off and complained of abdominal pain.

Ms. McCoy was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was admitted. Her condition at this time is not known.

Heat from a hot water heater ignited gasoline which William T. Dennis, 14, 1382 Meadow Dr., was draining out of his mini-bike gas tank, at 10 p.m. Saturday.

The boy suffered burns on his left hand and singed hair. He was brought to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment, sheriff's deputies reported.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was dispatched to the scene, but the fire was out upon their arrival. They reported no damage to the garage and $50 damage to the mini-bike.

DP&L invests heavily in Fayette County

The Dayton Power and Light Co. has invested heavily in Fayette County during the past 23 years. "The county has been growing and DP&L has had to come up with tremendous amounts of money to provide facilities to serve the area," George Winkle, Washington C.H. District Manager for DP&L said.

In 1950 DP&L had about $2,500,000 invested in property and plant in Fayette County. In 1973 the total investment had risen to $10,868,000. This investment produces income for governmental units in the county from property taxes. DP&L is one of the largest single property taxpayers in the county.

Winkle pointed out that DP&L must borrow money to build facilities to meet customer demands. "Bond issues are the major source of borrowing for the company. The last three bond issues required an interest rate of over 8 per cent. Inflation has caused the cost of borrowed money to increase substantially. Other costs of doing business have also risen."

Newark, St. Louis, Denver and Portland, Ore.

The latest study involved the questioning of persons in about 25,000 households and 10,000 businesses in the five cities during 1973. Those questioned were asked whether they had been raped, robbed, burglarized or assaulted during 1972 and if so, whether they had reported the crime to police.

Of those who did not report crimes 34 per cent said it was because of lack of proof or they felt nothing could be done. Twenty-eight per cent did not consider the crime important enough to report and others said they did not want to be bothered, it was a personal matter, it was too inconvenient or they were afraid of reprisal.

For all five cities, the report said, there was a total of 3.1 million crimes committed in 1972.

By comparison FBI statistics, compiled from local police agencies, listed 1.1 million crimes in the cities.

According to the study, 68 of every 1,000 Detroit residents are likely to be victims of serious crime.

It said the rates were 63 per 1,000 for Philadelphia, 56 per 1,000 for Chicago, 53 per 1,000 for Los Angeles and 36 per 1,000 for New York.

McDonald's groundbreaking ceremonies set Wednesday

Groundbreaking ceremonies for a new McDonald's restaurant will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday on the construction site on Elm Street at Olive Street.

Members of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's Ambassador Club will be attending the ceremony, along with City Manager Dan Wolford and representatives of the nationally-known fast food chain.

The restaurant location is across Elm Street from the Fayette County Bank on a tract of land acquired from Fayette Center Partners. The Miller Construction Co., of Columbus, is the general contractor.

Mitchell questioning nears end

NEW YORK (AP) — Cross-examination of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was expected to be completed today in his criminal conspiracy trial in U.S. District Court.

A tentative schedule for the remainder of the trial showed Mitchell's co-defendant, ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, taking the stand possibly Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both sides in the trial, now in its ninth week, were expected to rest Thursday.

The two former Cabinet members, who resigned to run President Nixon's re-election campaign, are accused of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Robert L. Vesco in return for his $200,000 cash contribution to the campaign.

of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said the Community Improvement Corp. will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 a.m. Tuesday in the City Office Building.

A luncheon meeting has been scheduled for 12 noon Thursday in the Washington Inn Restaurant for exhibitors and participants of the 1974 Fayette County Home Show. Dunn said this year's event will be reviewed during the meeting.

State school funding shows big increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State funding of public school operations in Ohio increased by $656 million, or 54 per cent, over the previous two-year budget period, the state Department of Education reports.

But, said the Buckeye Association of School Administrators, despite the dramatic climb in money for schools since passage of a state income tax, educators aren't convinced their problems are solved.

No less than 227 school districts in Ohio plan to ask voters for more money this year, a BASA survey showed. And 128 others indicate they'll try to pass new levies next year.

Said a BASA spokesman: The figures "tell us there is a critical need for money" in schools in the state.

Paul Spayde, a assistant state superintendent of schools, said the General Assembly for the 1969-70 fiscal period provided education with $494.3 million.

The income tax was passed in 1971, Spayde said, and the General Assembly upped its appropriation by 20.1 per cent, to $643.4 million.

Records show for last fiscal year, with the tax collections on income coming in for the first time, another substantial increase, of 18.6 per cent, to an appropriation of $763.2 million.

The state will pump a record $828.9 million into schools this year, Spayde said, and will allocate another $858.5 million for next year.

Spayde said even with the extra money, local school districts will pay most of the school expenses.

In Ohio, local school districts pay 59 per cent of school costs, he said, while the state provides 36 per cent and the federal government chips in 5 per cent.

He said this is only a little better than before passage of the income tax, when local government paid 64 per cent of the education bill and the state 30 per cent.

The BASA said school superintendents may have "oversold the tax as a cure-all" for school finance problems in urging passage of the income levy.

One problem, the BASA said, is that much of the additional money may have been eaten up by inflation.

Annual Cancer Unit smorgasbord Thursday

The tenth annual Dessert Smorgasbord, sponsored by the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairground as an educational meeting prior to the fund-raising crusade.

The smorgasbord is one of the highlights of the annual Cancer Crusade in Fayette County. The smorgasbord started primarily as a training session for cancer crusade volunteers, but over the years the concern of Fayette County residents for the well-being of individuals become so vast the smorgasbord developed into an educational meeting before Crusade Sunday.

Some 600 volunteers will be crusading for contributions Sunday, April 21. The contributions received will be used in cancer research, education and service.

"SERVING TABLES will be loaded with desserts high in calories and there will also be low-calorie desserts for the weight-watchers," said Mrs. L.C. (Sonny) Johnson, project chairman. "All clubs, organizations and individuals are invited to attend," she added.

Entertainment will be provided by the Miami Trace High School vocal music department and prizes, donated by Fayette County merchants, will be awarded. There is no charge for admission.

The principal speaker will be Dr. David H. Greigor, of Columbus. He will be speaking on the early detection of colon cancer.

Dr. Greigor, a 1941 graduate of Ohio State University's College of Medicine, specializes in internal medicine and is associated with Mount Carmel Hospital. He has been involved in cancer research aimed at screening tests for colon cancer. His appearance here was arranged by Dr. Byers W. Shaw.

Mrs. Bart Mahoney and Mrs. D.E. Mossbarger are co-chairmen of the smorgasbord event.

The results of experiments carried out in 1943 have shown that the fastest messages transmitted by the nervous system travel at 265 m.p.h. With advancing age, impulses are carried 15 per cent more slowly.

Fighting marks Easter holiday

By The Associated Press

Roman Catholics, Protestants and Orthodox Christians all celebrated Easter in Jerusalem on Sunday.

In Rome, Pope Paul VI urged mankind to follow "the law of duty, of service, of sorrow, of love, of sacrifice — the wise and true interpretation of human life."

Fierce fighting less than 100 miles away went almost unnoticed as pilgrims crowded into Jerusalem's Church of the Holy Sepulchre, believed to mark the site of the burial and resurrection of Jesus.

All Christians celebrated Easter on the same day because of a leap year in the Orthodox calendar. The Western rites held their services first; then the Orthodox worshippers took over.

Security precautions were increased in Jerusalem because of the Arab guerrilla raid in northern Israel last week. But there was no trouble. The Ministry of Tourism said there were more than 45,000 pilgrims — including Jews for Passover — in the city. The crowd equaled that of last year.

An estimated 17,000 persons turned out for the Hollywood Bowl sunrise service in California — the largest crowd in several years.

A chilly fog cast a pall over New York, but thousands milled around in their spring finery along 14 blocks of Fifth Avenue that were cleared of cars. The police were prepared for streakers with a supply of hospital gowns, but none appeared.

Easter took on a new meaning for many Christians in areas of the United States severely damaged by recent tornadoes.

"For the first time, people are really going to be able to understand what resurrection means," said the Rev.

Raymond D. Pope of the Faith Community United Methodist Church in Xenia, Ohio.

In Yellow Creek, Ga., members of the Community Baptist Church met for services where their wrecked church used to stand.

At the Vatican, Pope Paul — twice bedridden with the flu in the past month — ignored the advice of aides and held an outdoor mass on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica.

The day was damp and rain threatened, but 250,000 persons jammed St. Peter's Square. An estimated 200 million around the world watched on television as the 76-year-old Pope delivered his message in Italian in a firm voice.

The pontiff warned that "Hedonism, which becomes the false gospel of so many men and women of our time, is in the long run the philosophy of illusion and death."

High court again ponders obscenity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has before it new arguments on an old and solution-resistant issue: obscenity.

The constitutional dust hardly has had time to settle around the court's major obscenity decisions last June.

At that time, the court eased the burden of prosecutors in demonstrating to a jury that material is obscene.

But Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing for the majority, declared that "no one will be subject to prosecution for the sale or exposure of obscene materials unless these materials depict or describe patently offensive 'hard core' sexual conduct specifically defined by the regulating state law..."

One of two cases the court will hear today involves an R-rated, critically acclaimed movie, "Carnal Knowledge," which played successfully nationwide but was declared obscene in Albany, Ga.

One question raised in the case is whether statewide or local standards are to be used in determining limits of candor in depicting sex.

In June, the court dispensed with the requirement that obscenity be judged by a national standard, but left doubt as to what new geographic range was to replace it.

Another question is the manner in which state courts in Georgia met the high court's demand for specific language to warn pornographers what the law prohibits.

Georgia used the language of its indecent exposure law. Critics claim this makes any display of nudity punishable obscene. But, they say, it hardly fits Burger's description of "hard core" depiction of sexual activity.

In the second case, the application of the federal law against mailing obscene material is being examined.

In June, Burger said national standards for obscenity were "hypothetical" and "unascertainable."

The mail case could be used by the court to determine just what kind of geographic standard should be used for a federal obscenity law in light of the condemnation of a national standard.

Application of local standards to the federal law could, in the view of some, make First Amendment rights to freedom of expression a function of postal routes.

Oil costs may affect Lakes ships

DETROIT (AP) — The opening of the Great Lakes shipping season brought mixed opinions about how oil costs will affect the port of Detroit and the entire Great Lakes region.

Some shipping industry officials predict the high cost of oil will prompt many ocean vessels to bypass Detroit and dock at coastal ports to conserve fuel.

Still others predicted the high volume trading in oil and grain will cause a scarcity of ships on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

They said they believe owners of vessels will choose to race their ships back and fourth between U. S. coastal cities and overseas ports rather than tie them up in longer voyages into the lakes.

But William A. Filbin Sr., president of the Detroit Customs Brokers Association, painted a less dismal picture for Detroit.

"The amount of commerce going directly out of Detroit by ship is decreasing. But the number of transactions — the overall commerce — is as good or better than ever," he said.

A spokesman for St. Lawrence Seaway Corp. predicted more ocean vessels would enter the seaway because of favorable American-Canadian prices for fuel.

Perk to run without help from President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk said Saturday he would run for the U.S. Senate on his record and would not invite President Nixon or any other national figure to help him campaign.

"I don't know if I need anyone's help in campaigning," Perk told newsmen at Bowling Green State University. "I want people to vote for me on the basis of my record."

The mayor pledged that if elected to the Senate he would be a voice for the cities and work to overcome what he called congressional inaction on urban matters.

Perk added that he would oppose any attempt to force the President to resign. Such a move would make the U.S. "a second great power," he said.

Carl Yastrzemski's bat beats Tigers

By The Associated Press

Major league baseball found out about the birds and the bees Sunday. The American League got the bird while the National League got the bees. A swarm of bees in San Diego took over the home plate area in San Diego, briefly delaying the Padres' game against San Francisco—but that's another story. The bird was a victim of a "fowl" ball hit by Detroit's Willie Horton. And the Tigers were the victims of a couple of balls hit very fair...and very far...by Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, carrying the Red Sox to a 7-5 triumph.

In other American League games, Minnesota mauled Kansas City 8-0 and California trimmed Chicago 6-3 and, in a pair of doubleheaders, Oakland topped Texas 4-2, then the Rangers rebounded 10-2 in the nightcap, and the New York Yankees whipped Cleveland 9-5 before the Indians took the second game 9-6. Baltimore's game at Milwaukee was rained out.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 5
The ball, hit by Horton struck and killed a pigeon passing over old Fenway Park, landed only a few feet in front of home plate.

The pop-up by Horton in the ninth inning hit the pigeon, which fell dead immediately in front of home plate. "It scared the hell outta me," said Boston catcher Bob Montgomery. "I jumped a foot in the air—and Willie jumped even higher."

What killed the Tigers was Yaz' bat. He drove in two runs in the first inning with a booming double and later scored on Dwight Evans' home run.

Then Yaz crashed a homer of his own, a third-inning shot that proved to be the winning run. Ed Brinkman drove in three of Detroit's runs.

hitting with a grand-slam homer, a triple and two singles to lead Minnesota's assault against Kansas City—but the Twins were more concerned about pitcher Bert Blyleven.

The right-hander held the Royals to six hits before leaving the game in the eighth inning with a slight muscle strain.

"Without Bert we're in trouble," Darwin said. And Manager Frank Quilici added: "He's the gun, baby." But Blyleven downplayed his arm problem. "It's just a knot. It feels good now," he said after the game.

Angels 6, White Sox 3
Frank Robinson drove in a pair of runs with a homer—the 555th of his career—and a single and Dick Selma slammed the door on Chicago to lead the Angels, leaders in the West, to their sixth victory in eight games and keep the White Sox in the cellar with their sixth loss in seven.

Selma replaced Frank Tanana on in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and none out, got pinch-hitter Carlos May to hit into a force play at the plate and then got Dick Allen to ground into a doubleplay.

A's 4-2, Rangers 2-10
Reggie Jackson cracked two home runs, the second one a three-run eighth-inning job, to boost Oakland past the Rangers. He's hit five homers this year, all against Texas.

In the second game, though, it was Dave Nelson who feasted. He drove in six runs with a three-run homer, a two-run single and a sacrifice fly, to bring the Ferguson Jenkins and the Rangers a twinbill split.

Yanks 9-6, Indians 5-0
The Yankees, making like the Bronx Bombers of old, won the opener on six homers, including two by Graig Nettles and one each by Thurman Munson, Ron Blomberg, Bobby Murcer and Mike Hegan.

Nettles also homered twice in the nightcap—but so did Cleveland's Dave Duncan. His timely hits, and John Ellis' four runs batted in, carried the Indians to victory in the nightcap.

Despite struggle with bees, Padres sting Giants, 6-5

By The Associated Press

The San Diego Padres can wait until the National League approves the designated hitter rule, but they'll keep a designated exterminator on hand—just in case bees decide they like the surroundings in San Diego Stadium.

The bees put up a tenacious struggle to keep baseball from being played Sunday. They swarmed around the home plate area before the game started, preventing the Padres and San Francisco Giants from taking batting practice and delaying the start of the game for 26 minutes until the exterminator made his appearance.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4 in the first game of a twinbill but lost the second game 6-5; the Philadelphia Phillies swept the New York Mets 2-1 and 5-3 in a doubleheader; and the Los Angeles Dodgers drubbed the Houston Astros 7-2.

The Cincinnati at Atlanta and

Montreal at Chicago games were postponed by rain, with no makeup dates announced.

"I don't know what attracted them. I've never seen anything like this in baseball before," said John McNamara, manager of the embarrased Padres.

Some of the buzzing bees just wouldn't leave and the spray can made an appearance after nearly every half-inning.

The Padres won the game, by the way. Bobby Tolan's double scored Clarence Gaston to cap a five-run San Diego eighth inning and bring about a 6-5 victory.

Gary Matthews had put San Francisco in front 5-1 with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. But San Diego, with its new mascots, rallied to win.

Pirates 8-5, Cards 4-6
Rennie Stennett doubled for two runs in a five-run fourth inning which carried the Pirates to victory in the first game, but made a throwing error that resulted in two third-inning runs and a loss in the nightcap.

It was the first victory after six losses for the Pirates.

Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer for Pittsburgh in the first game and Stennett homered in the second. Bake McBride hit a home run for the Cardinals in the nightcap.

Phillies 2-5, Mets 1-3
The Phillies wrapped up both games in the late innings, taking the opener on a successful suicide squeeze bunt by Bill Robinson in the 11th and winning the second on a two-run double by Mike Anderson in the ninth.

The Mets managed only one run—Rusty Staub's first homer of the season—in the first game, despite 15 hits. Larry Bowa opened the Philadelphia 11th with a double off New York reliever Tug McGraw. Bowa moved to third on Mike Anderson's infield hit, then charged the plate with Robinson at bat.

The Phils were checked on two hits through seven innings of the second game, but broke through for two in the eighth and three in the ninth.

Dodgers 7, Astros 2

Ron Cey collected three singles and Jimmy Wynn added two—including his fourth home run of the season and a triple—to spark a 15-hit Los Angeles attack and swamp the Astros.

Tommy John gave up seven hits in winning his third game. Steve Garvey also homered for the Dodgers.

Flames' hopes singed in playoff finals

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero got mugged in Atlanta, then the Flyers went out and gagged the Flames...with the help of the National Hockey League's "bad boy," Dave Schultz.

With Shero back in Philadelphia recovering from the attack outside an Atlanta hotel Saturday night, the Flyers ended the Flames' playoff hopes Sunday night, beating them 4-3 on Schultz' goal at 5:40 of sudden death overtime.

The victory gave the Flyers a four-game sweep of the scheduled best-of-seven quarter-final Stanley Cup series and put them into the semifinals against either the Montreal Canadiens or New York Rangers.

The Rangers squared their series against Montreal at 2-2, rally for a 6-4 victory over the Canadiens Sunday.

The other semifinal will send the Boston Bruins against either the Chicago Black Hawks or Los Angeles Kings. The Bruins eliminated Toronto in four straight games with a 4-3 overtime triumph Sunday, while the Kings gained their first victory in four games against Chicago with a 5-1 decision as Tom Williams fired in three goals.

In the World Hockey Association playoffs Sunday, the Houston Aeros and Minnesota Fighting Saints advanced to the semifinals. Houston completed a four-game, quarter-final sweep over Winnipeg, beating the Jets 5-4, while Minnesota topped the Edmonton Oilers 5-4 for a 4-1 series triumph.

The New England Whalers, defending WHA champions, squared their quarter-final series against Chicago 3-3, blanking the Cougars 2-0. The winner of that series will face the winner of the Cleveland-Toronto series in the semifinals.

South African wins second jacket

Gary Player captures Masters crown

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player was striding down the 17th fairway at the Augusta National Golf Club, a white cap pulled low over his eyes, and was pondering his second shot to a hard, fast green that had been his nemesis for nearly two decades.

"I haven't hit this green six times in the 18 years I've been playing here," he said to his caddy, Eddie McCoy. "But it won for me in 1961 and it's going to win for us again."

The little South African, dressed in black from neck to shoes, took a deliberate stance and let fly with a nine-iron.

The ball described a beautiful arc and plopped to within six inches of the pin—a virtual tapin for a birdie three.

That one dramatic shot broke the logjam among four leaders Sunday and decided the 38th Masters Tournament, Player winning it at 10 under par—two strokes ahead of Dave Stockton and Tom Weiskopf.

Player, 37, from far off Johannesburg, repeated a victory he first scored in 1961—a record 13-year gap—and fixed his sights on new horizons.

"This gives me the first leg on the Grand Slam," Player said, referring to the four major championships—U.S. and British Opens, the PGA and Masters—which no man has ever won in a single year.

"At least, I am the only man with a chance this year to win it."

It is the last major goal also of Jack Nicklaus, holder of a record 14 major championships who made a spectacular come-from-behind stab at a fifth Master's crown with an eagle at the par-five 13th, only to falter with bogeys at the 14th and 16th.

At one stage in the exciting Easter Sunday showdown, Big Jack, Player and Weiskopf were tied for the lead with Stockton only a stroke behind and pressure building from such sources as Bobby Nichols, Frank Beard, Jim Colbert, Phil Rodgers and Dave Hill.

Player finished with a 278, the first prize of $35,000 and the traditional green Masters jacket, which was a couple of sizes too big.

Havlicek sparks Celtics' victory

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks are hoping that history repeats, but with captain John Havlicek healthy and in top form, the Boston Celtics figure to be even tougher this year in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference playoff final.

The Celtics got off to a quick start in the best-of-seven series, whipping the Knicks 113-88 Sunday with a tough defense and hot shooting. The teams will play Game 2 in New York Tuesday night.

The series opener was virtually a replay of the first game between the same clubs last year, the Celtics drubbing the Knicks 134-108. However, the Knicks rebounded in New York 129-96 in the second game and went on to win the series and the NBA championship.

Havlicek, a superstar, suffered a shoulder injury in the third game last year and the Celtics were unable to compensate. The shoulder mended during the off-season and the 12-year pro from Ohio State is flying.

Dividing his time between a forward position and the backcourt, Havlicek scored 25 points, collected 12 assists and grabbed four rebounds before being removed with 9:15 left and the Celtics in command with a 93-64 lead.

"Havlicek did it all," said New York star Walt Frazier. "He's always moving, and can make shots on the run. You can get the best position on him and he still gets the ball off. You can't relax on him. We're going to have to stop the Celtics from running. We didn't today."

The winner of the Boston-New York

series will face the winner of the Milwaukee-Chicago Western Conference series for the NBA title. The Bucks and Bulls play the first game of their best-of-seven set Tuesday night at Milwaukee.

The American Basketball Association also is into its league semifinals. In the East Division, the New York Nets, leading Kentucky 1-0, meet the Colonels tonight in Game 2 at Uniondale, N.Y., and in the West, the Utah Stars, with a 1-0 advantage over Indiana, face the Pacers again tonight at Salt Lake City.

The Celtics hit 44 of 85 shots for a lopsided victory before a crowd of 14,101 and a national television audience. New York hit on only 34 of 103 field goal attempts, a poor 33 per cent.

Harris Auction wins Lions' tournament

With Gary Shaffer and Fletcher Yates scoring over half of its points, Harris Auction dominated the second half to defeat Superior Carpet 98-99 in the finals of the Sabina Lions' Club Tournament, Saturday night.

Shaffer, who is the varsity basketball mentor at Washington Senior High School, fired in 43 points to lead his squad. Yates added 29 points, as the two players combined for 72 of the team's 98 points.

Winners of the foul shooting contest were also announced. From the 3rd-4th grade level, Charley Hargrave came in first and Todd Evans wound up second. In the 5th-6th grade, the top winner was Jerry Mount, as Allen Stanforth placed second. First place honors went to Rick Spurlock in the 7th-8th grade level, as Mark Webb took second.

All five players hit double figures for Superior. Top scorer was Phil Snow, who came through with 20 points. Dale Jones pumped in 19, Junior Rollins and Gary Rhinehart each had 18 and Tim Wilson collected 14.

Superior out-scored Harris in the first two periods and took a 43-39 lead at half-time. However, in the third period, Harris out-scored its opponents 28-19 and held the lead for the remainder of the game.

Tops game winners

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates led major leaguers last season in game-winning hits. His hits won 23 games for the Pirates. In the American League, Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's made hits that decided 18 games.

Among American League designated hitters, California's Frank Robinson and Boston's Orlando Cepeda were tops. Each delivered hits that helped win 15 games.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♦	Pass
1♠	2♣	4♣	Pass

Opening lead - three of diamonds.

There are times when you must muster your courage and make a play that borders on the insane. But if that's the play, the situation demands, you make it - even though you may wind up embarrassed if the play does not succeed.

Consider this deal played in the 1972 Vanderbilt in the match between the Precision team and the Dallas Aces. The bidding went as shown when Mike Lawrence, playing with Bobby

Goldman for the Aces, found himself on lead against four spades. (The four club bid by North had designated good spade support and a singleton club.)

Lawrence had a wide choice of opening leads, but decided that the only real chance of stopping the contract was to rely on ruffs rather than high cards. Accordingly, he led a diamond.

Goldman had no trouble reading the lead as a singleton. He took the ace and returned a diamond, which Lawrence ruffed.

It did not take Lawrence long to figure out the winning line of defense. At trick three he played the four of clubs, hoping to find partner with the jack. Thereupon, in true storybook fashion, Goldman won the trick with the ten, returned a diamond for Lawrence to ruff, and South went down one before he could even say Rumpelstiltskin.

Lawrence's underlead of the A-K-Q had much more behind it than raw courage. He reasoned that there was a far better chance of finding partner with the jack of clubs than a trump trick, and he was merely following probabilities by making the low club play.

Lawrence disregarded the possibility that his underlead might let declarer make five spades instead of four. Defeating the contract was his number one consideration.

Speaking of Your Health...

Smoking And Leg Cramps

I've been told to stop smoking because I get cramps in my legs. I can't see the connection between the two.

Mr. R.E., Mich.

Dear Mr. E.: I have always emphasized to my readers that when they understand the reasons for any treatment they are more likely to rigidly follow the doctor's instructions.

Unless it is clear to them, the chances are great that they will casually disregard the importance of those instructions.

It is well established that the toxic agents in cigarettes are responsible for the contraction of the blood vessels in the body. It is this contraction and the narrowing of the arteries that cut down on the free flow of blood.

When the muscles of the legs are deprived of the oxygen that normally is carried in the blood stream, they go into spasm, and severe pain results.

The oxygen requirements of the muscles of the legs are no different from that of the heart muscle and other organs of the body.

While cigarette smoking is not the only reason for blood circulatory disturbances, it is a most important one.

Some people are particularly subject to tobacco toxicity and develop Burger's Disease, a special circulatory problem of major importance.

There now are a great many tests by which the blood flow of the arteries can be measured. The oscillometer is a highly sensitive instrument which can measure the pulsations of the arteries in the foot and leg.

Electronic thermometers, when applied to the skin, can measure the slightest diminution of temperature. This is a guide to the reduced flow of blood to the extremities.

Anyone subject to the leg cramps you describe who continues to smoke is toying with his health and possibly his life.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Nonfunctioning pilot lights in gas ovens can cause explosions. The accumulation of nonodorous gas is a major hazard within the "safety" of the home.

Commissioners arrange test of tornado warning siren

Members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning discussed the feasibility of testing the large wailing warning siren located atop the Courthouse building

Four minor auto mishaps investigated by officers

A Fayette County girl claimed injury from an accident Sunday evening, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported along with a hit-skip accident in a tavern parking lot. City police reported a Fayette County woman was charged with failure to yield the right of way in an accident Sunday morning.

A blowout caused a car Christine Y. Lowry, 16, Ohio 207, was driving, to run off Ohio 207 and then skid back across the road, hitting an embankment, at 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

The accident which moderately damaged the Lowry auto, occurred three-tenths of a mile north of Cook-Yankee town Road, sheriff's deputies reported. She claimed injury, but was not treated.

A hit-skip driver collided with a car driven by James R. Stewart, Greenfield, and owned by Highland Ford Co..

Airlift Group puts its training to good purpose

COLUMBUS — A recent reserve training weekend at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, started out like any other for the 906 Tactical Airlift Group's Communications Flight.

The flight's seven members settled down with their radios last Saturday morning operating their normal network, one with the 911 Tactical Airlift Group in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the other with the Northcom area.

Then the first radio call from Xenia was received, requesting that a message from that tornado-devastated community be relayed to the Columbus Red Cross chapter. That was the first of over 200 radio messages that the 906 Communications Flight relayed between the disaster area and

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two hitchhiking teen-agers were critically wounded in what police say was the latest in a series of senseless shootings. Eleven persons have been killed in random attacks since November.

Homicide Inspector Frank Falzon said the shootings Sunday night were "most definitely" linked to the so-called Operation Zebra shootings.

Zebra is the police code for 15 shootings which caused the 11 deaths over the five-month period and set off the largest manhunt in the city's history. In each case, a black assailant shot a white victim at nearly point-blank range. Police have been unable to determine a motive for the shootings.

Ward Anderson, 18, and Terry White, 15, were approached by "at least one black man who opened fire at a distance of about five feet and fired several times," Falzon said.

The youths were reported in serious but stable condition after undergoing surgery at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Falzon said casings from a .32-caliber automatic weapon — the same type used in the other Zebra shootings — were found at the scene.

About 20 minutes after the double shooting, a man told police a gunman fired a sawed-off shotgun at him from a passing car about a mile and a half from where the two youths were gunned down.

But police said they were unable to find any evidence of the blast, and doubted the shooting took place.

Bainbridge, sometime Sunday.

Stewart had parked his car in the Mini Bar parking lot, Ohio 41-S, where the incident occurred. Moderate damage was incurred by the auto and sheriff's deputies are investigating.

City police charged Ruth D. Matson, 72, of 322 Eastern Ave., with failure to yield following an accident at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Street with a car driven by David C. Holbrook, 17, of 4907 Ohio 41-N, at 11:50 a.m. Sunday. Moderate damage was reported to both cars.

A Louisville, Ky. woman ran off U.S. 35, near Allen Road, and struck a stop sign at 8:16 p.m. Sunday.

State Highway Ptl. Loren Butcher, of the Wilmington post, reported Suzanne Fister, 26, was uninjured, but her car was moderately damaged.

central Ohio during their April 6-7 drill weekend.

Lt. Col. Samuel Bailey, of Dayton, 906 Communications Flight commander, said that most of the messages concerned the welfare of people caught in the tornado.

"People from outside the area wanted to know how friends and relatives in Xenia were getting along, and people in Xenia wanted everyone to know they were alright," Lt. Col. Bailey said.

Sgt. Larry Kelly, of Washington C.H., was one of the reservists participating in the project.

Nixon asks extension

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, who has been told he owes $467,000 in back taxes and interest, has obtained a 60-day extension of the April 15 filing date for his 1973 tax return.

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the extension was the type "any taxpayer can request" for additional time in filing a return.

He said Nixon asked for the extension because of the possible effect of the back-tax ruling on his 1973 return.

The Internal Revenue Service and a joint congressional committee on taxation ruled April 3 that Nixon owed back taxes for the years 1969-72.

The IRS disallowed Nixon's deductions for the gift of his vice presidential papers and certain real estate. Nixon has said he would pay the taxes.

City, county residents report weekend larcenies

Seven 8-track tapes and a billfold containing $40 was taken from a Washington C.H. woman's car over the weekend police reported, also listing two bicycle larcenies and a bicycle recovery.

The Sheriff's Department reported a stolen mini-bike and two recovered bicycles.

The tapes, valued at $42, and a billfold, which contained $40, were stolen out of a car owned by Sandy Minzler, 610 Broadway, sometime between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday.

Police reported the car was parked in front of the Minzler residence when the theft occurred.

A girls' 20-inch bicycle, valued at $25, was taken from the lawn at the John Phillips home, 334 Delaware St., sometime Friday morning and a bicycle was also taken sometime between Thursday night and 12:30 p.m. Saturday from the sidewalk in front of the Randy T. McKinny residence, 640 S. Fayette St. This bicycle, valued at $79, was a boys' five-speed, black "Flying disaster in light of the tornado which devastated the neighboring community of Xenia recently.

Denen tentatively has scheduled the initial test of the warning siren at noon Wednesday. He also suggested that the siren be tested four times per year.

The tentative schedule calls for alert test warnings on March 22, June 22, Sept. 22 and Dec. 22, according to Denen.

COMMISSIONERS strongly suggested that Denen coordinate a test alert with neighboring volunteer fire departments. The Washington C.H. fire chief will be contacting volunteer firemen at Good Hope, Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville, Staunton and New Holland in an attempt to schedule an alert test warning in unison on Wednesday.

Board member Ray D. Warner also said he suggested to Denen that a countywide meeting be scheduled to prepare disaster plans in the event of an emergency.

Officials will be attempting to provide Washington C.H. area residents with a 5 or 10-minute advance notice in the event of a disaster.

The master control switch for the large warning siren is located in the Washington C.H. Fire Department. The siren blast can be heard over most of Union Township. The siren, which was purchased by the city in 1962, is located in the bell tower atop the Courthouse building.

BOARD CHAIRMAN J. Herbert Perrill said the commissioners have not yet received a reply from a request sent last Thursday to Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan requesting that Fayette County be included in the Ohio disaster area because of the heavy loss incurred following a twister recently on the Wentz Road near Jeffersonville.

Damage loss has been estimated at $140,000 from the apparent tornado which completely destroyed five mobile homes and damaged another. A total of nine persons were injured in the storm.

Perrill said Fayette County will be placed on a list in Columbus, and authorities will inspect the Wentz Road damage to determine if residents will qualify for low-interest rate or disaster relief loans.

COMMISSIONERS also scheduled the final public hearing on proposed subdivision regulations for Fayette County. The hearing will be held at 3 p.m. May 20.

Perrill said some changes have been incorporated in the subdivision standards since the last public hearing when developers voiced their objections to certain aspects of the new regulations.

He said the public hearing will be final provided no more changes are made. The Fayette County Planning Commission has scheduled its final public hearing on the proposed standards at 7:30 p.m. May 14.

Commissioners attended a meeting last week regarding a proposed three-county ditch project. The project calls for improving the Sugar Creek Ditch which extends from the Fayette County line into Madison and Clark counties.

Perrill said it appears that Fayette County will not be involved in the ditch improvement project.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 27 reports for the week.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., proponents of opposing views, agreed on and introduced a compromise bill with less government participation than Kennedy previously had insisted on and more than Mills had favored.

Mills has announced plans for consideration of this legislation one day a week, with the rest of the time going to tax reform.

Albert, acknowledging that the timing is tight, has said "we want a health insurance bill this year."

A member of Mills' committee predicted privately that as time goes on the immensely controversial provisions of a general tax reform bill will remain unresolved and the emphasis will swing to getting out the health measure.

Mills himself has voted that the outcome may be a sharply limited tax bill trimming some obvious preferences — and a promise that, without fail, the general revision will be tackled in the next congress.

Just before the recess, the Senate passed a tough bill emphasizing public financing of campaigns.

There is strong opposition on the House to public financing, especially of congressional campaigns, a feeling shared by Chairman Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, of the Administration Committee that is in charge of the legislation. Up to now, the House bill has not progressed far but hearings are under way. Albert reportedly has done some discreet prodding.

"The nation's first priority should be to combat unemployment and to perk up productivity by creating jobs," the Speaker said in his recess statement. "We should seek to increase small business loans and to loosen the shackles on credit that now hogtie the housing industry...We need public service employment programs..."

A supplemental appropriation bill exceeding Nixon's recommendations for funding public service jobs cleared the House just before the recess.

A major housing measure that would cover some of the other areas Albert cited is taking shape in the House Banking Committee.

Police auction sale realizes $800-plus

More than $800 was collected during an auction sale of stolen and unclaimed merchandise conducted by the Washington C.H. Police Department Saturday afternoon in the city service department garage on W. Elm Street.

Police Specialist Larry Walker said about $872 was realized, but an exact figure will not be known until a final tally is completed with Jack Stackhouse, city auditor.

A total of 142 items were placed on the auction block. Included were 34 bicycles, hub caps, cameras, radios, clothing, 50 packs of cigarettes and a toothbrush.

Police officers arranged a system in which bidders were required to register. Walker said there were 187 bidders.

The auctioneer for the sale of the merchandise which has been held by city police for over 90 days was Police Specialist William Cales.

CALES, who is involved with Boy Scout troops in Fayette County and has handled some auctions for them, knocked down the 142 items in about an hour and a half.

The bicycles seemed to be the principal item of interest among the nearly 200 bidders.

A 10-speed racing bicycle was purchased for $65 and ranked as the highest priced item on the list. Other 10-speed bikes were sold for around $50, and some of the older bicycles averaged about $10 each.

Money collected from Saturday's police auction sale will be placed in the city's general fund.

Assisting Cales besides Walker were Police Chief Rodman Scott, Police Specialist Larry Hott and Patrolman Mike Stritenberger.

New motel scheduled north of Wilmington

WILMINGTON — Construction will begin soon on a new 48-unit, two-story modular motel to be located north of Wilmington near I-71.

Thomas C. McMillan, Rt. 3, Wilmington, owner and builder announced that the motel will be located just west of the present L-K restaurant off the U.S. 68 and I-71 interchange.

The complex will be leased and managed by L-K Enterprises, a Consolidated Foods Co. division.
